TWO FRISCO PASSENGER TRAINS IN COLLISION

Fireman Reported Dead and Engineer Injured in Wreck 35 Miles From St. Louis—Storekeeper Says 10 or 12 Persons Were Slightly Bruised.

NO PASSENGERS HURT, ROAD OFFICERS SAY

Southbound Train Runs Into Northbound, Waiting on Main Track, After Slowing Down to 20 or 25 Miles an Hour.

E. E. Jones of Chaffee, Mo., a Frisco railroad locomotive fireman, was fatally injured, and George Weston of 3826 McDonald avenue, an engineer, was seriously injured, when two passenger trains of the Frisco's-St. Louis and Memphis division collided head-on at Horine, Jefferson County, 35 miles south of St. Louis, at 9:20 a. m. today. Jones died while being brought to St. Louis. Weston is in the Frisco Hospital.

Jones was fireman on No. 806, northbound from Memphis, which was standing at Horine when No. 801, southbound, ran around a curve and struck it. Weston was the engineer, of 801, which left Union Station at 7:45 a. m. No. 806 was hours late, having been due in St. Louis at 7:20 a. m.

Engineer's Skull Fractured.

Engineer Weston suffered a fracture of the skull. He is 56 years old.

Inquiry by Frisco Railroad employes did not schow that any passenger, or any employe except the two named, had been injured.

T. A. Hamilton, vice president of the Frisco, in charge of operation, who was on No. 806, made an investigation. He questioned Michael Weston, fireman of 801, who is the son of the injured engineer of the same train.

Fireman Weston said his father had received an order to take a siding near Horine to permit 806 to pass. He said his father disregarded this order, because he was convinced that No. 806 had reached St. Louis.

Was Able to Slow Down.

As the southbound train rounded the curve above Horine, the father and son in the engine cab saw No. 806 standing on the main track, about 400 feet away. The engineer put on the brakes, and reduced the speed. Fireman Weston said, from 45 to 25 miles an hour, before the crash.

Fireman Weston jumped, and was not hurt. George Davis, engineer of 806, also escaped injury.

The baggage car and one coach of 801 were battered, but none of the cars left the track.

Passengers of the northbound train were brought into St. Louis by a local train, No. 824, which arrived here about noon. No. 806, with another locomotive, arrived at 2:15 p. m.

Near Scene of Aug. 5 Wreck.

Horine is the junction point of the Frisco and Missouri Pacific southbound lines. It is seven miles south of Sulphur Springs, where the wreck of two Missouri Pacific passenger trains, causing 34 deaths and injuries to about 150, occurred a week ago Saturday night.

PITCHER DOUGLAS OF 'GIANTS' PLACED ON INELIGIBLE LIST

Charged With Offering to Desert New York Club if Competing Team "Would Make It Worth While."

PITTSBURG, Pa., Aug. 16.—"Shuffling" Phil Douglas, premier pitcher of the New York Giants, was placed on its permanent ineligible list in a statement issued by the club here today. Douglas is charged with writing a letter to a competing team offering to desert the Giants if it "would make it worth his while."

"'Phil' Douglas has been put on the permanent ineligible list by the New York National League Baseball Club for writing a letter to a member of a competing team offering to desert his club if it would make it worth his while," said the statement. "Douglas does not deny he wrote the letter. We went through with this at the solicitation of Mr. Heydler, president of the National League."

Douglas' Pitching Record This Year One of Best in Career.

Douglas, nicknamed "Shufflin' Phil" by scribes throughout the circuit because of his slouching gait, is 32 years old, a native of Cedartown, Ga. He first came up to the big leagues in 1912 when he joined the Chicago Americans for a short time, but was sent to Des Moines for further development.

He returned to the American League the following year, but still failed to make good. In 1914 he joined the Cincinnati National League club after having spent two years with Pacific Coast clubs. Next year he was with three National League clubs, Cincinnati, Brooklyn and Chicago.

It was with Chicago that he first began to show real class, but his deportment was such that the Cubs parted with him and sent him back to the minors at St. Paul. He was back with the Cubs the following two years, but in 1919 he was sent to New York in mid-season. There he developed into a really great pitcher, although always something of a question mark because of his disposition.

This year has been one of Douglas' most successful seasons. His record for 1922 is the second best in the organization, with 12 victories and only four defeats.

Recently Douglas left the club for about a week and was strongly criticized. When he returned he went into the press box after the scribe who had criticized him.

Branch Rickey of the Cardinals was asked if the letter written by Douglas had been directed to any member of the Cardinals. Rickey said: "The whole situation is deplorable, but I cannot discuss the subject in any shape or form further."

8500-MILE FLIGHT TO BRAZIL IS BEGUN

Unofficial Statements Are That Stop at Rockaway May Consume 2 or 3 Days.

By Leased Wire From the New York Bureau of the Post-Dispatch.

NEW YORK, Aug. 16.—With hundreds of persons along the shore cheering and with steamships and other river craft blowing a shrill farewell, the Sampaio Correia took the air at 16 minutes past 1 o'clock this afternoon in ethe North River, at the foot of West Eighty-second street, on the first leg of its historic 8500-mile flight to Brazil.

Accompanying the giant seaplane were two smaller craft of the Aeromarine Airways, which rode with her to the Rockaway Naval Air Station. The official announcement was made that the big plane would stop off at Rockaway for gas and hop off again a few minutes after arriving there. But it was unofficially stated that the stopoff at Rockaway would be for at least two days, and herheps three.

Repairs had been made to the big ship following her collision with an empty lemon crate yesterday afternoon when she landed on her flight from the Naval Air Station, but it was given out that Walter Hinton, commander of the craft, was not at all satisfied with what had been done. It was intimated that repairs of a more permanent nature would hsave to be made before the S C starts her journey from North to South America.

Hinton at Controls.

Commander Hinton was at the controls when the Sampaio Correia took off, and in the cockpit with him were Dr. E. Pinto Martins, assistant pilot and navigator; John Wilschusen, mechanician; George T. Bye, reporter for the World, and J. Thomas Balzell, Pathe News photographer. All were in high spirits when they waved farewell to their relatives and friends on the landing places along the shore.

The hop-off had been postponed twice as a result of damage the ship when she landed yesterday. It originally had been planned that the take-off should be made at daybreak, but a postponement was made until 10 this morning, and at that hour it was announced that another short postponement was necessary. The second delay was the result largely of an 18-mile headwind that was blowing at that hour.

Walter Hinton, commander and pilot of the big flying craft and Dr. E. Pinto Martins, assistant pilot and navigator, remained at the ship until 2:30 this morning supervising repairs, and were back at an early hour after a short sleep. The punctured pontoon, which struck an empty lemon crate when the flying boat landed yesterday, had been fixed, and a patch put o nthe torn wing. The only remaining work needed at 9 o'clock was the placing of another coat of paint over this patch.

Worked All Night.

Mechanicians of the Aeromarine Airways, at those landings float the Sampaio Correia is tethered, worked feverishly all night to prepare for the big ship for its take-off. The mechanicians were H. R. Thompson, Harold McCann and A. Niggard. Working with them were D. F. Tressler and Thomas Pell, from Philadelphia former associates of Dr. Martins in that city.

ELECTION LIST WAS COPIED, IS CHARGE

Secretary of County Republican Committee Files Deposition.

Harry Kassebaum of Mattese, St. Louis County, secretary of the Republican County Committee, declared in a deposition given before Attorney-General Barrett and Special Assistant Attorney-General Randolph Laughlin at Jefferson City yesterday that lists of officials to serve in the county precincts for the primary election on Aug. 1 were copied by typewriter in the office of the Watchman-Advocate, paper of Fred Essen, Republican "boss" of the county, before presentation to the County Court.

The deposition was given in the work of investigating alleged widespread fraud in the primary, which was demanded by the Clean Election League, of which Laughlin was one of the founders. Kassebaum will swear to his statement later.

Suggested by Committee.

The custom has been for the township members of the County Committee to suggest the names of election officials to the County Court, which is in charge of elections, and which ordinarily appoints the persons suggested.

Kassebaum told of meetings of the Republican County Committee July 3 and July 14 in the Clayton law office of Ralph & Baxter, of which firm State Senator Ralph, an ally of Essen, is a member. He said that Willis Benson, then committeeman from Central Township, handed in a list of his recommendations at the second meeting, which Kassebaum placed under a book.

Kassebaum said he did not look at the list then and could not say whether all the names it contained were in handwriting or if some were typewritten. He went to lunch, and, returning, found about 30 names typed on the list over what appeared to be erasures. Kassebaum then took all the lists, he said, to the Watchman-Advocate office and obtained permission to use a typewriter there to copy the names for presentation to the County Court.

Typed List Turned Over.

A deputy County Clerk known to Kassebaum as "Stevie" came in, he said, and asked if he could help. Kassebaum said 'Stevie' did about half the work. The typed list was turned over to the County Court. The Attorney-General had it yesterday and Kassebaum identified it.

Senator Ralph was in his private office when the second committee meeting was held in another room of the suite, Kassebaum said. Among visitors he said were there that day was Congressman Newton.

Kassebaum admitted that a paper making a correction of the assignment of officials in a certain precinct had been brought to Jefferson City for his signature by Victor Essen, a son of Fred Essen.

Fred Essen could not be reached this morning for a statement as to Kassebaum's assertions.

WOMAN SUES SON OF COCA-COLA KING FOR $100,000

Walter T. Candler Is Made Defendant in Action by Woman Whose Husband He Is Suing.

CANDLER ALLEGES BLACKMAIL AT SEA

Admits He Was in Stateroom With Her—Blackmail Attempt Once Was Made on His Father.

Special to the Post-Dispatch.

ATLANTA, Ga., Aug. 16.—Highly carbonated allegations and countercharges figure in the injunction suit filed by Walter T. Candler, bank cashier and son of Asa G. Candler, the Coca-Cola king, against Clyde K. Byfield, automobile dealer.

Walter Candler is the nephew of Bishop Warren A. Candler of the Methodist Episcopal Church, South, and of Judge John S. Candler, a former member of the State Supreme Court.

In his suit, he seeks to restrain Byfield from negotiating a note for $20,500, signed by Candler, which falls due Friday. Candler charges that the note was obtained by extortion and blackmail, through an occurrence in which Candler and Mrs. Byfield figured on the British steamer Berengaria, in midocean on the night of July 16.

Says He Was Intoxicated.

Candler sets forth that, on that night, he attended a champagne and card party with Byfield and others on the Berengaria, and that he became so intoxicated that he has only a vague recollection of the subsequent incidents. He says he remembers that he was found in a stateroom with Mrs. Byfield, and that Byfield entered and said, "Now I've caught you. I've been suspecting you for six months. You must pay me $25,000."

Candler says he gave Byfield a check for $25,000, and that after they arrived in Paris, he took up the check, giving Byfield $2000 cash and the note for $20,500, and charging off the balance of the $25,000 against a loan he had made to Byfield previously. Byfield signed a letter exonerating Candler of any accusation of improper conduct toward Mrs. Byfield.

Mrs. Byfield today filed suit against Candler, asking for $100,000 damages. She alleges that since the occurrence on the steamship she has had to keep to her bed much of the time and that an operation became necessary and was performed Monday.

A temporary injunction has been granted to prevent Byfield from negotiating the $20,500 note until the case shall be heard.

Candler's note, now in the custody of the Sheriff here, bears the words "For Value Received."

Candler is Married.

Candler is married, but Mrs. Candler did not accompany him on his journey to Europe, as she went to California with her baby before he departed for France. She is Candler's second wife, the first having died several years ago. Candler's two older children, girls 11 and 9 years old, went to France with him.

The present court proceeding has reminded Atlanta people of a blackmail case a few years ago in which Asa Candler, millionaire originator and manufacturer of Coca-Cola, was the complainant. In that case, Mrs. H. H. Hirsch and a man named Cook were convicted of trying to extort $500,000 from the Coca-Cola King, following a staged scene in his office. Cook jumped his bond, and Mrs. Hirsch's sentence of two years' imprisonment was suspended on condition that she leave the state. Asa Candler has recently confirmed announcements of his engagement to Mrs. Onesima de Bouchelle of New Orleans, who recently obtained a divorce in Reno, Nev. He is 71 years old, and she is said to be about one-half his age.

Young Candler a Bank Cashier.

Walter Candler, plaintiff in the present proceeding, is cashier of the Central Bank and Trust Co., which his father controls. Byfield, the defendant, is manager of the Apperson-Byfield Motor Co., and is a deputy sheriff of this (Fulton) county.

Mrs. Byfield was employed in a local drug store before her marriage. She and Byfield were frequent visitors at the Candler home. She is reported at this time to be seriously ill, and has made no statement regarding the incident which is the basis of Candler's suit against her husband.

Byfield has issued a detailed state-

Five Hear Parentage Denial When Will of Woman Is Read

Document Bequeaths $5 Each to Men and Women Who Believed Deceased Was Mother.

By the Associated Press.

SAN FRANCISCO, Aug. 16.—When the will of Mrs. Teresa Bell, widow of the late Thomas Bell, wealthy California pioneer, was read, following her funeral, the five men and women present in her lawyer's office, who believed she was their mother, were astounded to learn from the document that she had denied them to be of her own flesh and blood and had bequeathed them only $5 each. The will does not divulge what she claims is their true parentage.

A third of the estate is left to charities. Besides a few bequests to friends and servants, Mrs. Bell leaves the residue of her fortune of approximately $700,000 to her cousins, "if she had any," otherwise to the State of California.

WOMAN, HIT BY FOUL BALL, SUES CLUBS FOR $15,000

Mrs. Eleanor McLaughlin Alleges She Suffered Fracture of the Skull and Impairment of Vision.

Suit for $15,000 damages was filed today against the St. Louis American League and National League baseball clubs by Mrs. Eleanor M. McLaughlin, 25 years old, of 1214 Montclair avenue, alleging she suffered a fracture of the skull, concussion of the brain, and impairment of vision when a foul ball struck her over the eye during a game on July 10, last. The ball was batted by Rogers Hornsby of the Cardinals.

She alleges that screening which would have protected persons sitting in the grand stand was lacking. She said se was a professional singer, and that as a result of her injuries she lost an $800 contract and a salary of $50 a week. Her dress, she said, was damaged $50, and she lost a mesh bag valued at $35. She was sitting in the upper grand stand.

GENERAL ACCEPTANCE OF COAL AGREEMENT PREDICTED BY LEWIS

PRESIDENTIAL MESSAGE ON SHOP STRIKE TOMORROW

Harding Arranges to Go Before Congress and Outline Position of Government With Respect to Existing Industrial Troubles, Particularly the Rail Situation.

UNIONS PIN HOPE TO NEW CONFERENCE

Railway Executives Will Accept Request of Brotherhood Chiefs for Renewed Discussion, Looking Toward Settlement.

By the Associated Press.

WASHINGTON, Aug. 16. — President Harding in a message tomorrow to Congress will present to the legislators and to the country the position of the Government with respect to the existing industrial troubles, particularly the railroad strike.

Arrangements for the President's appearance at a joint session were completed at a conference between the executive and Senator Lodge, Republican leader in the Senate.

Belief had been expressed in some quarters prior to the conference that the President might delay presentation of his message until after it had been determined whether the mediation efforts of the train service brotherhood chiefs in tomorrow's conference with a committee of railroad executives would be successful, but Senator Lodge said he found the President fully decided to go before Congress at the earliest possible moment.

Executives Will Confer.

Chiefs of the employes' unions continue today with their plans for direct settlement of the railway shopmen's strike.

These chiefs, chairmen of the train service brotherhoods, not on national strike, still are pinning their hope to negotiations they began yesterday for a conference of the striking shopmen's leaders and the railroad executives in New York, tomorrow, and from which they hope some sort of compromise agreement will be forthcoming.

The request of the five railway brotherhoods for the appointment of a committee of railway chiefs to confer with brotherhood representatives will be accepted, R. S. Binkerd, assistant to T. DeWitt Cuyler, chairman of the Association of Railway Executives, announced in New York last night. Binkerd said that the same committee of executives which conferred with President Harding in Washington last Saturday would represent the association at the conference.

Congress and the country will be informed by President Harding of every fact in the railroad strike situation as he views it, and also—administration advisors say—will be given an expression of his determination to give the full aid and protection of the Federal Government to maintenance-of-way operations.

There is no room for further presidential efforts to bring about compromise settlements of the shopmen's strike, a high official at the White House said, by negotiating between the managements and the unions, although the President does not wish to hinder attempts of officials of railroad unions not on strike to mediate for their associates.

Rejection Made Public.

Leaders of the striking railroad unions now in Washington indicate their disposition to await the new peace efforts of their associates, but made public yesterday their letter rejecting President Harding's final proposals for a compromise settlement of the strike. Through B. M. Jewell, their chairman, they also issued a statement contending that the railroads' responses to the proposals had been a declination. The

CANADA'S RAIL STRIKE AVERTED WHEN WAGE CUT ORDER IS RESCINDED

By the Associated Press.

MONTREAL, Aug. 16.

THE threatened strike of 37,000 shopmen on the Canadian railways was temporarily averted last night when the presidents of the Canadian National, Grand Trunk and Canadian Pacific telegraphed Premier W. L. Mackenzie King that the order for a wage cut of $200,000 would be rescinded.

CHICAGO MEETING TO DECIDE SUPPLY OF ST. LOUIS COAL

Acceptance of Cleveland Agreement to Be Passed Upon at Joint Wage Scale Conference Friday.

The signing at Cleveland yesterday a separate agreement with scattered operators producing about one-tenth of the soft coal of the country and employing about that proportion of the miners, has thrown Illinois into a confusion which will be either composed or intensified at the joint wage scale conference to be held Friday in Chicago.

The attitude of President Lewis, of the miners' organization, and his supporters, is that the Cleveland agreement is basic for the industry and that supplemental district agreement must conform to it. The attitude of the Illinois operators is that the Cleveland agreement has no bearing upon the Illinois situation and serves no purpose except to clear the way for the separate State conference, at which they will seek an agreement differing in important particulars from that made at Cleveland. The announced attitude of State President Farrington, although he is hostile to Lewis and has been leaning toward an independent agreement with the Illinois operators, is subservient to Lewis and the Cleveland agreement.

Outlook for Agreements.

Whether a State agrement will be reached will depend upon whether the operators consent to adopt the Cleveland agreement, which they say they will not, and whether Farrington will consent to an agreement differing from the Cleveland compact, which his announcements indicate that he will not.

The Illinois operators have been contending for a separate state agreement on the ground that they produce under conditions differing from those under which coal is produced in other fields, but their main contention now is for a plan of arbitration which would prevent a recurrence next April of the deadlock which has been on since last April. The miners have so far held out against arbitration.

The situation has complicated the politics of the Illinois miners. Farrington has a following large enough to carry through any plan that he proposes, but the opposition to him is stiff and stubborn and it raised such a hubbub when he and his Executive Board recently at St. Louis authorized the calling of a separate state conference that the action was rescinded next day.

Faction Harassing Farrington.

This faction, loyal to Lewis, has been harassing Farrington and emphasizing its opposition to a separate state conference. Almost at the moment that the Cleveland compact was reached miners in the West Frankfort field, following a mass meeting, were wiring Lewis to remove Farrington because of his advocacy of a separate state conference. Farrington wired back inviting these miners to "go to hell," and now they are confronted by the state conference, to which they are opposed, called under the authority of the Cleveland agreement.

The anti-Farrington miners are displeased with the Cleveland agreement, because it lacks the national scope for which Lewis has contended from the first, and in which they have supported him. They will put up with it, however, if the separate State agreement conforms to it. If the State agreement differs substantially from the Cleveland agreement,

MINERS AT POINTS IN 7 STATES READY TO BEGIN WORK

Hope for Early Quantity Production Held Out Although Settlement, Signed Yesterday, Affects Only 60,000 of 450,000 Workers on Strike.

DISTRICT UNIONS PLAN MEETINGS

Leaders on Way Home From Cleveland Conference to Try to Make Peace With Employers Who Were Not Represented.

By the Associated Press.

CLEVELAND, O., Aug. 16.—For the first time in 20 weeks, striking soft-coal miners at scattered points in seven states today are under orders to begin coal production. This result of the part settlement of the strike affects only a small minority (about 60,000) of the 450,000 soft-coal diggers, who threw down their picks last March 31, but union officials are on their way back home to make peace with other employers.

President John L. Lewis of the miners, who remained here for a day's rest before entering the peace negotiations with anthracite operators at Philadelphia tomorrow, today predicted that soft-coal operators generally would accept the agreement, and held out hope for an early quantity production. He also said he was hopeful of the result of the conference with the anthracite operators, who employ 155,000 men.

District union officials, before leaving here for home, sent invitations for five meetings of operators with the view of concluding peace.

Two Pennsylvania associations of operators were asked to meet the union chiefs in separate meetings on Friday. One invitation went to the Freeport Thick Vein Operators' Association, and the other to the Pittsburg Coal Producers' Association.

Other Operators to Meet.

The Southwestern Interstate Operators' Association, including members in Missouri, Kansas, Oklahoma, Arkansas and Texas, were asked to meet with the union at Kansas City next Tuesday. Illinois operators were invited to Chicago on Friday, while the Indiana Operator's Association was solicited for a conference at Terre Haute, also on Friday.

The general agreement, concluded here and adopted by the union as a basis for supplemental agreements throughout the coal fields, continues the old wages and working conditions, including the check-off of union dues, to April 1, 1923, and provides machinery for negotiating but not arbitrating next year's scale. The agreement also calls for a national convention of operators and miners of the bituminous territory to be held in this city next Oct. 2 for selecting a fact-finding commission to investigate the coal industry.

Under the policy laid down by the union, the district officials may conclude peace with any soft coal operators, either as individuals or as associations. Whatever success results from this policy for resuming work, union officials pointed out today, it leaves them facing the problem of dealing with the strikers of the Connellsville and other central fields which were without unions until the strike started.

60,000 Have Joined Unions.

Sixty thousand former nonunion men, officials say, have enlisted in the union ranks in these fields and the union's plan contemplates the financing of the strike there with the funds coming to the union from the workers going back to the mines in other fields.

In a way, union officials regarded yesterday's settlement as an historical repetition. In 1906, John Mitchell, as president of the United Mine

HARDING WANTS PUBLIC TO KNOW STRIKE FACTS

Takes Attitude Against Domination of Basic Industries by Unions and Against Lockouts.

PRESIDENT FAVORS REGULATORY LAWS

Efforts to Bring Industrial Peace Criticised; in View of Coming Election, He Would Make Attitude Clear

By DAVID LAWRENCE.
A Special Washington Correspondent of the Post-Dispatch Bureau.
(Copyright, 1922.)

WASHINGTON, Aug. 16.—President Harding means to place squarely before the country what he considers to be the dangers of national domination of basic industries by labor unions. Irrespective of whether the meeting in New York tomorrow between the rail executives and the brotherhood chiefs, who respresent the shopmen, brings an end to the shopmen's strike, the President feels that the issues involved in the present crisis are too big to be sheived suddenly with the abrupt termination of the strike.

Mr. Harding has not made up his mind to ask for specific legislation at this time but he feels that Congress and the country should know the details of the present controversy so as to have the way open for thorough consideration of the whole problem.

The President's narrative of what has happened will serve also a useful purpose as a basis for any action that may have to be taken if the present emergency should grow so serious as to require instant seizure of railroads without waiting for congressional authority.

Course Has Been Criticized.

Some of the President's friends have told him that he owes the American people a frank explanation of what he has tried to do and that the public should know just where to place the responsibility. On top of this are considerations of justice to the President himself as the criticism of his course has grown to such proportions as to make members of Congress fearful that it would reflect unfavorably on the Republican party at the polls next November.

This phase is merely incidental, as Mr. Harding has proceeded along lines that seemed to him expedient from day to day without regard to whether it was politically wise or unwise. Nevertheless, Mr. Harding would be the last to deny that impressions formed by the electorate during the strike period are not unlikely to be developed on the basis of such few facts and statements as have been authoritatively issued thus far.

Knows the Whole Story.

The President alone knows the whole story not only of the negotiations that have gone on in an effort to settle the strike, but the issues which preceded the outbreak and which may be said to have aggravated the labor situation and brought it to a climax in the shopmen's strike.

Mr. Harding could tell an interesting story if he chose on the various moves made by the railroads to reduce the power and prestige of the United States Labor Board and of the corresponding effect which such tactics made upon the strikers, who saw no more reason for obeying the Labor Board than did the railroads.

Power of Labor Leaders.

But apart from all this is the greatest fundamental fact of all which has impressed Mr. Harding as he has seen the crisis grow more acute from day to day. It is the power of the national labor leaders to subject the country to hardships and the corresponding power of the railroad managements to conduct themselves in a way that goads the workers to take desperate measures.

Shall national union domination be permitted in such absolute essentials as transportation and fuel? Mr. Harding thinks not. While the right to organize and the right to quit work are conceded, the right to abuse those privileges is not conceded. Hence the President believes regulation is necessary in the public interest. Such regulation can come only through national boards representing the public interest. The President still thinks the Railroad Board can be made the agency of protection to all concerned.

In the coal industry a national board or commission analogous to the United States Railroad Labor Board would be recommended. The powers of Congress to regulate interstate commerce as provided by the Federal Constitution have gradually been clarified by decisions of the Supreme Court of the United States.

Corporations engaged in interstate commerce can no longer monopolize production and gouge the public. So, too, Mr. Harding believes, labor unions or railroad managements can be made amenable to the public interest through regulation.

The Interstate Commerce Commission regulates the income of railroads, and the Labor Board has been invested by Congress with power to regulate the outgo of railroads on the biggest item, namely, wages. Penalties are, of course, necessary to secure obedience to the Railroad Labor Board's decisions and some similar step would be necessary with respect to the awards of a national coal commission.

Abundant Experience.

President Harding has had abundant experience in his negotiations with all sides in the coal and rail strikes to come to the conclusion that, if the public, through its Government, permits the contending forces to make war on each other, the American people will always have to pay the cost of the war to the end.

The people have the power through Congress to limit the rights of both labor and capital in the basic commodities which are necessary to life, and the President is seriously considering a request that such power be specifically written into regulatory statutes so as to make a strike or lockout of coal workers or railway employes as unwarranted as a strike of firemen or policemen.

Text of Agreement Signed by Coal Miners and Operators at Cleveland

By the Associated Press

CLEVELAND, O., Aug. 16.

THE text of the agreement ending the strike of more than 60,000 of the 450,000 soft coal miners, signed here yesterday, is as follows:

"1. All mines of operators represented in this joint conference which are now on strike, are to be opened immediately upon the execution of supplementary contracts extending to March 31, 1923, the terms, provisions and conditions of the contracts affecting such mines as they respectively existed on March 31, 1922, except as to renewal or continuation clauses in such contracts.

"2. The participants in this conference agree to send, and this conference invites the bituminous coal operators of the United States to send representative delegates from coal producing districts, or from substantial groups of operators, which delegates shall as far as possible be representatives of the bituminous coal industry of the United States, such delegates to assemble in joint conference in Cleveland, Ohio, Oct. 2, 1922.

"This joint conference shall appoint a committee of equal numbers of representative operators and miners, which committee will formulate a method to be followed by the bituminous coal industry in the negotiation of wage scale agreements to become effective April 1, 1923, and the method so formulated shall by the committee be reported to the joint conference to be held Jan. 3, 1923, as hereinafter provided.

Committee of Inquiry.

"3. The joint conference convening Oct. 2 shall further select a committee of inquiry, the members of which shall be of commanding public reputation for character and ability, and whose personnel shall be approved by the President of the United States. The duty of this committee shall be to develop promptly all of the pertinent facts in regard to the industry for the benefit alike of the public, the operators and the mine workers. Such investigation shall include every phase of the industry deemed material by the Committee of Inquiry, and such committee shall be furnished with all information desired and aided in every manner possible by the operators and miners alike."

In the event such joint conference shall fail to agree upon the members of such committee of inquiry by Oct. 10, 1922, it shall petition the President of the United States to appoint the members thereof in his discretion, and in the event of a vacancy the President is requested to fill same by appointment. The cost of such committee of inquiry shall be paid by the industry, one-half by the operators participating in the joint conference, and one-half by the United Mine Workers of America.

Such committee, after developing all the facts, shall make such recommendations as it may deem proper and advisable and shall so far as possible embody these recommendations in a report to be submitted to the joint conference to be convened Jan. 3, 1923, as hereinafter provided.

Points for Consideration.

In order to reach a final and proper determination of the controversy in the bituminous coal industry, for the benefit of the miners and operators, and the public as well, the following principal points are presented for consideration by the Committee of Inquiry:

"(A)—The wage rate in any district shall, as far as reasonable, be properly competitive within the mining industry and shall at the same time be fully compensatory to the miners, being sufficient to afford not only a living wage, but also to allow reasonable opportunity for accumulating savings.

"(B) The encouragement of a proper spirit of obligation and responsibility on the part of all parties towards contractual obligations and the establishment of proper machinery, both local and national, for prompt determination and the settlement of any points of dispute and any local, state or district contract without resorting to strike or lockout.

"(C) The determination of a proper policy to encourage efficiency of operation, not only on the part of mine management in the mechanical operation of the mines but also on the part of individual miners in the performance of their daily work."

Provision for Conference.

4. The participants of this conference agree to send, and this convention invites the bituminous coal operators of the United States to send, represensative delegates from coal-producing districts or from substantial groups of coal operators, which delegates shall as far as possible be representatives of the bituminous coal industry of the United States, such delegates to meet in joint conference Jan. 3, 1923, at such place as may be designated by the joint conference held Oct. 2, 1922. This joint conference shall receive the report of the committee appointed in conformity with paragraph two and shall finally determine the method to be followed by the participants in the conference in the negotiation of wage scale agreements to become effective April 1, 1923.

To the end that new wage scale agreements to be effective April 1, 1923, shall be determined upon as speedily as practicable and further strikes be thereby averted, the method of negotiating wage scale agreements which shall be determined upon by said joint conference shall provide that such machinery as is created by it to develop a new wage scale agreement shall commence to function not later than Jan. 8, 1923. The wage scale agreement concluded by such machinery shall be effective April 1, 1923, and shall be in effect during such time as it may determine.

Workers, was confronted with the breakdown of the central competitive field, the same situation that arose here.

Mitchell won the fight as far as getting the miners' wage demands met by operators by separate agreements. Lewis' plan, adopted by the union Policy Committee, is similar, except that it regards the general settlement as a basic one for all soft coal fields, with separate contracts to supplement the general agreement entered into here.

Scale Agreement Adopted by Unanimous Vote of Both Sides.

The formal break in the strike came at 3:10 p. m. yesterday, when the scale agreement was adopted by the unanimous vote of miners and operators at their joint conference. The general agreement then was signed by T. K. Maher of Cleveland, an operator, as chairman of the conference, and William Green, a miner, as its secretary. Supplemental agreements between operators and State union officials were then executed with the union chiefs wiring local unions that work might be renewed.

President Lewis of the miners said that operators controlling an annual output of approximately 60,000,000 tons had signed the agreement. Their mines, he said, were in West Virginia, Pennsylvania, Ohio, Indiana, Michigan, Oklahoma and Washington.

Plans for extending the break of the strike also were laid by the union men. Frank Farrington, the Illinois miners' president, then announced that he would ask the Illinois operators to meet the union's District Scale Committee at Chicago on Friday.

"The interstate agreement executed with operators having a production of 60,00,000 tons," said Lewis, "will become the basic agreement for the bituminous industry throughout the country, and I anticipate that in a comparatively few days, supplemental contracts with groups of operators and individual operators will be executed with the majority of the operators whose mines are now on strike."

12 DEAD IN FIRE AT ORPHANAGE IN CANADA

Eight Inmates, and Caretaker's Family Perish in Blaze at Shawdridge, Quebec.

By the Associated Press.

MONTREAL, Quebec, Aug. 16.—Firemen searching the smoldering ruins of the Jewish Boys' orphanage at Shawbridge, Quebec, which was destroyed by fire late last night, placed the number of dead today at 12.

Roll call was not answered by eight of the 55 young orphans who were inmates of the institution. In addition to these, Thomas Legault, the caretaker, his wife and two children, imprisoned by flames in lower rooms, were burned to death.

Before the discovery of the fire, flames had cut off the escape of the orphans. They were marshalled quickly in top rooms. The older boys made rope ladders of bed sheets. When the flames crept through the corridors the little boys were let down first from an outside balcony and later their rescuers escaped by the same route. It was said that there were no fire escapes on the building.

Boys from a training school for delinquents nearby ran lines of hose to the blazing building and aided the village firemen.

PRESIDENT TELLS I. C. C. CHAIRMAN TO ENFORCE LAW

"Better to Have Service Diminishing Than Attempt Train Movement Without Assurance of Safety."

By the Associated Press.

WASHINGTON, Aug. 16.—Motive power on "certain of the important carriers of the country," because of the present strike, is progressively deteriorating, Chairman McChord of the Interstate Commerce Commission informed President Harding last night, and in a letter of reply was told by the President to "insist upon the full enforcement of the law."

Inspection forces of the Government should exert themselves to the utmost, the President said, because it is better to have service diminish rather than attempt any movement of trains on which safety is not assured.

The Commissioner informed the President that in enforcing the safety provisions of Federal law "we are taking steps and will be compelled to continue to proceed in a manner which must bring serious withdrawals of motive power from service."

The President responded that "the growing menace to maintain transportation" had been called to his attention and nothing could be done except "to insist upon the full enforcement of the law."

The Correspondence.

The correspondence, as given out by Chairman McChord, follows:

Dear Mr. President:

In the administration and enforcement of the locomotive inspection and related safety appliances acts of Congress, the commission has observed with concern the progressive deterioration of motive power upon certain of the important carriers of the country since July 1, 1922, and during the present strike. The effect of deferred repairs is cumulative and becomes increasingly felt as time goes on. The acts which we are called upon to administer leave little discretion with the commission as to enforcement when violations come to light. In the continuance of our enforcement of the law we are taking steps and will be compelled to continue to proceed in a maner which must bring about serious withdrawals of motive power from service. Certain violations of the acts were reported to the Attorney-General for appropriate and legal action, and with a continuanse of existing conditions these will be increasingly frequent.

"Knowing your interest in the matter, we felt you should be advised of the facts.

"C. C. McChord, Chairman."

President's Reply.

"My Dear Chairman McChord:

"I have yours of even date in which you call to my attention the progressive deterioration of motive power on some of the important railroad lines of the country as the outgrowth of the prevailing strike. This growing menace to maintained transportation has been called to my attention unofficially in various ways. Under all circumstances, I know of nothing to be done except to insist upon the full enforcement of the law. It is a very natural thing under circumstances which exist at the present time, to waive the exactions in behalf of safety in seeking to maintain transportation. In my judgment it is better to have the service diminished rather than attempt the movement of trains on which safety is not assured so far as compliance with the law may provide it.

"I trust that your inspection forces will exert themselves to the utmost in order to be able to pass upon safe equipment, because the official sanction of the Government will remove all questions of dispute.

"Warren G. Harding."

By the Associated Press.

NEW ORLEANS, Aug. 16.—Incomplete and unofficial returns from 80 of the 82 Mississippi counties in yesterday's Democratic primary, compiled by the New Orleans Item at noon, show: Stephens, 52,480; Vardaman, 52,198; Miss Belle Kearney, 14,517.

Second Primary Is Considered a Probability.

JACKSON, Miss., Aug. 16.—Returns from isolated sections in the Democratic primary yesterday are awaited today to determine whether former Senator J. K. Vardaman or Hubert D. Stephens of New Albany will succeed John Sharp Williams, who will retire from the United States Senate next March, with campaign managers for both candidates admitting the race close and in the opinion of political observers a second primary likely as the solution. Miss Bell Kearney of Flora is running far behind her two opponents.

Former President Woodrow Wilson, in a letter made public recently, expressed the hope that Vardaman would not again be sent to the United States Senate.

letter, in addition to declaring the President's proposals "impracticable," asserted that the strikers would not return to work unless assured of unimpaired seniority status.

The union leaders held their usual executive conference yesterday. The final decision to request a direct reopening of negotiations with the railroad executives resulted, participants said, from a meeting between Warren S. Stone, chief of the engineers, and Daniel Willard, president of the Baltimore & Ohio, who has acted separately from the national railroad organization at times during the strike.

L. E. Sheppard, head of the Order of Conductors, and Stone both sent messages yesterday to western points where members of their organizations have walked out, all seeking to induce a return. They indicated that union oficials would be sent to all the affected points.

"We are trying to keep the lines open and to prevent our men from breaking the working contracts," Stone asserted in duscussing the actions taken in the Atchison, Topeka & Santa Fe walkouts.

TWO BOYS DROWN IN RIVER

DETROIT, Mich., Aug. 16.—Toys, candies and other birthday gifts were scattered about the home of Russell Bouresseau today but the lad was not there to enjoy them. He lost his life when wading in Detroit River yesterday and his brother, George, aged 9, also perished in a heroic effort to rescue him.

The boys were taken for an outing in celebration of Russell's 17th anniversary. On George's promise to take care of Russell, they were permitted to go wading. Russell got beyond his depth. They came to the surface, one clasping the other about the neck, but sank before other bathers could reach them.

Reply of Striking Shopmen to President's Latest Proposal

WASHINGTON, Aug. 16.

THE following is the text, made public yesterday, of the striking railway shopmen's reply to President Harding's recent compromise proposal to end the strike:

"In your telegram of August 7, you request that striking railroad employes return to work and leave to the decision of the Railroad Labor Board, after they have returned to work, the question of seniority as covered in third paragraph of your telegram of July 31.

"This request has been fully considered by the executive council of the railway employes department who represent the railway employes affected, and you are hereby advised that the proposal contained in your telegram of August 7, has been unanimously declined for among others, the following reasons:

"1—On July 31 you submitted to the representatives of the railroad employes in question and to the railway managers, the terms of agreement upon which the railway managers and united shop craft workers are to unite preliminary to calling off the existing strike.

"Your terms of agreement above referred to were accepted by the representatives of the employes. On the seniority question your terms of agreement were all employes now on strike to be returned to work to their former positions with seniority and other rights unimpaired.

"'The representatives of the carriers and the representatives of the organizations especially agree that there will be no discrimination, by either party against the employes who did or did not strike.'

Difference in Proposals.

"This clearly provides that the seniority question was to be settled before the employes returned to work. Your proposal of Aug. 7 is that it be agreed to, or rather disposed of, only after they have returned to work.

"This strike cannot be, and no other railroad strike has been settled until it was agreed that all employes on strike are to be returned to work and to their former positions with seniority and other rights unimpaired.

"2. Seniority was not and is not now, by right, an issue or a dispute in this strike. The authors of the transportation act have on many occasions stated that there is no penalty in the transportation act against employes who struck when an injustice is done through a decision of the Railroad Labor Board. Admittedly they have the right to strike and, therefore, they do not forfeit their standing as railroad employes because they strike. Any other construction of the law would read into the transportation act a penalty which is not contained therein.

"3. On Aug. 12 we acquiesced in the terms of the agreement which you declared to be just, fair and reasonable, and we are willing now, in the interest of all concerned, to settle the strike in accordance with the agreement. We are, of course, unable to understand why, after we had accepted your own terms of agreement, you should now request us to accept a proposal which is directly in conflict with your proposed agreement.

"Proposal Impracticable."

"4. Your latest proposal is impracticable and would create a chaotic condition because of the undetermined seniority status of the employes.

"Railroad employes are ever mindful of the public interest. They have accepted your own terms of agreement, which called for sacrifice on the part of railroad executives, but which did not require that the employes make a concession of practically every issue which brought about the strike.

"We have repeatedly called attention to the fact that the campaign against the organized railroad employes was a part of the general 'open shop' drive, and if press statements are correct, the managers of some of the railroads the last few days have frankly admitted that they do not desire at this time to settle the strike, but hope to be permitted to continue their efforts to disintegrate the organizations of railroad employes.

"Sincerely and cordially yours,

"William H. Johnston, James P. Noonan, J. A. Franklin, Martin F. Ryan, James W. Kline, Timothy Healy, J. J. Hynes, B. M. Jewell."

GOVERNMENT TO ARM FOR COAL PROFITEERS

Congress to Be Asked for Legislation to Assure Price Control.

By the Associated Press.

WASHINGTON, Aug. 16.—Congress will be called on for legal weapons to arm the Government for war against coal porfiteers, it was announced yesterday by high administration officials. Legislation will be required, it was declared, to assure price control and equitable distribution of fuel, even in the event of a settlement of the whole national coal controversy.

Coal operators, Secretary Hoover stated, were breaking away from the voluntary fair price agreements, except in some districts in Virginia and West Virginia, and Congress, he declared, must act to check advancing charges and at the same time authorize the continuance of the Federal distribution machinery now functioning by volunteer services which could not continue indefinitely.

Sketch of Plans.

Hoover indicated that about a week's study of the situation and the effect of the Cleveland agreement on production would be required before the necessary legislation could be framed. Attorney-General Daugherty declared that several plans already were under consideration.

Continuance of the Federal distribution machinery would be necessary, Hoover asserted, especially to meet the anthracite situation. As soon as anthracite was available, he declared, distribution of hard coal would be supervised by the Federal organization along the lines now in practice for the movement of bituminous.

Price control by means of preferential allocation of coal cars was only possible, according to Federal Fuel Distributor Spencer, in districts where there was less than 100 per cent car supply. Where there were plenty of cars, he asserted, operators could obtain transportation at whatever prices they might charge for coal.

Price Request Made.

Greater use of the No. 1 priority classification of the Interstate Commerce Commission's service-order No. 23, it was declared, would be made by the Central Coal Distribution Committee to fight fuel charges in excess of the Hoover prices. This classification gives the first priority to shipments specially designated by the commission and would enable, in districts where a shortage of cars existed, the giving or withholding of transportation facilities to operators as they adhere or break away from the Hoover price agreement.

Competitive bidding by railroads and public utilities for fuel, according to reports to the Central Committee, has disturbed the agreed price levels and the carriers have been asked by Spencer to make no offers for coal at prices above the Hoover levels.

JUDGE ENGLISH DISBARS FORMER U. S. ATTORNEY

Charles Karch, East St. Louis Lawyer, Is Ordered by Federal Jurist to "Get Out and Stay Out."

APPEARED FOR RAIL STRIKERS

After Obtaining Jury Trials in Contempt Cases, He Is Told That He Needs to Learn Ethics.

Charles A. Karch, East St. Louis lawyer and former United States District Attorney there, was disbarred from practice in Federal court there yesterday by Judge English, who took exception to Karch's actions following the attorney's appearance in court in behalf of clients. Karch said today he felt it would be better not to make a statement about the occurrence.

Karch and a colleague, William Moran of Mattoon, Ill., had obtained jury trials for two striking employes of the Illinois Central Railroad, who had been cited for contempt under a protective injunction issued during the shop strike. It was charged they had beaten a nonunion employe at Mattoon. The defendants are Miles Miller and Kenneth Hopper. Judge English set the trial for the September term of court at Danville, Ill.

The Judge told their counsel that he had been receiving too many demands for jury trials in contempt cases, and that other Federal courts were not granting juries for such trials.

"Need to Learn Ethics."

"These will be the last jury trials in this court in contempt cases," he said. "I consider it a personal insult to the court when two lawyers who need to learn some of the ethics of the legal profession keep insisting on asking for them."

The court then became occupied with another matter and Karch and Moran conversed together in low tones at the attorneys' table. Judge English interrupted the other business and called out to Karch and Moran: "I don't want any more of your impudent acts. If you have no further business in this court you had better get out."

Moran left the room. Karch replied to the Judge: "I believe, your honor, that I am standing on my rights by remaining here." The Judge ordered the bailiff to remove Karch. As the two were going out, the Judge called out to Karch: "I've been on to all your actions for the last four years. From now on I shall not treat you as a judge or a lawyer, but as a man."

"Get Out and Stay Out."

"Why don't you start doing it now?" Karch answered.

The Judge called him back to the bench and said: "You are disbarred from further practice in this court and your name is ordered stricken from the rolls. Get out and stay out."

Karch went without his hat; the bailiff took it to him afterward. Karch was United States Attorney for the Eastern District of Illinois from 1914 to 1918. Judge English was appointed to the Federal bench there about six weeks before Karch's term expired. Both are Democrats, and were appointed by President Wilson.

SHIP BOARD ASKED FOR SOURCE OF ITS LIQUOR

House Resolution Also Calls for Information Regarding Amounts That Have Been Bought.

By the Associated Press.

WASHINGTON, Aug. 16.—Resolutions calling upon the United States Shipping Board to inform the House where and how much liquor it bought for sale on American ships since the national prohibition law went into effect were introduced today by Representatives Gallivan, Democrat, Massachusetts, and Brennan, Republican, Michigan.

The resolutions also request the board to say whether it would be practicable, if it contemplates to continue the sale of liquor on ships, to "acquire such liquors from the sequestered stores held by the Prohibition Director," and which part of the funds appropriated by Congress "has been used for the acquisition in intoxicating liquors for sale upon ocean-going ships operated or controlled by the board since Jan. 16, 1920," the date on which the prohibition law became effective.

The board also would be required to inform the House of the total amount of intoxicating liquors acquired by it from each foreign country since the advent of prohibition and the prices paid therefrom, and whether the largest amount of such liquor was obtained from distilleries, breweries and dealers in the United Kingdom, "whose officials are being petitioned at this time by the United States Prohibition Commissioner to co-operate with the country in enforcing prohibition outside and beyond the three-mile limit."

ment, denying that he attempted to levy blackmail upon Candler.

He says he and his wife were friends of Mr. and Mrs. Walter Candler, up to the time when Mrs. Candler went to California. After this, he says, Candler asked him and Mrs. Byfield to accompany him on the journey to Europe, so that Mrs. Byfield could look after Candler's two daughters.

The two girls had a stateroom near that of Mrs. Byfield, he says. On the night of July 16, Byfield relates, "a married couple, eminently respectable," invited the Byfields, Candler and his daughters to a dinner, and champagne was served, but Byfield says the drinking was moderate.

Says He Heard Wife's Outcry.

After dinner, Byfield says, Mrs. Byfield helped in putting the Candler girls to bed, and the party was resumed with a spirit of gaiety, but Byfield insists that no one became intoxicated. Mrs. Byfield went first to her stateroom, he says, and he followed, then returned for a few minutes, and on reaching the stateroom again heard an outcry from his wife and found Candler in the room.

Byfield said he tried to kill Candler with his hands and that he struck his wife as well, forgetting for the moment that she had summoned him. He said he made no demand for money, that he was "dazed, crushed and hopeless." He was approaching a foreign shore, he said, without enough money to keep him until he could start for home, as he had expected to borrow money from Candler.

While he was greatly worried as to means of getting himself and his wife home, he says, Candler visited him and requested to be permitted to make financial amends. "In an evil hour, on the morning after," Byfield says, "I took a check for $25,000. Two days afterward, in Paris, the check was exchanged for notes and for a certain sum of money which enabled us to get home. At the same time, I signed the letter exonerating Candler. He wanted the letter in exchange for his note and money."

Byfield says the letter was presented to him already prepared, and that three men, called "gamblers" by Candler, stood around him until he signed it.

"I was alone, and had the greatest fear for the personal safety of myself and my wife if I failed to sign," he said. "I felt that I must sign, and I signed."

Walter Candler today said there were "glaring misstatements" in Byfield's utterance, but said he would make no detailed statement until the case should come up in court.

UNION OFFICER, TAKEN IN RAID, ARRAIGNED

Machinists' Secretary Denies Knowledge of Stench Bombs and Steel Filings Found in Office

Federal Judge English of East St. Louis this morning held Grady G. Henley, 32 years old, of 4743A Greer avenue, secretary and treasurer of Machinists' District No. 5, and C. C. Copeland, alias Charles Pollock, under $5000 bond, each, for violating a Federal injunction forbidding interference with railroad property. The men are in the custody of a United States Marshal.

Pollock, who said that his true name is C. C. Copeland, was arrested Monday afternoon after, it is alleged, he placed a capsule of emery dust and steel filings in the grease cap of an Illinois Central locomotive standing in the East St. Louis roundhouse. Henley was arrested yesterday when the offices of the Missouri Pacific Shop Crafts Union, 417 Granite Building, were searched by local detectives and an agent of the Illinois Central Railroad. In a cabinet in one of the offices were found steel filings, itching powder and chemical stench bombs. Henley said he did not know these things had been in the cabinet.

At the hearing before Judge English this morning, George R. Isom, assistant roundhouse foreman, testified that one of his men had seen Copeland tinkering with an engine which was due to take out a passenger train in a few hours. Isom said Copeland should not have been working on the engine. An examination disclosed the emery and filings in a grease cap, he said, and Copeland was arrested. Isom testified that the capsule's contents would have disabled the locomotive in about 30 minutes and might have caused a wreck.

Judge English has set tomorrow as the time for the men's trial.

Shots Fired Near C. & A. Yards at Venice, Ill., Last Night.

A number of shots were fired near the Chicago & Alton Railroad yards near Venice last midnight. Residents of the neighborhood reported seeing several automobiles leave the yards after the shooting. Police and Sheriff Little of Madison County, arriving soon afterward, found no strangers, but observed that buildings used as offices and tool houses were bullet marked. The Sheriff, with deputies, remained in the yards the rest of the night.

Railroad Employe Assaulted When in Barber Chair.

John Long, 45 years old, employed by the M.-K.-T. Railroad and living at the end of Humboldt street, was being shaved in a barber shop at Thirteenth and Market streets yesterday and was half-lathered when he was assaulted by a man in the shop who took a pick handle from the inside of his trousers leg. Long told the police he was struck on the head several times before the man escaped. At the city hospital Long was said to have suffered fracture of the skull and a six-inch scalp wound.

Cotton Belt Trainmen, Who Quit After Shooting, Return.

Between 150 and 200 Cotton Belt trainmen and switchmen who went on strike at 6 p. m. yesterday at the Illmo, Mo., Terminal, returned to work at 10 a. m. today, according to announcement by President Upthegrove's office today.

The walkout followed rioting and shooting at Fornfelt, adjoining Illmo, early yesterday morning in which Engineer John Turner, 50 years old, living at Fornfelt, was wounded in the left leg by a charge of buckshot while oiling his engine in the roundhouse yard. Railroad employes stated that the presence of guardsmen and special police at terminal points had in several instances resulted in shooting affrays endangering their lives.

DEMOCRATS BEGIN FIGHT AGAINST REED IN STATE

Supporters of Long in Primary Will Try to Keep Senator From Writing Party Platform.

Beginning of a state-wide fight by Democrats who supported Breckinridge Long in the senatorial primary contest to prevent Senator Reed from writing the party platform, and open opposition by the women of the Fifteenth Congressional District to Senator Reed, featured the organization meetings yesterday of Democratic Congressional District Committees at which members of the State Committee were elected.

Woodrow Wilson Democrats, meeting at the Hotel Muehlebach in Kansas City yesterday, formed a Woodrow Wilson Club and adopted a resolution urging the State platform convention, which meets Sept. 12, to approve the Wilson policies.

Policies of 1920 Indorsed.

A similar resolution was adopted by the Fourteenth District Democratic Congressional Committee, meeting at Poplar Bluff. The resolution indorsed "the principles and policies of the party as set forth in our State and national platforms of 1920 and especially felicitating the Democratic party upon its many unprecedented accomplishments both in peace and war under the leadership of Woodrow Wilson."

The Kansas City Woodrow Wilson Club elected officers as follows: President, Mrs. Henry N. Ess; vice president, Horace Blanton; secretary, Mrs. Oscar Smith, and assistant secretary, Miss Elizabeth Gentry. W. B. Burruss, a leader in the anti-Reed movement in Kansas City, said yesterday that Long had had nothing to do with the organization of the club, but did say that supporters of Long in the primary were behind the club movement.

Desire to Preserve Principles.

"We desire to preserve in our new State platform the principles for which Woodrow Wilson and the Democratic party have fought the last few years," Burruss explained. "If Senator Reed writes the platform, the Democratic State ticket may go down to defeat because of the refusal of the thousands of Wilson Democrats to go to the polls in November."

Efforts to make peace in the ranks of the Democratic party out in the State were seen in several of the district meetings. In the Third and Ninth Districts, one Reed Democrat and Wilson Democrat were sent to the State Committee and in several other districts the senatorial fight was carefully avoided.

Women Fighting Reed.

The Fifteenth District Democratic Committee meeting, held at Joplin, ended in a stormy scene with the women Democrats present openly declaring that they "cannot support Senator James A. Reed in the coming election."

Mrs. Martha Taaffe of Carthage, chairman of the Jasper County Women's Democratic Committee, and Mrs. W. C. Porter of Joplin, chairman of the Women's Democratic Committee of the Third Legislative District, led the fight against Reed in a number of short speeches following the organization of the District Committee. The men in the meeting, however, were able to prevent the women from putting through any resolution and adjournment was taken without action by the committee on the Reed matter.

The Republican District Committee meetings for the most part were uneventful. Two committees, the Second and the Third, indorsed Dr. C. E. Clements of Macon for re-election as chairman of the Republican State Committee.

Women Elected to Committee.

Although the three Republican District Committees in St. Louis and St. Louis County yesterday failed to make any provision for representation of women on the State Committee, practically all of the rural districts elected women to an auxiliary committee, the election law making no provision for a legal election of a separate committee for women.

Telegrams to the Post-Dispatch show election of members of the State committees as follows:

Miss Duckworth was riding with Dr. Ralph J. Ferriss, 25, a dentist, and Dr. Paul R. Hollingsworth, 25, of 3643 Blaine avenue, a physician. They were going north on Boyle avenue when the collision with an automobile operated by Daniel O'Neill, 907 Boyle avenue, who was going west on Forest Park boulevard, occurred. Miss Duckworth's injuries consisted of two fractured ribs and internal hurts. Dr. Ferriss was cut and bruised, but not seriously injured.

STILLMAN REPORTED DICKERING FOR ISLE IN SOUTHERN BAYOU

Banker Said to Have Eye on Island in Louisiana Marsh That Is Practically Inaccessible.

Special to the Post-Dispatch.

NEW ORLEANS, Aug. 16.—Far down in the tangled skein of Louisiana's bayous, salt marshes and wide lakes there lies a beautiful little island, inapproachable except by flat-bottomed launches, which leaped to fame in New Orleans Tuesday when a real estate agent's employe admitted negotiations were being carried on for its sale to James A. Stillman, New York banker.

The island is in the heart of the hunting country of South Louisiana. Although it is within a day's journey of New Orleans, it is seldom visited even by hunting parties because of the shallow waters that surround it.

That Stillman had selected this spot as a Utopia of the silent world untouched by the mad publicity which has gripped him during the last two years, came to light when A. D. Goghegan, president of the Southport Mills Co. Ltd., of New Orleans, admitted negotiations for the sale of the island. Goghegan would not say who wanted the island, but the agent's employes said the terms of sale have been submitted to Stillman.

The island is known both as Prevost Island and as the Isle of Coquilles. It has an area of 6328 acres, is four miles long and 25 miles in circumference. It is the beauty spot of the islands in the salt marsh country. It rises to an elevation on which pecan and orange groves are maintained by the sole inhabitant, an old caretaker for Goghegan.

CHICAGO MEETING TO DECIDE ST. LOUIS NEED OF COAL

it is not unlikely that they will refuse to be bound by it, but such refusal would affect only a fractional part of the production.

F. C. Honnold of Chicago, secretary of the Illinois Operators' Association, members of which own the mines where the anti-Farrington miners would be employed if production is resumed, in a statement today said that the Cleveland agreement was signed by a "handful" of operators from fields where conditions differ greatly from those in Illinois, and that the fact-finding or advisory committee provided for in the agreement promises no accomplishment in the way of bona fide agreement.

Honnold's Opinion.

"Since the Cleveland settlement," he says, "practically guarantees only a repetition next spring of all the extravagant demands of the miners and another prolonged strike, Illinois operators, regardles sof some possible defections from their ranks, will continue to urge bona fire arbitration as a condition precedent to continuing the old wage scale until next March 31."

W. K. Kavanaugh, president of the Operators' Association of the Fifth and Ninth Districts, says "the settlement at Cleveland could not possibly apply to Illinois."

Until after the Friday conference, therefore, it will not be known whether St. Louis will benefit from the Cleveland agreement in the resumption of its coal supply, because nearly all of its coal comes from Illinois and resumption is contingent upon a separate agreement being reached.

ELOPING PASTOR FACES EMBEZZLEMENT TRIAL

Minister Said to Have Taken Hospital Funds and Disappeared With Head Nurse.

By the Associated Press.

McALESTER, Ok., Aug. 16.—The Rev. J. C. Trotter, pastor of the Methodist Church, South, of Haileyville, Ok., who eloped last week with Miss Audrey Campbell, a nurse, after sending his wife and three children to Chattanooga, Tenn., was arraigned here yesterday on a charge of embezzling approximately $3200 from Brooks Institute, a hospital and community house at Hartshorne. Trotter was financial secretary of the institute.

Bond was fixed at $3000 and the minister was remanded to jail to await trial.

Trotter was arrested with Miss Campbell Monday night at Eufaula. She gave up her position as head nurse at the institute to elope with the minister.

Miss Campbell told the County Attorney that her love for the minister was so strong that she intended to stick with him to the end. She was released on bond.

The minister's wife and three small children left Haileyville last Friday for Chattanooga. Trotter then disappeared. Check of his accounts resulted in the search for him.

Reports $200 Missing From Safe.

John Karzin, manager of the Casino Theater, 1618 Market street, has asked detectives to investigate the disappearance of $200 from a locked safe in the office of the theater Monday night. He put the money in the safe, locked it and locked the office door Monday night, he reported. When he visited the office yesterday all the doors were locked, as was the safe, but the money was gone.

A Source of Steady Income

Safe bonds provide an ideal investment for those who desire a steady income of fixed amounts payable at regular intervals.

Because safe bonds designate and pay a fixed rate of interest, usually collected by presenting coupons at the bank, and because payment of the principal is guaranteed by mortgage upon sufficient physical property, this type of investment is highly recommended as particularly desirable by trustworthy financial institutions.

Bonds are splendidly adapted to those who are inexperienced in the handling of surplus funds or to those who do not have the time to seek and watch investments of more complicated nature.

Regularly in the Post-Dispatch are announcements of leading Banks, Investment Houses, and Trust Companies containing offerings of safe bonds—any of these advertisers will explain how to invest in ways that will yield the highest interest return, and at the same time provide maximum safety.

TROLLEY CAR AIDS TRAIN

Carries Conductor for Help for Dead Engine, Saving Him From Dilemma.

Proximity and parallelism of trolley lines to railroads on the East Side aided in extrication of a Chicago & Alton train from a dilemma yesterday. Where the Jacksonville accommodation lomomotive went dead, near Wood River, there was no telephone or telegraph handy to call for help. But the Alton, Granite City & St. Louis traction line was at hand and a car was coming. Conductor Burdick ran through the weeds to the trolley track and boarded the car and went to Alton and brought back a live locomotive and the track was cleared before any through trains came along.

Wrong Man Named in Report.

By the Associated Press.

LEESVILLE, La., Aug. 16.—An erroneous report Aug. 9 from here said that Travis Barnhill had been seized by masked men, taken to the country and given a coat of tar and feathers. The masked men were reported to have accused Barnhill of mistreating his wife. Subsequent investigation shows that Travis Barnhill was not the man attacked and accused. It was Truly Barnhill. The names of the two men, who are relatives, were confused in the first reports. Travis Barnhill was not involved.

Alkali In Soap Bad for the Hair

Soap should be used very carefully, if you want to keep your hair looking its best. Most soaps and prepared shampoos contain too much alkali. This dries the scalp, makes the hair brittle, and ruins it.

The best thing for steady use is Mulsified coconut oil shampoo (which is pure and greaseless), and is better than anything else you can use.

Two or three teaspoonfuls of Mulsified in a cup or glass with a little warm water is sufficient to cleanse the hair and scalp thoroughly. Simply moisten the hair with water and rub it in. It makes an abundance of rich creamy lather, which rinses out easily, removing every particle of dust, dirt, dandruff and excess oil. The hair dries quickly and evenly, and it leaves the scalp soft, and the hair fine and silky, bright, lustrous, fluffy and easy to manage.

You can get Mulsified coconut oil shampoo at any pharmacy, it's very cheap and a few ounces will supply every member of the family for months. Be sure your druggist gives you Mulsified.

DANCE MUSIC ON K S D PROGRAM THIS EVENING

Miss Sara Curry, Soprano, and Miss Louise Jackson, Pianist, Heard Last Night.

Youth was the dominant feature of last night's K S D program. Miss Sara Curry, East St. Louis soprano, who gave the greater portion of the concert, will celebrate her eighteenth birthday tomorrow, and Miss Louise Jackson, pianist, another East St. Louisan, is about the same age.

The freshness of youth as well as its daringness was shown in the songs of Miss Curry. Sweet, clear and true her voice is, and she attacked the difficulties of at least one of the world's vocal masterpieces without trepidation and, truth to say, carried off the effort with great credit to herself. This was the immortal "Serenade" of Schubert, which she sang with a sweetness and genuine good taste that was most pleasing.

Her other numbers were ballads, and all were presented in a delightful manner. Miss Jackson essayed only one number in the program—the Second Hungarian Rhapsody of Liszt, to which she gave a somewhat unusual albeit pleasing interpretation, and assumed a very varying tempo, more varying, even, than the exigencies of that character of composition usually require. Mrs. H. R. Berry, president of the Schubert Club of East St. Louis and one of the best amateur musicians of that city, accompanied Miss Curry's songs.

A program of dance music is on the schedule for this evening's concert. The Royal Garden Orchestra of Washington University will present the program, which will consist entirely of ultra popular dance numbers. Members of the orchestra are Clifford G. Wassell, leader and violin; Charles Dienel, piano; Carl Hohengarten, saxophone; Francis Nicolay, saxophone; Eugene McCollom, cornet; Robert Smith, trombone; Jack Hellmich, banjo, and Robert Cook, drums.

From Kapuskasing, Ontario, Canada.

I would like to compliment you on your radio concerts. Give my regards to Miss Mona Smith for her beautiful solos given on Aug. 3, also to Miss Beatrice Knetzger for her grand piano selections. I am operating a diamond drill near James Bay on the Mattagami River, and it took me five days by canoe with two Indians to get this far, and it will take me a night and one day by fast train to get as far south as Toronto.

ARTHUR GRIFFITH IS BURIED IN PATRIOTS' FIELD

Thousands Unable to Get Inside Dublin Cathedral Pay Homage in Street to Passing of Leader.

AMERICAN LAYS WREATH ON GRAVE

Cortege, Made Up of All Classes, Regarded as One of Most Impressive Spectacles in Irish History.

By the Associated Press

DUBLIN, Aug. 16.—Arthur Griffith was laid to rest today in historical Glasnevin Cemetery, where so many famous patriots lie, after services of impressive solemnity in the Cathedral of the Immaculate Conception. Homage was paid by huge crowds, representatives of all walks of life. At the cathedral, along the route of the funeral procession and at the cemetery, they gathered to honor his passing. Many attended the solemn requiem high mass for the departed leader. The cathedral was crowded and thousands, unable to gain admission, stood in the streets outside, following as nearly as possible the service they could not see. The body reposed on a catafalque before the main altar, under the dome.

Archbishop Represents Church.

The Catholic church was represented by Archbishop Berne of Dublin. On either side of the celebrant was a Canon, and he was assisted by a deacon, sub-deacon and master of ceremonies.

America was represented by Francis Doyle of Philadelphia, who came from London especially to join in the national tribute to Griffith and to place a wreath on his grave. Doyle was American counsel for Sir Roger Casement at his trial in London.

The wreath bore the inscription: "With deep sympathy and loving affection, from American friends."

Cardinal Logue, Primate of Ireland, was prevented by the infirmities of age from attending the ceremony, but sent a fervent message of sympathy.

Formation of Cortege.

The procession to the cemetery was headed by a cavalry guard, followed up by infantry with a band. Then came clergy and the hearse with a guard of honor. The widow and children rode behind in carriages. Next came Michael Collins, Griffiths' main support in the fight to set up ordered government in Ireland and commander of the army on which the Free State advocates rest their hopes. Next in line were the Lord Mayor of Dublin and representatives of various public bodies.

All activities in Dublin were suspended during the funeral. The body of Griffith lay last night on a catafalque before the altar in the cathedral. It was taken to the cathedral from the city hall, where it had been lying in state, followed by a cortege, which constituted one of the most impressive spectacles in Irish history. All Dublin, it would seem, with bowed heads, had assembled along the route of the procession.

FREE STATE TROOPS OCCUPY CHARLEVILLE

By the Associated Press.

DUBLIN, Aug. 16.—An official report issued from headquarters said the Free State troops under Commandant-General Calvin occupied Charleville, County Cork, Sunday evening. They occupied Buttevant without opposition.

Free State troops are reported to have the last important position held by the irregulars in County Kerry. The Nationals surrounded the irregular stronghold at Clare Castle near Ardee yesterday, capturing 17 of the rebels.

A mesage from Newry yesterday said Dundalk was quiet with the Irish irregulars still in possession. The casualties during the fighting which preceded the capture of the town numbered 10 killed and 30 wounded. Most of these were national army troops. The majority of the deaths resulted from an explosion at the gate to the military baracks, which had been mined. Commandant McKenna, commander of the irregulars, was killed when his automobile struck a mine.

BOY, 11, HOLDS POSSE AT BAY

Kentuckian Youth, Sought for Robberies, Escapes.

Special to the Post-Dispatch.

CORBIN, Ky., Aug. 16.—Claude Eagle, 11, is at large after a spectacular career yesterday.

Claude was found by Lonnie Hibbard ransacking Hibbard's room. Hibbard says he tried to capture the boy, who drew a pistol and forced Hibbard to keep his hands up, while Claude escaped. Several other robberies were ascribed by police to the boy and a posse started after him.

Claude took refuge on a train just pulling out. Sighting members of the posse, he held them at bay, firing several times. The train was stopped and the boy jumped off and dived into the underbrush. Finally the pursuit became so hot that Claude swam a creek and escaped into the hills. His alleged loot included jewelry and a considerable amount of money, police say.

OFFICIAL COUNT SHOWS REED WON BY 5942

Tabulation Gives Brewster Plurality of 21,878 Over Sacks in Republican Race.

By a Staff Correspondent of the Post-Dispatch.

JEFFERSON CITY, Aug. 16.—Senator James A. Reed defeated Breckinridge Long for the Democratic nomination for United States Senator by 5942 votes, according to the official tabulation completed last night by Secretary of State Becker and his assistante.

Reginald R. Brewster of Kansas City defeated William Sacks of St. Louis, his closest competitor for the Republican nomination for that office, by 21,878 votes.

For the three Democratic candidates 130,192 more votes were cast than were cast for the seven Republicans for whom votes were counted, according to the tabulation.

Votes on Senate Candidates.

The senatorial candidates and the votes received by them were as follows:

Democrats—Reed, 195,955; Long, 190,013; Robert I. Young, 9979.

Republicans—Brewster, 89,528; Sacks, 67,650; Attorney-General Jesse W. Barrett, 39,542; John C. McKinley, 32,124; David M. Proctor, 28,675; John H. Parker, 9794; Sterling P. Bond, 422.

Socialist—William M. Brandt, 1085.

Socialist-Labor—105.

Although Bond had announced his withdrawal, his name was left on the ballots in some of the counties, notably St. Louis County, with the result that he received a small vote.

The total vote cast for the three Democrats was 395,947, while the seven Republicans polled a total of 265,755.

Figures on 1920 Primary.

In the 1920 primary three Republican candidates for the nomination for United States Senator polled a total of 192,749 votes as compared to 176,001 for the six Democrats. In the general election of 1920 Senator Spencer defeated Breckinridge Long by 711,161 to 589,498.

Thus, in the 1920 primary, Republicans polled 16,747 votes more than did the Democrats and in the general election this advantage was increased to 121,663.

The 130,192 votes more cast for Reed, Long and Young than for the Republicans in the recent primary thus shows a total switch from the 1920 primary of 146,939 votes and a total switch from the general election result of 251,855 votes.

Backs Up Anti-Reed Claims.

To students of politics this lends color to the claims of anti-Reed men that the Senator not only brought back to the recent primary with him members of groups which had wandered off the Democratic reservation in 1920, but also some thousands of Republicans who wanted to make certain that Reed was nominated.

The total vote in the recent primary on United States Senator, the only State-wide office which was vigorously contested in both parties, was 661,702, as compared to a total of 370,266 for United States Senator in the 1920 primary, before women were voting in this State, and as compared to a total of 1,324,494 votes cast for the same office at the 1920 general election, with women voting.

It is probable that tabulations on the other offices at stake in the primary will not be completed today, as returns are incomplete on some of them.

BURGLARY CHRGES AGAINST THREE MEN ARE DISMISSED

Store Owner Caused Arrest of Auto Party After Burglar Alarm Awakened Him.

Charges of second-degree burglary against Frank J. Rattican of 2927 Natural Bridge avenue, Richard Connell of 4052 McPherson avenue and David Redmond of 5107 Minerva avenue, were dismissed yesterday by Justice of the Peace Stecker at Clayton. The three men were charged with having entered a small general store of Joseph L. and John Amans, on the Olive Street road, near the Spoede road, in St. Louis County, on the morning of July 23.

Testimony introduced by the Amans woman was that they were awakened by an electric burglar alarm about 12:10 a. m. July 23 and Joseph Amans found the three men in an automobile about 20 feet from the store, which, he said, showed signs of having been entered, a padlock on the door having been broken. Joseph testified that he held the men with a shotgun while his brother called Deputy Sheriff Grupp, who arrested the men.

The three men testified that they were returning to St. Louis "from a little party" near Creve Coeur Lake, and that they stopped near the store to obtain water for the automobile. Although they admitted that they might have approached the store, they testified that they had no intention of stealing anything. Nothing was missing from the store.

Man 60, Killed by Bank Robbers.
By the Associated Press.

JUAREZ, CHIHUAHUA, Mexico, Aug. 16.—Three masked robbers entered the Bank of David Russek and Co. in the heart of the Juarez business district shortly after noon yesterday and killed J. Guadulupe Camacho, 60, retired financier and father of Luis Roberto Camacho, the manager. The younger Camacho, 35, was badly beaten as he fought the three robbers. Police caught two suspects and prevented the robbery of the institution, one man was caught in the bank and the other was captured after a chase.

Why is this such a wonderful sale of Living-Room Furniture?

First: Because of the tremendous assortment of styles and patterns. Remember, these were "display," or sample Suites, used to show the newest styles for the coming season. If you purchase one now you will possess it several months in advance of the time when its duplicate will be on the market anywhere.

Second: Because they were samples, the manufacturers disposed of them at far less than the regular prices, a necessity, on account of the big expense entailed in repacking, reshipping to factory, etc.

Third: Because we not only save you what we saved in making this purchase, but more. Because we are now in the midst of the AUGUST SALE OF FURNITURE, we have marked every piece in this lot at a much lower price than we could afford ordinarily, and this is a double saving to you.

Fourth: Because any of this Furniture which may be remaining in stock after the first of September will be marked at the regular price, which is about 35% average above the August sale price. You can therefore see that it will mean a substantial saving to buy now.

Fifth: One trip to the floor, one look at this wonderful display of Furniture, an examination of the values will convince you that you cannot afford to miss this opportunity—"The greatest sale of Living-Room Furniture that we have ever known."

FOREST PARK PIANO RECITAL BY GAUNTLETT CALLED OFF

Park Commissioner Believes Only Small Part of Capacity Crowd Could Hear Performance.

A piano recital announced for Aug. 21 in the open-air theater in Forest Park, will not be given.

Park Commissioner Pape has reconsidered a tentative permission to Basil D. Gauntlett, director of the Conservatiry of Music of Stevens College, Columbia, Mo., for a free concert.

Pape said today that he was convinced that only a small percentage of the capacity of the theater could hear a piano on the stage of the theater, and that he was safeguarding its prestige for successful productions. He also said that he felt that the precedent of allowing one musician to obtain the inevitable personal advertising from a performance in a theater, the fame of which is widening, would lead to many other musicians seeking a similar privilege, a custom that he did not think desirable.

By the Associated Press.

CARTHAGE, N. C., Aug. 16.—After being out seven minutes, the jury in the trial of three negroes on charges growing out of the attack on Mr. and Mrs. A. E. Ketchens of Miami, Fla., automobile tourists, near Southern Pines, 10 days ago, returned a verdict of guilty as to two of the negroes, who were immediately sentenced to die in the electric chair on Sept. 15. John Lee, the other negro, was found guilty of secret assault, but was not sentenced. The negroes sentenced to be executed are Angus Murphy and Jasper Thomas.

ON WAY TO LIVE WITH SON SHE HAS NOT SEEN FOR 58 YEARS

Aged Woman Who Lived in County Home Also to Receive $10,000 in Civil War Pensions.

By the Associated Press.

KANSAS CITY, Mo., Aug. 15.—Mrs. Mary Margaret Roper, 83, who has lived at the Jackson County home for the aged for 12 years, today is on her way to Columbus, O., to live with her son, Joseph, 62 years old. She has not seen her son since he was four years old. Constrained to make and sell quilts at the home, as she said "to provide against burial in the potters' field." Mrs. Roper had, before she left, been assured by the G. A. R. that she is entitled to and soon will have in her possession $10,000, 30 years' back pension, resulting from the service of her husband, James Roper, now dead, in the Civil War.

Fifty-eight years ago, Roper, following his return from the war, became angered at something which she said, Mrs. Roper declared, before departing, and left her, taking with him two children, four and one year old, who were born during the war. That happened in Springfield, O., she said. Overwhelmed by grief, she was ill nearly a year at the home of her sister. Then her sister died and Mrs. Roper went to Lees Summitt, Mo., where she lived by sewing and doing housework for a living, till she was 71 years old, when she went to the county home.

TELLS OF RELATIONS WITH MURDER SUSPECT

Man Questioned in Connection With Giberson Case Throws Little Light on Mystery.

By Leased Wire From the New York Bureau of the Post-Dispatch.

NEW YORK, Aug. 16.—Arrested Monday at Lakehurst, N. J., Mrs. Ivy Giberson remained in the county jail, at Tom's River, N. J., yesterday while the counts of evidence on which she was accused of the murder of her husband underwent kaleidoscopic changes.

The discovery of two vials of chloroform in the home of Mrs. Ivy Giberson, after the finding of her husband, who had been shot to death in his bed, has started Coroner Brower on an investigation to ascertain whether Giberson was chloroformed before he was shot.

Joe Richmond, 18-year-old son of Mrs. Giberson by a former marriage, told the authorities that a few hours after the discovery of the crime he detected a smell of chloroform in the house. The Coroner learned also that others had noticed the same odor.

Mrs. Giberson, when rescuers answered her calls for help, told police that two robbers had entered the room, and after taking $700 belonging to her husband, one had shot him when he awoke and apparently recognized him.

Harold A. Ganun, 36 years old, of the Bronx, was hunted out by Wilfred H. Jayne, prosecutor of Ocean County, accompanied by two of the State constabulary. They found him employed by the M. J. Kellogg Co. in charge of construction work at Shore Road and Sixty-fifth street, Brooklyn. Ganun admitted he was an admirer of Mrs. Giberson and readily agreed to accompany the New Jersey officials to Tom's River. He described Mrs. Giberson as one of the finest women he ever knew. He is married and has a daughter and he told Prosecutor Jayne that Mrs. Giberson knew this.

The following statement was given by Ganun: "I met Mrs. Giberson when employed as superintendent for the Lord Construction Co. on the eretcion of a naval hangar at Lakehurst in January, 1921. I was friendly with her from January, 1921, to July, 1921, when I left. I was introduced to her by Mrs. James Thompson, with whom I was boarding. After I left I received several letters from Mrs. Giberson. I always held her in the highest regard and always thought of her as a discreet and innocent woman."

Regarding the Letters.

Tom's River, on receipt of the news that Ganun had been found and was on his way there was of the opinion that Ganun had been sought as author of the 100 love letters to Mrs. Giberson, found, according to the authorities, in her secretaire, and which she sought to conceal from detectives investigating her husband's murder. This proved unfounded.

The so-called love letters proved to be half illiterate and largely illegible and the other half in a woman's handwriting. At the prosecutor's office last night the illiterate letters were attributed to John Meehan of Sydney, N. Y., to whom Mrs. Giberson referred as her husband from whom she had obtained a divorce and said to be the father of her son employed by the A. Brandt Lumber Co. at Lakewood, N. J., under the name of James Richmond, Richmond being Mrs. Giberson's maiden name.

Gossip Leads to Search.

There was nothing in the so-called love letters from Meehan that suggested any connection with the murder of Giberson. The letters in a woman's handwriting were from Wilmington, Del. The county detectives gave importance to them on a theory that they were from a daughter of Mrs. Gilberson. She denied she had a daughter.

The Rev. H. H. Magee, pastor of the Methodist Episcopal Church of Lakehurst, declared that neither Mrs. Gilberson nor her husband ever had been a member of his church and in so far as he knew they had not been affiliated with the local Presbyterian congregation, the only other church in the town.

From Ganun the most important evidence was extracted. It appeared he had been sought because he and Mrs. Gilberson made no effort to conceal their mutual interest in each other's company following their introduction when Ganun was employed on constructon work at the Federal air station. He is tall and of good appearance. His wife and daughter are at an up-state resort.

No letter of Ganun could be found to have played any part in the search for him. He seemed to have been sought because of Lakehurst gossip connecting his name with that of Mrs. Gilberson.

Quick clearing up of the murder, which appeared to have been the confident expectation of the prosecutor Monday night, was dissipated by the events yesterday. Prosecutor Jayne obtained from the Coroner an adjournment of the inquest to Aug. 29.

WIFE DEFENDS DRAKE UNIVERSITY PROFESSOR

Says Music Teacher, Charged With Improper Exposure, Was Victim of Compulsory Neurosis.

By the Associated Press.

DES MOINES, Iowa, Aug. 16.—Wallingford Riegger, professor of music at Drake University, and recent winner of a prize of $500 for a musical composition, today pleaded not guilty in municipal court to a charge of improper exposure. He was held to the grand jury in $1000 bond.

"Grossly false and fantastic," was the statement of Rieger, who is a widely known 'cellist, concerning his arrest and arraignment late yesterday afternoon on a charge of making improper advances to women. He flatly denied the charges made as the basis for his arrest. Chief of Police Hammond declares that he will press the charges against the musician.

Professor Riegger tendered his resignation to Drake University this morning.

"My whole career has been damaged beyond estimate by this scandal," Riegger said. "I have no course but to resign. I have no intention of leaving the city, however, until the whole matter is cleared up."

Mrs. Riegger defended her husband, stating that he was perhaps a victim of compulsory neurosis and that he had been under a physician's care for some time.

President Arthur Holmes of Drake University called a special board meeting to consider the music professor's resignation. President Holmes stated that Professor Riegger was undoubtedly suffering from a pathological physical condition which caused temporary mental derangement.

Book News and Reviews

Conducted by Dr. Otto Heller, Professor of Modern European Literature in Washington University.

Mrs. Burnett's Sequel to "Head of the House of Coombe" is Emotional Story With Touch of the Mystic — Ludwig Lewisohn Expounds Laws of the Drama and Tells of Shaw's "Decline."

"THE DRAMA AND THE STAGE," by Ludwig Lewisohn. (Harcourt Brace & Co.)

"IF there is one person, we are often tempted to assert, who should not be permitted to criticize the drama, it is the dramatic critic." In this sentence, opening the chapter on "The Critic and the Theater," Mr. Lewisohn reveals the extent to which he apprehends the difficulties attending his job. The statement, we must admit, is true enough; it would not be so, however, if critics generally approached their tasks in Mr. Lewisohn's mood.

This is a book of essays, consisting partly of articles previously appearing in The Nation, where the author holds the post of dramatic critic. It would be a serious mistake to assume, however, that the studies lack thoroughness and permanent value. The contrary is true. Lewisohn, a brilliant stylist at all times, shines at his best here, and the work shows all the marks of care and mature thought. Moreover, the volume has the advantage of variety and scope, as well as of terseness. No less than 27 subjects are treated.

The judicious, we fancy, will be powerfully intrigued by the chapter, "Shaw: Height and Decline," and, indeed, it is the piece de resistance of the collection. Here the author discloses his amazing penetration and his power of shrewd analysis; and his graphic abandonment of Shaw as a mystic rings with the full note of tragedy. Lewisohn has ever been a partisan of Shaw; it is not until "Back to Methusaleh" that he sorsowfully admits that they have reached the parting of the ways.

In "Heartbreak House" he saw the sage still at the zenith of his powers. "It is not the least of the great qualities of Bernard Shaw that he knows what the world is like, that his has never been a fugitive and cloistered virtue (is the author thinking of Barrie?), that he has never slunk out of the heat and dust of the race. And hence the evil days that have come upon us and that have tarnished so many escutcheons of the spirit, have found him erect and incorruptible, the master of himself and of his mind. * * *

"'All great truths,' Shaw announces, 'begin in blasphemies.' He proceeds to utter in his own person, the grave, necessary blasphemies of the moment concerning the delirium of the war, the vulgar attack on Germany's share in the spiritual life of mankind, the true nature of the unspeakable peace." That is enough to demonstrate Lewisohn's opinion of the sage at the time of Shaw's last major work before the latest. Consider how he greets the last opus:

"Bernard Shaw is 65, and in despair. The mad peace finished what the mad war had begun. We still live in a state of 'boyish, cinema-fed romanticism;' we are governed by grownup children and defectives. Strongly and naturally the doubt arises, 'whether the human animal, as he exists at present, is capable of solving the problems raised by his own aggregation.' So the human animal must be changed; we must transform the biological process from a process to a weapon and a tool. We must harness the Life Force to our chariots and drive into a city of God which we ourselves have built. It is sheer mysticism; and that Shaw, like the aged Comte, has become a mystic, is a tragic disaster."

With something like the old Shaw's relentless logic. Lewisohn confronts him with fact after fact. His "inner consciousness" is nothing more than our old friend, faith, the same evidence of things unseen, which has justified the flat earth and the wheeling sun—the beautiful and pathetic thing from which errors and miseries untold have flowed. "But he does not stop. He has no eyes for the green earth, or its poor, passionate, struggling inhabitants. He whirs his iron wings, and sets forth on his lonely quest of the great inane. * * * In no sense will men take his bleak parable to heart. It is the monument of a great despair." Thus, sadly and wistfully, does Lewisohn take leave of what may prove to have been the greatest intellect of our age.

Space forbids a discussion of the other articles, but this is a sample. The volume is timely because Mr. Lewisohn is just now enjoying a considerable popularity—and a richly deserved one.

ROBIN, by Frances Hodgson Burnett. F. A. Stokes Co.

ROBIN is almost a fairy figure. She is ethereally gentle and unbelievably innocent. A calloused, uncaring mother leaves her to the frowns of a world which might have frowned at her very hard, indeed, if the Head of the House of Coombe had not afforded his protection. As a child-wife of wartime, Robin passes through woman's supreme ordeal after receiving the news that her boy husband is among the dead in France. She is able to bear her burden only through the sustaining results of her method of "dreaming true," which is substantially that used by Peter Ibbetson and his lady-love, for their telepathic communication.

The Head of the House of Coombe, cynical by habit, made himself believe Robin's story of a secret and unrecorded marriage. The reader, therefore, may believe it also. Those days of stress and impending death were days also of recklessness in matters of the heart. To place the love of Robin and Donal out of the common run of the love affairs of the time, and while doing this, to preserve the atmosphere of the time as illuminating all such incidents, is a task which Mrs. Burnett has performed with delicate artistry. The book is, in a way, a sequel of "The Head of the House of Coombe."

"The CRYSTAL COFFIN," by Maurice Rostand. (Robert M. McBride & Co.)

THIS book is not an apology. It does not grovel at the feet of anyone, imploring forgiveness. It beseeches no sovereign, no divinity, no power. It is but a mighty general protest, a vast indictment of everything, of the universe, of myself." These are the words of the imaginary narrator; to say whether or not they represent the author himself would be dangerous, but here is the evidence: The book is written in the first person, it is emotionally saturated with the outpouring "de profundis" of a soul, and as it stands, the quoted words describe it.

The story is supposedly the confession of a young man prior to his committing suicide, and the main theme is the clash between him and his father, Jacques de Merville, an intellectual genius who influences thousands by the hope which his idealistic philosophy offers. The affection between father and son is deep, but there are certain unaccountable barriers which prevent a real, sustaining communion. The young man traces the growth of skepticism in religion under the tutelage of a stony, methodically pious, old grandmother, and soon learns to distrust his father's idealism. His own views blossom in a thorough-going hedonism. Endowed with a yearning for self-expression, he yet lacked articulateness in the media of art, and so meant to make a "masterpiece" of his youth by expending on it "all the gifts the gods had bestowed," namely, all his capabilities for having pleasure. In fewer words, he sowed wild oats. Then came disillusionment, and he passed to nihilism. When the war breaks out, he declines to kill others, and leaves France. De Merville, disappointed in his son's renunciation of his "duty," himself enlists and is killed. The son is deeply shaken by this, and at the father' tomb adopts his gospel of faith and hope. Then comes the ironic denoument; one of De Merville's letters, discovered after his death, discloses the last stage of his philosophy. The idealism is shattered; he died a nihilist. "That letter, overflowing with infinite regret, was an eternal farewell; the beliefs to which his hope on earth had rallied me were tumbling before my terrified gaze as if they were beloved, venerable idols. Nothing was left me but to die. . . ."

Maurice Rostand is the son of Edmond, the dramatist. Le Cercueil de Cristal is his first novel. It is unquestionably real literature, but uniquely enough, this judgment bears little testimony as to the artistic caliber of the writer. So unalleviated is its subjectivity, of a psychopath, at that, that one asks the question, What else can he write? The prose at times reaches far into the domain of poetry, and the reader will find much that he himself may have tried to express in moments of self-analysis.

"CHRONICLES OF CHICORA WOOD," by Elizabeth W. Allston Pringle. (Charles Scribner's Sons.)

OF the splendid and happy days in the Old South before the war, the tragic days of '61 to '65, and of the sad days that followed the fall of the Confederacy, Elizabeth W. Allston Pringle has written in her "Chronicles of Chicora Wood" as only a gentlewoman of the Old South can write. Intimate little details of her family life as a child and young woman, charmingly told, are moulded together to give the story of life on the plantation. Mrs. Pringle writes interestingly of her memories of those days, memories which reflect the beauty and pathos of a bygone age. Her story is simply told, but gives the reader a precise and clear insight into heart and mind of the woman of the South.

"THE INDUSTRIAL CODE," by W. Jett Lauck and Claude S. Watts. (Funk & Wagnalls Co.)

The work of an advocate such as Mr. Lauck is necessarily approached with reserve or enthusiasm, according to the point of view of the reader, but he and his co-author have undoubtedly compiled in "The Industrial Code" a mass of material valuable to the student of such questions.

A LETTER FROM E. M. DELAFIELD.

MY childhood was spent in Devonshire, and I do not remember showing any sign of literary tendencies at all while I was growing up. My first novel was written when I was 23, and working as a V. A. D. in Exeter. I wrote it out of doors, on tram-tops, in trains, and sometimes in the Exeter public library. It was sent under the name of E. M. Delafield as I wished it to stand or fall on its own merits, and not on those of my mother's name—Mrs. Henry de la Pasture.

"During the war I was a V. A. D., and for one year worked at the Ministry of National Service in the southwestern region of England. In 1919 I married Maj. Paul Dashwood of the Royal Engineers, son of Sir George and Lady Mary Dashwood. We spent two years in the Malay States and are now living near my old home in the place I know and love best.

"I do my writing at odd moments, as I find time, but get through a certain amount every day. I do not require silence or solitude, and have no 'eccentricities of genius'—no doubt because the genius is lacking! My favorite occupation is reading other people's novels, and I have a special admiration for those of Clemence Dane, Anne Douglas Sedgwick, E. M. Forster and Edith Wharton.

"My home is in the country, and is a cottage. I have one little boy and look after him myself instead of paying another woman to do it for me."

"THE GLORIOUS HOPE," by Jane Burr. (Thomas Seltzer.)

THE hope described in the title as "glorious" is the longing of a successful play-producing woman for a babyful family life. She is one of the little small-town girls who come to New York with nothing but convictions as to their artistic abilities, land in Greenwich Village, and presto!—become famous over night. The plot moves rapidly, although the author tries very hard to put the emphasis on the heroine's soul-life. "A great unseen mallet," we read, 'struck Eve on the head, and that part of her brain that was meant for happiness went numb." Some time later, "success already had her by the neck! It screamed into her ears!"

TRIBULATIONS OF A TRAMPING AUTHOR.

JUST at present I have a position as pianist in a waterfront saloon, patronized by British sailors," writes Harry L. Foster, the author of "The Adventures of a Tropical Tramp." I receive no salary, but when the patrons have become sufficiently intoxicated, somebody passes a hat around.

"You see when I wrote you that I would remain in Saigon, I intended to do so, but an Italian poet ran away with my baggage, and I've been chasing him ever since, and owing to my lack of fortune, I'm getting farther and farther behind. But that will give a plot to my new book—"A Beach Comber in the Orient"—a picture of myself hiking all over the Orient with one suit of clothes and a camera, pursuing my other possessions.

"I walked on foot across Indo-China and Siam, beat my way on freight cars through the Malay States to Singapore, and have now arranged with a sea captain to take me to Borneo, where I'll devise some means of reaching Manila. In these days of business depression, I'm not finding employment as I found it in South America, so my book will be a story of how I bummed my way rather than how I worked my way.

"And today I'm staying indoors while my one change of clothing goes to the laundry, damning the Italian poet."

CLOTHING FACTORY PICKETING ATTRIBUTED TO OPEN SHOP

Trial of Injunction Suit Against Unions Began Yesterday in Circuit Court.

Trial of the suit to enjoin members of the Amalgamated Clothing Workers' Local No. 105 and the Journeymen Tailors of America from picketing the factory of the Hecht Bros. Clothing Co. at 1224 Washington avenue, which began yesterday before Circuit Judge Falkenhainer, was resumed today.

The company alleges that the defendants began picketing the plant several weeks ago and interfered with its employes and business. Failure to unionize the factory is the cause of the trouble, it is alleged.

Louis H. Harris, vice president, testified that the company always had been conducted on the open-shop basis. Last July, he said, it was noticed that some union employes attempted to induce all other employes to join the union, but they did not succeed. Then, he said, it was decided by the company that the plant should be closed for the purpose of replanning work, and when it was reopened several days later 140 of the 180 employes returned to work by invitation of the company.

Some of the union agitators did not get back, but Harris denied that their unionism was the principal reason for not re-employing them. Unsatisfactory workmanship and trouble making were the principal factors in keeping them out, he said.

Women and men employes testified that they had been threatened by pickets. They said wages in the plant ran from $20 to $37.50 a week and that they were satisfied with conditions and were opposed to joining a union. It is the contention of the defendants that the union employes were designedly locked out and that they have a lawful right to picket the factory.

FEDERAL INJUNCTION AGAINST COAL MINERS' UNION GRANTED

Mobile & Ohio Obtains Writ, Citing Interference With Train That Occurred Aug. 12.

Judge English, in the Federal Court, East St. Louis, yesterday granted the petition of the Mobile & Ohio Railroad Co. for an order restraining members of the coal miners' union and sympathizers from interfering with the hauling of coal or other merchandise on the road. The writ is returnable Aug. 18.

The petition states that on last Saturday, Aug. 12, three freight trains on the Mobile & Ohio Railroad were surrounded by striking coal miners and others, when they stopped at a crossing in Percy, Ill., and that the crowd forced the conductor to "set out" the cars of coal before they would permit the train to proceed. One of the cars of coal was set on fire and destroyed.

The restraining order is directed against the United Mine Workers of America, District No. 12, three locals of the organization and R. T. McAlister, president; Abijah Huggins, vice president, and Joe Hartley, secretary, the members of the organization and their friends and sympathizers of the striking miners.

Found Dead, Pistol at Side.

Albert Schelling, 40 years old, of 229 East Courtois street, a concrete worker, was found dead on the floor of his home with a bullet hole in the left breast and an automatic pistol at his side yesterday when his sister, Mrs. Carrie Grosskettker, returned home from a visit to the Zoo with her four children. Two notes of rambling nature were found in the room. In one Schelling told of a fear of being kidnaped and in the other a fear of being poisoned.

WOMAN TO SUPPORT BREWSTER

Mrs. Bessie Parker Brueggeman Will Stump State for Him.

Special to the Post-Dispatch.

WASHINGTON, Aug. 16.—Mrs. Bessie Parker Brueggeman of St. Louis, chairman of the Federal Employes' Compensation Commission here, will return to Missouri in September to speak throughout the State for R. R. Brewster, Republican candidate for the United States Senate.

The announcement is taken as an indication that the national committee plans special efforts to line up the women's vote in Missouri for the Republican ticket. Mrs. Brueggeman was Republican National Committeewoman before she accepted the Federal post. She said today she would feature the arms conference and its accomplishments in pleading for Brewster's election. "Not enough is known," she said, "of the far-reaching effects of the conference. I expect to address audiences of both men and women wherever I go. We must stop talking just to women. Women voters must merge themselves in political issues with men."

GERMANY DEFAULTS ON PRE-WAR DEBTS DUE YESTERDAY

Pays Only £500,000 of £2,000,000 Promised to Allied Nationals, "Because of Mark's Fall."

CHANCELLOR WIRTH OUTLINES REASONS

Admits Nation No Longer Can Carry Out Its "Program of Fulfillment" — "Must Have Bread."

By the Associated Press.

BERLIN, Aug. 16.—It was announced semi-officially yesterday that £500,000 had been paid to the British and French clearing offices on account of debts to allied nationals, as had been foreshadowed in the German note of Aug. 5 to France.

The German Government yesterday addressed a note to the British, French, Italian and Belgian Governments, declaring that, in consequence of the demand for foreign currency to pay for urgently needed necessities of life, and in consequence of the fall in value of the mark, it could not meet the clearing house installment of 2,000,000 pounds due yesterday in payment of pre-war debts to allied nationals.

Unable to "Carry On."

Marks, which sold at a rate of 10 for a cent and less; the European situation growing out of the deadlocked London conference on a moratorium, and the Alsatian refugees' situation were some of the subjects on which Chancellor Wirth unbosomed himself yesterday in the course of a frank discussion with the correspondent of the Associated Press. Incidentally, he admitted that the German Government no longer is able to carry out its "program of fulfillment."

"We must first safeguard the nation's bread supply," Wirth declared, "and if any gold is left after we are through paying for foreign grain, we will use it to meet our reparations obligations."

The Chancellor denied that Germany is attempting to evade payment and averred that the gold resources are now virtually exhausted. As a result, he added, it will be necessary to adjust reparations payments.

Calling attention to quotations of the mark on the world bourses, the Chancellor declared that if the deadlocked London conference had succeeded in administering such a staggering blow to German exchange, "a conference completely dominated by Poincare would have meant an end to German currency."

Parley Causes Depression.

News of the breakdown of the London conference sent a wave of depression through political and financial circles here. There is much speculation over the attitude of the Reparations Commission on the London results.

"The inglorious termination of the conference," says the Morgen Post, "must fill the world with apprehension regarding the new developments. Germany remains now in that terrible state of uncertainty which, above all, has caused the present condition of affairs in Europe."

The Vorwaerts, discussing the lines which France will probably take, says: "She can, though not legally, rush things to extremes and decide upon drastic military measures. She then would stand before the entire world as the disturber of peace. Her isolation would be fatal to France herself."

CABINET APPROVES POINCARE'S STAND

By the Associated Press.

RAMBOUILLET, France, Aug. 16.—The French Cabinet unanimously approved today of the German reparations policy of Premier Poincare and congratulated him on the stand he took at the London conference of allied Premiers.

This action was taken after Poincare had given an exposition of the unsuccessful negotiations in London. The Premier desires that Parliament be convened to give the Ministry a vote of confidence. This would be taken as a mandate to execute the plan which Minister of Finance De Lasteyrie is bringing before the council. The plan, which is reported to have been prepared in case the Reparations Commision's decision on the moratorium question pronounces Germany in willful default of her payments, deals with measures to be taken in Alsace-Lorraine and the French occupied territory of the Rhineland. It is understood no military measures have been contemplated thus far.

By the Associated Press.

PARIS, Aug. 16.—Premier Poincare was given a tremendous popular ovation upon his arrival home at 6:35 o'clock last evening from London where he attended the unsuccessful meeting of allied Premiers on the German reparations question. "Vive Poincare!" "Viva La France!" were the cheers that greeted the Premier.

WHAT OF ENGLAND?

How Is It Standing the Strain, Playing the Game and Reacting to the Turbulent Conditions of the Times?

A FIRST-HAND CHRONICLE OF FACTS AND INCIDENTAL OBSERVATIONS

By Herbert Bayard Swope,
Executive Editor of the New York World.

MUCH has been written of the many men who are possible successors of Lloyd George. Among those mentioned are Sir Robert Horne, Winston Churchill, Lord Birkenhead, Robert Cecil, Herbert Asquith, Lord Curzon, Lord Balfour, Austen Chamberlain, Bonar Law and in the event of a labor victory, J. H. Clines. I have tried to make the list comprehensive though there are only a few to whom serious consideration is being given.

The fact that there is no outstanding figure as a possible successor weakens the opposition to the present leader.

Birkenhead has popularity and ability, but he has certain personal defects that in all probability will deter him from this final honor.

There is another impediment operating against Birkenhead—and it is weighty—he is named Smith, and, with very few exceptions no man named Smith has ever been important in British political life.

Little has been said about the chances of one individual who, in my opinion, is more likely to be Prime Minister than any of the others. I mean Lord Derby. He is a Conservative, but his political life has been marked by such fairness that it will not be difficult for him to draw support from Liberal ranks. He is thoroughly British and he stands for strong rapprochement with France, where he was until recently Ambassador. He played a great part in the war, yet he is moderate in his attitude toward German penalization. He is interested in mines and in industry, and yet goes well with the Labor cohorts. He is a celebrated sportsman. He possesses a pleasing personality—he is a bluff, hearty type. He is the kind that Englishmen like to think is typical of themselves.

Perhaps the best testimonial to the stability of British institutions is shown by the fact that its government is the only one still in existence that fought and won—or lost—a war. In all the other countries there have been changes—America, Germany, France, Austria, Russia, Greece, Bulgaria and the others.

For the most part England is not ruled by the English. The Scotch, Welsh and Irish—that is, the North Irish—are running the Government. Soon, it is expected by observers, the South Irish and the South Africans will be found among the rulers.

Lloyd George is Welsh. Bonar Law, Sir Hamar Greenwood and Lord Beaverbrook are Canadians. Balfour and McPherson are Scotch. Churchill is half American and Carson is Irish.

When the British commonwealth of nations becomes a fact instead of a theory, Jan Smuts of South Africa may become Premier of the Empire.

Lloyd George is aware that his popularity is not as great as it was, and with his waning favor there has come a diminution in his strength, but he is still so firmly entrenched that it will be he who will force the issue of a general election, and he will go to the people on his own plan of battle—and win—in all probability. Few men in the history of politics or of any other profession have ever possessed the fascinating personality and radiating magnetism that characterize Lloyd George. He doesn't fool himself and rarely tries to fool his people. He shifts his opinions with theirs, but usually just far enough ahead of them to justify his being called a leader.

When William Randolph Hearst, bitter critic of the British Government, went to England a few months ago, the English Government made much of him. When he went to France no attention was accorded him. The British realized his potentialities; the French ignored them. The political acumen of the two nations is reflected in this incident.

Lloyd George is deeply concerned about Germany. He is convinced that a revolution impends there. Those in his confidence say that he fears the French attitude is helping this revolutionary development.

English opinion of America is gathered from returned lecturers, a horde of whom she has been exporting annually, ranging in importance from Margot Asquith up or down as the case may be. Their views are limited and biased. The English papers print far less news about America than American papers print about England, and yet uninformed and superficial critics, such as Mrs. Asquith, talk of the American press as if no foreign news was to be found in its columns.

Probably one in every five well-to-do Americans in the Eastern part of America have been abroad. Few of the English and few Europeans from the same stratum have been to America.

Ambassador Harvey's position in London is curious. He has developed no popularity, but there is a certain respect accorded his ability. His list of presentations at the royal drawing rooms and the invitations he extended to the royal garden parties are still the subject of animated discussion. They ran the gamut from former bartenders to expatriates who are seeking the social preferment that America denied them.

All England resents the manner in which she thinks America is shirking her international responsibilities. America, as England sees her, was quick on the trigger in her unwelcome participation in Irish affairs, but most laggard in shouldering responsibility in the situations she so largely helped to create.

Of all places abroad London is highest in its cost of living. The hotel prices there are little short of outrageous. The tariff for hotel rooms is higher than in New York, although hotel keepers have the profit that liquor pays them—probably reaching 300 per cent—which New York caravansaries no longer enjoy.

Americans are still "marks" in London. In the whole range of paying, from tips on, the American is expected to do better than any other nationality.

The American attitude with reference to the debt cancellation is bringing about a deep resentment in England. The substantial friendship that came into being after the Washington conference, when Britain made its great gesture in renouncing its command of the seas, is being vitiated by the British interpretation placed upon our position with reference to the debt. They call us Shylocks. They say we are mercenary; that we have gained the gold of all the world but lost our souls, and from their viewpoint there is more than a small measure of truth in the accusation.

The divergence of English opinion from the French viewpoint has given new strength to the old insistence of the Briton that he is not a European. They like to think of themselves as a race and a region apart from the rest of the world—sui generis.

The British, too, are fed up with war and make no effort to conceal the disfavor with which they look on all saber rattlers.

Sir Robert Horne May Head British Funding Commission.

(Copyright, 1922.)

LONDON, Aug. 16.—Chancellor of the Exchequer Sir Robert Horne will head the British Funding Commission when it goes to Washington unless there is an acute reparations crisis at that time, it is understood.

Meanwhile there is no possibility of any modification of the Balfour debt cancellation note until the Premier returns to London some weeks hence, even if he intends making any. Developments in France will have a large influence on such modifications.

It is considered a foregone conclusion here that the Reparations Commission will favor a German moratorium by a majority vote. If France then decides to take separate action against Germany, it will bring up a situation which will surely cut short Lloyd George's vacation.

Confidence Vote for De Facta.

By the Associated Press.

ROME, Aug. 16.—The Senate yesterday unanimously voted confidence in the new government of Signor de Facta. The Cabinet has decided to withdraw its order of martial law.

REPORTER VIOLATED SUNDAY LAW

News Getter Interviewed Man, So Is Fined $25 and Costs.

Special to the Post-Dispatch.

PIQUA, O., Aug. 16.—A picture of Daniel Webster on the wall of the municipal court crashed to the floor yesterday when Judge E. A. Hiatt assessed Jay B. Rees, Dayton newspaper reporter, $25 and costs on a charge of violating the Sunday blue laws which went into effect here for the first time Sunday. The blue laws were invoked by Mayor A. W. Deweese as a protest to citizens who were instrumental in closing the theaters on Sunday. Rees was the only man reported as violating the laws. Rees was caught Sunday in the act of questioning a resident concerning the manner in which he passed the day.

Residents, unable to buy gasoline, tobacco, candies, groceries, newspapers or anything except milk last Sunday—even the street cars did not run—were interested in the trial. The warrant charged that Rees was working at his usual occupation of writing newspaper articles. The prisoner entered a plea of guilty. It was then that the picture of Daniel Webster crashed to the floor. Rees paid his fine.

SENATE VOTES FOR FREE ZONES AT AMERICAN PORTS

Amendment Provides That Crude Imported Materials May Be Converted for Export Without Paying Duty.

CHAMBER SPEEDS UP TARIFF BILL ACTION

Reed Loses Fight to Prevent Consideration of Committee Proposals After Debate Is Shut Off.

WASHINGTON, Aug. 16.—Free zones at American ports wherein crude imported materials might be converted for export without payment of tariff duties would be provided for in an amendment to the tariff bill approved today by the Senate without a roll call.

Three other changes in the bill were made in rapid succession, Senator Kellogg, Republican, of Minnesota finally winning his fight to place on the free list logs of fir, spruce, cedar or Western hemlock, paving posts, railroad ties and telephone, telegraph, trolley and electric light poles and pickets, palings, hoops and staves of wood of all kinds.

The House rates on these materials which were unchanged by the Finance Committee majority were $1 per thousand board feet of logs and 10 per cent ad valorem on the others. The vote to transfer logs to the free list was 28 to 26, but the other changes were made without roll calls.

The "free zone" amendment had the approval of the Senate Commerce Committee, but Chairman McCumber of the Finance Committee declared close study of it would be necessary before its approval in conference.

With the 2000 odd committee amendments disposed of the Senate turned its attention today to proposals from individual Senators for changes in the tariff bill. Several scores of such amendments have been offered and all of those that are pressed for consideration by their sponsors must be voted upon before the Senate recesses tomorrow night.

Harreld Amendment Rejected.

The Harreld amendment to impose tariffs of 35 cents a barrel on petroleum and 25 cents a barrel on fuel oil was rejected, 45 to 9.

Those supporting the Harreld amendment were Broussard, Democrat, and Bursum, Capper, Curtis, Harreld, McNary, New, Nicholson and Stanfield, Republicans.

Speedy Action by Senate.

The Senate, driving forward at a speed it seldom attains, completed consideration last night of all committee amendments of the administration tariff bill. The measure was put into about the form in which it will be passed late next Saturday.

About 100 of the amendments considered were reported by the Finance Committee majority when the Senate convened. This led to a protest from Democratic leaders and after debate was shut off, Senator Reed, Democrat, of Missouri, made an unsuccessful effort by parliamentary means, to prevent consideration of such amendments as had not been acted upon at that time. His point of order was overruled and on motion of Senator Watson, Republican, of Indiana, his appeal from the ruling of the chair was laid on the table by a strict party vote, 38 to 20.

Protests by Democrats.

Committee amendments proposing to advance rates on cotton yarns previously fixed by the Senate at figures below those originally recommended by the committee led to protests from the Democratic side, but Senator Smoot, Republican, of Utah, for the committee, and Senator Simmons of North Carolina, Democratic leader in the tariff fight, stated that customs officials held the changes proposed were necessary in order to place the cotton schedule on a scientific basis.

The committee majority proposed a 10 per cent cut in the 45 per cent duty previously fixed on incandescent electric light bulbs, but the Senate, on motion of Senator Jones, Democrat, of New Mexico, slashed the duty to 20 per cent.

On recommendation of the committee, the duty on tanning extracts was cut from 25 per cent to 15 per cent and that on chalk was increased from 25 per cent to 30 per cent. The duty on perfumes, tooth paste and other toilet preparations containing alcohol was put up from 40 cents a pound and 60 per cent ad valorem to 40 cents a pound and 70 per cent ad valorem. The House rate of 60 per cent on such articles not containing alcohol was advanced to 75 per cent.

On harness valued at more than $75 a set and saddles valued at more than $40 each, with parts, except metal, for both, a duty of 35 per cent was voted. All harness and saddles had been transferred to the free list after the Senate voted down the duty on hides and leather last week.

HARRISON BENT ON FURTHER AIRING OF SUGAR SCANDAL

Smoot and His Beet Sugar Associates, Nervous Over Announcement, Plan Parliamentary Obstacles.

SEPARATE VOTE ON SCHEDULE DEMANDED

Mississippi Senator to Offer Amendment Cutting Duty on Cuban Product When Tariff Bill Comes Up.

By the Associated Press.

WASHINGTON, Aug. 16.—Representations disapproving of the sugar import duties of the administration tariff bill as fixed in the Senate are understood to have been made to the State Department by the Cuban legation.

By Leased Wire From the New York Bureau of the Post-Dispatch.

NEW YORK, Aug. 16.—The New York World this morning printed the following dispatch under a Washington date from Charles S. Hand, its Washington correspondent:

Just when the Republican Senate oligarchy felt sure it had clamped the lid on the beet sugar scandal exposed by the New York World, Senator Pat Harrison of Mississippi hurried back to Washington yesterday and gave notice he would lift the cover. Perceptibly nervous over Harrison's announcement, Senator Smoot and his beet-sugar associates planned to interpose parliamentary obstacles.

Harrison is determined that before the Senate takes a final vote on the sugar schedule Saturday there shall be a further airing of the charge that Smoot jacked the tariff on Cuban sugar from $1.60 to $1.84 a hundred pounds because the island republic refused to be "bribed into limiting its crop." Time has established, Harrison declares, that if the crop had been curtailed there would have been a sugar shortage in the United States just now and prices would have been soaring.

Senator Harrison was on his way to Mississippi to vote in the primaries there when he read the World's story of Monday. In this Henry A. Rubino, noted authority on Cuban affairs, accused Senator Smoot, Secretary of Commerce Hoover and Gen. Enoch Crowder of playing leading roles in one or another of several schemes to drive down the output of sugar from Cuba so that the practical result would have been millions in profit for the domestic beet-sugar barons.

Harrison Returns to Capital.

So impressed was Harrison with the World's revelations that he abandoned his trip to Mississippi and started back to Washington. He arrived at the capital at noon today.

The first step taken by Harrison was to inform the Senate he would demand a separate vote on the sugar schedule when the tariff bill is up for final disposition. This proved rather disconcerting to Smoot and members of the Senate farm bloc who have been supporting him in his drive for a tariff high enough to discipline Cuba and at the same time rehabilitated the beet-sugar interests in America.

Harrison found that the iron-clad rules of parliamentary procedure under which the Senate, in committee of the whole, is now passing on various schedules, made impossible for him to haul in the sugar schedule for renewed debate. That only could be done by unanimous consent and there are at least 30 Senators prepared to offer objections.

In view of this, Harrison adopted a different course. He inquired of Senator Cummins of Iowa, chairman of the Committee of the Whole, whether he would be permitted to speak when the sugar schedule is considered by the Senate upon final passage.

Beet Sugar Senators Not Overjoyed.

"The Senator may, provided he offers an amendment," Cummins answered. This satisfied Harrison, but it did not overjoy the beet sugar Senators.

The sugar tariff, incorporated in the bill last week, is $1.64 a hundred pounds on Cuban sugar and $2.30 on sugar from elsewhere. The committee had reported a schedule of $1.60 for Cuba and $2 against sugars from other foreign shippers, but it was increased to the higher figure by the votes of Wadsworth of New York and Willis of Ohio, who at the last minute flip-flapped to the beet sugar crowd.

It is Harrison's plan to offer an amendment cutting the rate to $1.40 for Cuban and $1.75 for other sugars. This will force a record vote. The expectation is that Harrison's amendment will be defeated, provided the beet sugar interests succeed in holding their Senators. Several of them, however, are reported to be weakening, largely because of the effect the expose of the World is having with "the folks back home."

Under the less flexible rule which will govern debate when the Senate's final votes are taken on the tariff measure, Senator Harrison will have 10 minutes in which to discuss again the scandals connected with the Cuba impost. The Senator will cover as much ground as he can in that comparatively short period. If his first proposal does not succeed, he hopes to win a partial victory by cutting the rate to $1.60 for Cuban and $1.75 for other shippers.

The $1.40 Cuban rate for which Senator Harrison will strive first is that originally offered by Senator Smoot to Cuba. The tender was made in the now famous letter from Smoot which Gen. Crowder carried to President Zayas of Cuba and which was first publicly referred to by the World.

Smoot absolutely assured Cuba she would get this favorable treatment if she cut her last sugar crop to 2,500,000 tons, a curtailment that would have forced a sugar famine and permitted the beet sugar buccaneers to "clean up" countless millions. Mr. Rubino, in his interview with the World, said $500,000,000 represented the amount they would have realized.

"I think the rate heretofore adopted by the Senate in the committee of the whole," said Senator Harrison today, "will be overturned. The vote will be close, but there will be a reduction in the duty fixed. I feel certain there are a sufficient number of votes in sight to effect this change."

Through the World, Rubino has charged that the rate of $1.84 on Cuban sugar imposed in the tariff bill as it now stands has enabled Senator Smoot to carry out his threat to discipline and punish Cuba for not cutting her crop in the interests of the beet sugar barons.

Should Harrison succeed in his attempt to drive the rate back to $1.40, Cuba will come out the victor after all. In that event the beet sugar crowd will have failed in their fifth scheme to prop up the toppling beet sugar industry by imposing a tariff that would jump the price of sugar from 7 to about 13 cents a pound and compel every man, woman and child in America to share this tremendous burden.

KING'S WORDS OF SYMPATHY SENT TO LADY NORTHCLIFFE

His Message Is One of a Great Flood Upon Death of British Publicist, Distinguished Americans Joining in Paying Tribute.

By the Associated Press.

LONDON, Aug. 16.—Lady Northcliffe yesterday received a telegram from King George. It was dated Bolton Abbey, Monday, and said: "I have just heard with regret of the death of Lord Northcliffe after a painful illness, and offer you my heartfelt sympathy in your loss."

Queen Mary, Queen Mother Alexandra, Princess Victoria and the Duke of Connaught also have sent the widow sympathetic messages.

World Wide Regret.

World wide regret at the death of Northcliffe is evinced by the flood of telegrams and cable messages received by the family and published in Northcliffe papers. "The messages sent to Lady Northcliffe by the King and Queen and other members of the royal family and tribute from Harding are significant of the esteem in which the great publisher was held," says the Times.

The President of France, the Viceroy of India and the Dominion and Commonwealth Premiers were at one with Major-General Leonard Wood, Chauncey Depew, Thomas A. Edison, James W. Gerard, Melville E. Stone and other distinguished Americans in attesting to Northcliffe's work and the eminence of his achievements. The scores of messages published this morning occupy more than a page of the Times.

Tribute of Press.

A remarkable tribute was paid by the British press to the late Viscount yesterday. Columns, and in some instances even pages, are devoted to editorials, photographs and special articles on the achievements and personality of the master journalist.

Naturally, the Northcliffe publications make the greatest effort to eulogize "the chief," and the Times devotes four pages, with upturned column rules as a mark of mourning, to biographical sketches and messages of regret from journalists, politicians and the diplomats in all parts of the world.

Tributes from America, including President Harding's message of condolence to Lady Northcliffe, are displayed prominently. George Harvey, the American Ambassador, sent a message from Scotland, but King George, who is there also, is not represented among the published telegrams and cablegrams from the empire's prominent personages.

"Greatest of All Times."

The press generally terms Lord Northcliffe the greatest British journalist of all times. His spirited Fleet street competitors, but intimate personal friends, Lord Burnham and Lord Beaverbrook, the proprietors of the Daily Telegraph and the Daily Express, are unstinted in their praise of Northcliffe's service to journalism and to the empire.

The Daily Chronicle says his death causes one to think of other towering figures suddenly abased within the present century—"of the premature death of Cecil Rhodes, of the abrupt crushing and disablement by disease of Joseph Chamberlain and President Wilson just as each seemed to 'bestride the earth like a Colossus.'"

Even the Daily Herald seems to intend a word of praise when it says Northcliffe occasionally admitted to his columns some small portion of the truth about labor.

Devotion to Mother.

Those editorial writers who are unwilling to accord Northcliffe the highest pinnacle of journalism pay tribute to his charm as a man, and include a respectful word regarding his devotion to his mother, one of the abiding traits of his personality.

The morning pictorial papers print pages of pictures of Northcliffe, in efforts to portray his life graphically. Half a century of files have been raked for photographs. One shows him as a boy riding a high-wheeled bicycle. Another pictures him with Arthur Balfour, pulling Wilbur Wright's airplane at Pau, where he first saw a machine in flight, and whence he returned to England to boom aviation.

A third picture shows his first meeting with a then little known member of Parliament, a man of slight figure with black, drooping mustache, who later was to become his bitterest enemy—David Lloyd George, from whom there is no tribute in today's Times or Daily Mail.

Viscount Northcliffe Was the Eldest of Seven Sons.

Special Cable to the Post-Dispatch.

LONDON, Aug. 16.—Lord Northcliffe was the eldest of seven sons. The eldest surviving brother, Harold, is Lord Rothermere, who was associated with Northcliffe in most of his publications.

Cecil Bisshopp Harmsworth is in the diplomatic service, having served as Parliamentary Under-Secretary for Foreign Affairs and as a member of the Supreme Economic Council in 1919.

Sir Robert Leicester Harmsworth has been a member of the House of Commons from Caithness since 1900.

Hildebrand Aubrey Harmsworth is associated with the Northcliffe publications.

The other two brothers are St. John and Vyvyian George Harmsworth.

National Press Club Sends Message to Northcliffe's Widow.

By the Associated Press.

WASHINGTON, Aug. 16.—The following cablegram has been sent to Lady Northcliffe by President Robert B. Armstrong of the National Press Club:

"The National Press Club expresses to you its profound regret and personal loss in the death of Lord Northcliffe, who for many years was an honored member of this organization. We pay tribute to the memory of this great man, who was not only a distinguished publisher but who exerted an influence for political good throughout the world.

"While Britain has lost one of the ablest men of its history, you especially have our genuine sympathy in this, your hour of bereavement."

Message From Havana Defends Gen. Crowder.

Special to the Post-Dispatch.

NEW YORK, Aug. 16.—Aurelio Portuondo sent the following message to The World from Havana yesterday with reference to the Rubino charges of the beet sugar conspiracy:

"Have read article published by New York World and reprinted by Havana Post today. Have participated in many conferences with Gen. Crowder respecting tariff on Cuban sugar. Any attempt to present Crowder as a partisan of the beet sugar industry and against the cane sugar industry of Cuba is most unjust to an American officer who has served his country faithfully and has always acted as a good friend to Cuba. I have invariably found Gen. Crowder persistently preserving a neutral attitude and acting fairly in connection with the tariff question."

The Rubino charges, in mentioning Senator Portuondo, quoted Senator Smoot's own statements in the United States Senate that Portuondo, with Gen. Crowder, saw Senator Smoot, the Cuban imploring against a high tariff on Cuban sugars. According to the Rubino charges, this evidenced the realization in Cuba that Senator Smoot was "the power to see."

OBREGON SUPPORTERS WIN

By the Associated Press.

MEXICO CITY, Aug. 16.—The co-operationists, through an alliance with the laborites and agrarians, were able to present a united front against all the other factions, labeled as independents, last night in the chamber of deputies, and by an overwhelming vote obtained control of the machinery for examining the credentials of deputies in the next session of Congress opening on Sept. 1.

The co-operationists are the avowed suppotrers of the Obregon administration, and if the coalition pact can be maintained there is some chance the various government projects, including the New York financial agreement, may come up for an early vote.

WHOSE CANDIDATE IS BREWSTER? ASK PARTY FACTIONS

Hyde and "Old Guard" Groups Wondering Whom Senate Nominee Will Favor in Case of Election.

TEST OF STRENGTH EXPECTED SOON

Both Sides United Behind Kansas City Man in Primary—Doubt as to Which Will Get Credit for Victory

By a Staff Correspondent of the Post-Dispatch.

JEFFERSON CITY, Aug. 16.—Whether Gov. Hyde led the progressive wing of the Republican party to slaughter when he joined Walter S. Dickey in backing the candidacy of R. R. Brewster for the Republican nomination for United States Senator or whether the "Old Guard" friends of Dickey have received another beating from Hyde and his supporters, is a matter about which all branches of the Republican administration here are wondering. Both Dickey and his old guard henchmen and Hyde's administration chieftains went all the way for Brewster. The question now is: Whose candidate is he and whose Senator will he be if elected?

For Brewster will not elect himself any more than he could have nominated himself, these politicans argue. As a nominee he is the product of a powerful organization coalition, in which joined the "house cleaner" forces of the Governor, and the reactionary legions of Dickey, McJimsey, Morris, Babler and others of lesser note. As a senator he doubtless may be the product of a schism between Wilson and Reed Democrats, they reason, but always in the case of a candidate whose primary strength had to be manufactured, there is some force behind which dictates the distribution of patronage, and which determines policies of the official, especially in matters of party action. Now and then candidates of overwhelming personal strength get away from such post-election relations, but only rarely, for the makers of candidates usually demand settlements.

Impending Struggle Seen.

In this instance, the politicians see the scenario of an impending struggle for domination, as they cannot understand how reactionaries like Dickey, McJimsey, Morris and Babler can go along peaceably in the same rank with Hyde, who is an avowed progressive. One group or the other must go forward with Brewster and the other drop back, they reason.

The first trial of strength will come in the selection of the new chairman of the Republican State Committee, which will be done Sept. 12 at the time and place of the Republican platform convention, for which the place has not yet been fixed.

Ordinarily in off years the nominee for Senator is allowed to name the chairman, but this time the Hyde men are said to desire the retention of Dr. E. B. Clements of Macon, although Cal Pierce of Maryville, a Hyde appointee on the State Eleemosynary Board, also has been mentioned in that connection.

There have been whispered also that Dickey himself desires to be chairman. Which way will Brewster lean? And if he should lean toward Dickey, will he be able to deliver?

Dickey Expected to Be Factor.

The Governor's friends believe that a majority of the new State Committee will be inclined to accede to Hyde's wishes in a matter of that sort, as his appointees were very active in trying to obtain election to the committee men friendly to the chief executive.

It is known, however, that Dickey is very thorough in his political activities as in his business transactions, and he is expected to be a factor of magnitude in choice of the chairman, if, in fact, he does not name that campaign manager.

Dickey's attitude toward Clements is not known, although other old guard leaders several times during the 18 months of Clements' tenure as chairman have expressed the idea that he will never manage a campaign with their consent, because of his friendliness to the Governor.

Hyde doubtless will get little support from any of the other elective State officers in his efforts to retain control of the State organization, as none of them were with him in his alliance with Dickey.

In fact, Hyde has insisted that he was neutral in the senatorship contest, but he participated in at least one of the conferences out of which came Brewster's candidacy. And all of his leading appointees, including the powerful inspection departments and penitentiary organization, were aligned behind that aspirant.

Commissioner Wall on Water Meters.

To the Editor of the Post-Dispatch.

MR. HENRY B. SCAMMELL'S letter on Water Meters in the Post-Dispatch of Aug. 10 voices that age-old lament of the property owner over expenses forced on him by unappreciative and revengeful tenants and over extortions made by the city and State under the protection of law. The water wasted through leaking plumbing does not distress him as long as the city suffers the loss, although he knows perfectly well that it is his duty as a law-abiding citizen to keep his plumbing in repair.

Mr. Scammel clearly indicates that his objection to meters is because their installation forces the owner to pay for all the water used or wasted on the premises, which is exactly the reason why the Water Commissioner believes that all water should be sold by measurement.

Mr. Scammell is full of fears, which have long ago been proven groundless by the experience of many other fully-metered cities, who look upon those communities which are still supplying water at flat rates, as not being up to the modern standards of efficiency and economy. Out of 22 of the largest American cities, having a population of 250,000 or more, only eight can be called unmetered cities, and three of these are more than 25 per cent metered and are working toward universal metering, the remaining five being Chicago, St. Louis, Baltimore, Buffalo and Denver. If Mr. Scammell will call at the Water Commissioner's office he can obtain a copy of the last annual report, in which the question is discussed at some length, and in which he may find some information new to him. EDWARD E. WALL, Water Commissioner.

Charity at the Wreck.

To the Editor of the Post-Dispatch.

IN reading the different articles about the terrible wreck at Sulphur Springs, there were two things that made a very deep and lasting impression with me. The first was the fact that strikers manned the wrecker—not at the call of the railroads, but of suffering humanity. Then, glancing a little further, I saw where the proprietors of stores had sold out of soft drinks and had sold water at 5 cents per glass.

After careful consideration of the above-mentioned facts I have arrived at the conclusion that labor was again put in the balance against capital, and capital was found wanting. I would ask you and the public in general, which of the two classes could be compared to the good Samaritan?

MRS. C. C. DEAN.

The Logical Conclusion.

To the Editor of the Post-Dispatch.

MAY I say a few words in behalf of the employed wife? In my opinion a married woman has every right in the world to hold any position which she is capable of holding, the same as an unmarried man has a right to hold his position, which a married man with children might be holding.

There is always someone less fortunate than we, to whom we could give our positions. If people insist that a married woman should give up her position for the single girl, why don't they insist that unmarried men give up their positions to the married men, that men with few children give up their positions to men with more children, and so on? Who can deny that it would be exactly the same proposition?

I believe I am safe in saying that most married women who work are working to help buy a home, or some equally important goal, and surely people who want them to sit in idleness, and probably poverty, when they could be helping to get ahead, have no heart at all.

A WIFE WHO HELPS.

Fan Sees Dark Plot.

To the Editor of the Post-Dispatch.

JUST two weeks back the public criticised the exchange of certain players of the weaker and stronger Eastern teams of the East. That was all right with the managers, but we will not see either of our St. Louis teams win the pennant. The good work that Danforth was doing for the Browns brought criticism from the managers and umpires, but not from the fans.

To play off a pennant series in St. Louis would be a great loss in gate receipts, as the ball park here is entirely too small to accommodate the crowds.

JERRY.

Those Terrible Bankers.

To the Editor of the Post-Dispatch.

A FEW years have gone by since we had what we, or rather the bankers, called the World War. But it was not, it was just a war started by the international bankers, through the blueblood royalties, to control all the money and commercial power of the world, or, in short, to enslave the people of this world in which they have almost succeeded.

But never again. The people have all gotten wise and are most all out fighting for their own, or skinning whoever they can. They have gotten just like the bankers. They have learned how to get by easy, and that is one of the reasons of the ever-increasing divorces, robberies, murders, strikes and general unrest all over the world. X. Y. Z.

WHO WON THE COAL STRIKE?

Both sides claim to have won the coal strike. "A complete victory for the United Mine Workers," says their president, John L. Lewis. "A decisive victory," is the way the head of an Illinois district operators' association puts it.

Perhaps both of them are right. Certainly in retaining the wage scale and working conditions of April 1, when the strike was ordered, the miners have got the substance of what they fought for. But the Cleveland agreement under which the mines resume operation permits district agreements between operators and miners, and this, the operators insist, was the issue upon which the strike was called. Such district agreements, however, merely ratify the terms fixed at the Cleveland conference. In that respect, therefore, the operators' victory seems to be technical rather than actual.

A condition, however, has been brought about by the strike which will enable the operators to make large profits. The suspension of production for four and a half months has created an ideal market from the old-fashioned economic viewpoint. There is a ravenous demand for coal at about any price the producers want to charge. The sentiment against flagrant profiteering, to be sure, must be considered, but there can be no question that the coal operators are going to make a lot of money this winter—enough, possibly, to wipe out the losses of a wasted summer. And the regularity of employment at high wages which the miners will enjoy should go far towards reimbursing them for their summer vacation.

The one interest in the coal strike that apparently has lost is the public. It is difficult to compute that loss. The accounts are so varied and ramifying that they defy any auditing skill. Vast as the monetary loss will be, the toll which the coal strike will exact in human suffering and privation during the coming winter will swell the costs of this strike to forbidding totals.

In considering the terms of peace as drafted at Cleveland perhaps some possibilities of public gain may be discerned. Those terms provide for a conference in October to formulate a method for negotiating new wage agreements for the year beginning next April and for the appointment of a "fact-finding commission" to investigate the industry and "develop the facts for the benefit of all concerned, including the public." Presidential approval is stipulated for this commission which will undertake to create machinery for the prevention of future strikes.

That such a commission may render service of great public value is, of course, conceivable. It may bring about the reorganization of the coal-mining industry, which, it is agreed, is imperative. But can the public returns from this coal strike be limited to the capacity of this agency, or any agency, created primarily by the coal operators and the miners? The lesson of the coal strike, driven deep into the public mind, is that neither the mine workers nor the operators are capable of administering the immense power for public weal or woe which industrial evolution has placed in their hands.

The public welfare, manifestly, cannot be subjected to the hazard of periodical strikes in the basic industry of coal mining. The right of workers to strike may be fundamental, but the public's right to live is elemental. If those two rights come to grips—and that is the pass to which they have practically come—one must yield. Nobody imagines that the public will surrender its right to live. What, then, will be the outcome?

That there is a pronounced sentiment against the right of labor or capital to suspend the functioning of an industry on which the public's very life depends cannot be ignored. The coal strike has gone far towards maturing that sentiment into a demand for antistrike legislation.

TRY THE DESERTERS.

President Lee of the Brotherhood of Railroad Trainmen has repudiated the action of the crews that deserted their trains in the Arizona desert. The demand of a Santa Fe official that either the men be sent back to their posts or others supplied, or the company would find men to take their places, was answered by Lee with the statement that, if the men do not return to work, the company will be justified in canceling the schedule now in effect with the brotherhood. He declared further that the organization will enforce the working agreement with the company.

No other position could in fairness be taken by the trainmen's head, but will reparation be made by merely sending those men back to work? It is difficult to say just what punishment would fit this crime, but at the very least those offenders should be severely disciplined. The brotherhoods with which they are severally connected are the proper tribunals to try the case and render the verdict.

There should be no delay in the procedure and no whitewashing.

EMPLOYES OR NOT EMPLOYES?

Relative to the seniority issue which now stands in the way of a settlement of the shopmen's strike, David Lawrence, Washington correspondent of the Post-Dispatch, makes this statement:

> The labor leaders insist that the striker is still in the road's employ, first, because he has not been dismissed: and, second, has not given notice of his intention permanently to remain out of the road's employ.

It is no simple matter to reconcile this statement with the message submitted to President Harding on Aug. 3 by the leaders of the shopmen, ostensibly accepting the President's earlier proposal for ending the strike. In this message the spokesman of the strikers declared:

> They (the employes) respectfully point out again that violations of law and refusals to comply with decisions of the Labor Board have been exhibited only by the railway managements and that it has been universally admitted that the employes, in exercising their right to suspend work under nonacceptable conditions, were neither violating the law nor the decisions of the board.

If we follow this reasoning it means that the employes may openly evade all orders of the Labor Board simply by suspending work, the inference being that by suspending work they are no longer employes and, therefore, out of the Labor Board's jurisdiction. But when it comes to a question of seniority they are employes and have never left their positions. Putting these two statements together there is no other conclusion than that the striking shopmen are employes or they are not employes, according as it serves the purpose of the occasion.

SOCIOLOGY AND THE GOAT.

Without condoning the predatory conduct of Nic Georgoff's goat in eating the neighbors' wash, we feel, in our sociological way, that it is just as important to look into the prior causes of his conduct as to punish him for it. It is not logical that a sane goat would become addicted to woolen underwear and brass-buttoned overalls through a free act of the will. Careful research probably would establish the existence of an ancestor brutally condemned by his owners to a diet of cinders and broken bottles. In such a case Nic's goat would appear rather as an innocent victim of heredity than as an example of pure cussedness.

In view of the fine of $1 and costs, Nic himself appears to be the goat in the present instance. While we sympathize with those who lost raiment and table linen through the goat's rapacious raids, their case could conceivably have been worse. Had they lived in St. Louis, they might have sent their finery to a laundry and got it back—which, at the prevailing scale of prices, is a real calamity.

GANDHI-ISM IN THE PHILIPPINES.

Vincente Llanes, Philippine legislator and politician, in adopting the non-co-operative plan of Gandhi in India, may have helped along the solution of the Philippine problem in a way not intended. It is his purpose to advance the cause of Philippine independence by advocating the resignation of every Filipino from public office and the refusal of others to take their places.

Now it so happens that such action might not be the calamity it is cracked up to be. For, students of the Philippine situation report that the present insolvency and inefficiency of the Philippine government is traceable to one determining cause, to wit: The displacement under the Harrison regime of efficient American officials with wholly incompetent natives.

The voluntary resignation of these natives would afford a graceful occasion for the re-employment of efficient American administrators and serve any purpose but that of revolution and independence. Nothing more favorable to continued American occupation could happen than this unless it would be to give the Philippine politicians a chance to show what they could do without the protection of the American arm in the Orient.

ARTHUR WHIZZBRAIN, who has no delicacy about telling our own world what it should do and would no doubt gladly advise the universe, says the Russians are making a mistake in omitting from their new religion ikons and picturesque claptrapery of one kind and another. He thinks the Russian people like to have their religion look like the inside of a Kresge store, and he doubts if they will follow the reformers into the new church. However, since the Russian reformation has on its side the red army, which we are assured by competent authorities is the best in the world, we feel pretty sure that Russia has just about seen the last of the grotesqueries which made up the stage-set when the curtain went down upon the last of the Czars and his celebrated medicine man, Rasputin. We are afraid Arthur's brain was not whizzing as it ought to whizz when he predicted failure for the new order in the Russian church. Predicting failure for any Russian reform has been such a discouraging business for some years that we are surprised to see him undertake it.

We can see the point as to the strike which left Western trains stranded not being authorized, but not even a great deal of hard thinking has enabled us to make out how the trainmen could have avoided the seeming of inhumanity after they went out on strike. To have avoided the condemnation visited upon them even by their friends they would have had to take their trains beyond their divisions. They would have been pretty wild to strike had they run them to Chicago, Los Angeles or Kansas City. They would have been rather keener to strike than we imagine men usually are had they taken them to places like Flagstaff and Albuquerque. Men mostly strike where they work, which seems to be what these men did. If they work in a part of the country where to strike occasions hardship to innocent travelers they must expect to be roughly handled by public opinion when they do go out. We have been waiting for someone to tell us where they could have taken their trains without incurring censure. The West is wide.

Sir: Since you encourage thinking, why can't we have a little competition with the other people by telling "What I thought today?" I thought it might be a good idea to consider Government ownership of the railroads. Is there really some objection to it that holds water, considering that so many other countries do own and operate their railroads? It would give our representatives an opportunity to do something for us, instead of chiefly working for some interest exploiting us. Imagine our Missouri Senators, for instance, responsible for railroad traffic in Missouri, for the condition of tracks and the durability of bridges, the comforts of travel and the cost! Inasmuch as the best part of Senator Reed is his fierce defense of the Mississippi and Missouri rivers, which, except for him, would probably be abandoned, so the better part of Senator Spencer might be the excellence of railroads in Missouri rather than the fur-bearing troubles he has today. What sayest, kid? ISOCRATES.

Nobody has ever known whether love is stronger than hate. The profoundest philosophers of all time have fallen out about it, and there is not a guide post for us in all the distance between Omar Khayyam and Bill White. We think there may be a means of deciding it here in Missouri within a few days. The people who do not want to support our Jamie as a Democrat want to get out an independent candidate. If such a candidate does come out and we can find out whether he loves his party more than he hates Jamie, we can wake up all the dead thinkers and assure them the question has been settled. It would be interesting to see the expressions upon countenances like those of Aristotle and the elder Pliny. Yet stranger things have happened than that this riddle should be solved right here in Missouri. The independent candidate could not hope to sit with Hi Johnson and Bill Borah, but he could sit with Oedipus. We are not attempting any invidious comparisons of the respective eminence of Hi, Bill and Od.

It was inevitable that trouble should break out some time at Las Vegas, Nev., and we were not surprised on yesterday when we read of what is happening there in the railroad strike. Las Vegas sits at the lower end of the Nevada desert. It looks out upon fiery mountains of glistening black gneiss. Gneiss has quartz, feldspar and mica in it, and when you turn hot sunshine on it you get the singular quality of the mountains about Las Vegas, which is encompassed by sand, kiln-dried by the hot winds and apparently thirsting for revenge. In the old days of the Goldfield rush Las Vegas lay on the road to the new El Dorado. It was there the hardy argonaut filled his hide with cold bottled beer and then tackled the hot sands. It was not hard to foresee what the future of Las Vegas would be, but with what patience have the sun-blistered little desert town, the fiery black mountains and the withering sands all waited for it! It came with the railroad strike, and Las Vegas is enjoying it now. Let us hope that not too many people get killed and that nobody dies unpoetically. Considering the perfection of the scene, we ought to preserve every tradition established by Dante.

This column is designed to reproduce without bias the latest comment by the leading publicists, newspapers and periodicals on the questions of the day.

GERMAN ALIEN PROPERTY.

Joseph Conrad Fehr in North American Review.

IN order to do justice to all concerned, the best view of the problem seems to be that of holding all enemy property now in the hands of the Alien Property Custodian as security or a pledge on account of American claims against Germany and Austria and their nationals. This procedure can be harmonized with the policy of the United States Government as expounded since the days of Washington, and expressly provided for by paragraph i of the Treaty of Peace with Germany, signed August 25, 1921, pursuant to the Porter-Knox resolution. • • • The Secretary of State having definitely announced that the United States has failed to take advantage of the option provided by the clearing house sections of the Treaty of Versailles, the accounting between this Government and Germany will have to be between the interested private individuals, and therefore not as between State and State, which is the arrangements now governing the other allied countries. • • • By holding the enemy property which still remains in the hands of the Alien Property Custodian as collateral security, or a pledge, to secure the payment by Germany and Austria and their nationals of the numerous claims in the hands of American citizens, the United States would not only safeguard the interests of its own nationals, but would also thereby insure to these former enemies the ultimate return of their property retained in America. This method would enable America to solve this problem upon principles that are at once just to all concerned and at the same time will result in the gradual disposition of enemy property back to former enemy owners who are now permitted by Section 9 of the Trading With the Enemy Act to present their claims before the proper authorities for allowance.

KU KLUX KLAN IN POLITICS.

From the Louisville Courier-Journal.

IN the recent Texas primary the Ku Klux Klan prescribed candidates that would do its bidding and proscribed candidates that would not. Candidates prescribed by it won. Candidates proscribed by it lost. Now the klan is at work in Oklahoma prescribing and proscribing as in the Lone Star territory. In Oklahoma the fight centers in the nomination for Governor on both Republican and Democratic tickets. For the Democratic nomination the klan picks R. H. Wilson. For the Republican nomination, the invisible empire rallies to the veteran but unlucky G. O. P. war horse, John Fields. If one of them wins and the other loses in the primary the klan will support the winner in the regular election. Thus the klan is politically nonpartisan, bipartisan, ambipartisan, semipartisan, omnipartisan. Sometimes it is Democratic, sometimes Republican. At all times it is Ku Klux. Evidently it is the object of the klan to hold the balance of political power. Yet this is precisely what the klan charges against certain forces that it proscribes. To defeat the alleged scheming of elements proscribed by the klan, the Ku Klux invoke and employ methods ascribed by them to objects of their wrath.

PAGEANT OF FASHION CLOSES OPEN-AIR SHOWING TONIGHT

Attendance Since Opening, Aug. 2, Said to Have Greatly Exceeded Former Show Figures.

The 1922 Pageant of Fashion will have its closing showing in the open-air theater in Forest Park tonight.

The Pageant opened on Aug. 2. The attendance has greatly exceeded the attendance of past pageants and the entertainment features have commonly been appraised to excel those of other seasons.

Despite an apparent timidity of the public for any but essential travel as the period of the railroad shopmen's strike has been prolonged, the attendance from out of the city has exceeded expectations.

PAINTING BOUGHT BY FRANCE

Robert Winthrop Chanler, American Artist Sells "Giraffes."

Special to the Post-Dispatch.

NEW YORK, Aug. 16.—Robert Winthrop Chanler announces that his celebrated mural-decorative painting, "Giraffes," has been purchased by the French Government for the Luxembourg Museum, Paris. It will be set up—the giraffes are life size—in the same gallery with Whistler's "Mother." Like that other American masterpiece, it is destined presumably for the Louvre.

The picture was painted in Paris in 1905 and exhibited there as well as in New York. It was a feature of the historic armory show here in 1913. It was shown in Venice at the 1920 International Art Exposition and roused enthusiasm up to the potential purchasing pitch. But Chanler preferred to have it go to Paris, where its composition was inspired.

DISPUTES BETWEEN MEMBERS WILL BE DISCUSSED BY LEAGUE

Agenda for International Parley in September Includes Consideration for Covenant Amendments.

By the Associated Press.

OTTAWA, Ontario, Aug. 16.—The agenda of the next meeting of the League of Nations, which opens at Geneva, Switzerland, Sept. 4, has been received by the administration and was made public last night.

Discussions on the amendment of several articles of the covenant of the league are listed on the agenda. Most important among these are considered the amendments to be proposed to articles 12 and 15, which deal with disputes arising between members of the league which are likely to lead to a rupture.

Other matters on the agenda are the report of the temporary commission of the league on the reduction of armaments and discussions on traffic in opium, white slavery, deportation of women and children in Turkey and adjacent countries, and the use of Esperanto as an international language.

(Copyright, 1922.)

LONDON, Aug. 16.—Some of the League of Nations Powers are expected to begin an investigation soon of secret treaties which have not been registered with the league in accordance with the terms of the covenants. Fully 300 treaties have been so registered, but there are at least five which have not. These include the military clauses of the Franco-Belgian pact. France has never registered her secret treaty with Mustapha Kemal. It is generally believed she has a military treaty with Poland. Italy is also thought to have some secret understanding with the Nationalist Turks.

EPISCOPAL CHURCH BUDGET WILL CALL FOR $21,000,000

By the Associated Press.

CHICAGO, Aug. 16.—The Episcopal Church is about to publish a book which is expected to bring returns amounting to more than $21,000,000. It is the "Survey" or budget that will be presented at the triennial general convention of the church which meets at Portland, Ore., in September.

The survey will explain in detail the missionary, educational and social service works of the Episcopal Church, both in the United States and in foreign lands which call for the support of the church for the next three years. Besides the $21,000,000 budget there are several lists of "priority" askings for advance projects. One of these is for $1,000,000 for building projects in the various church colleges.

The general convention also will be asked to change the title of the present governing body from the "Presiding Bishop and Council" to "National Council," and that of the "Department of the Nation-wide Campaign" to "Field Department."

34 MEN ASSOCIATED IN TRADE FOR 50 YEARS MEET AT CHICAGO

President of Concern Receives Medal on Anniversary of Joining Organization.

By the Associated Press.

CHICAGO, Aug. 16.—The scene of a gathering of 34 men who have been associated together in business for 50 years was presented today at a luncheon given by John Graves Shedd, president of Marshall Field & Co., at his Lake Forest home. The occasion was the fiftieth anniversary of Shedd's entrance into the employ of the organization.

The group represented practically every division of the wholesale, retail and manufacturing branches of the business, from shipping departments to executive offices.

It is the custom of the house to decorate each employe with a diamond medal upon the completion of 50 years of service. Today James Simpson, first vice-president of the company, pinned the 50-year medal upon Shedd's breast, while 33 other medal-bearers applauded. Simpson himself has been in the employ of the house 31 years. Both Shedd and Simpson began work with their organization in humble capacities.

JAIL FOR FAILURE TO PAY ALIMONY FAVORED

Committee Would Have New State Constitution So Provide; for Health Legislation.

By a Staff Correspondent of the Post-Dispatch.

JEFFERSON CITY, Aug. 16.—The Constitutional Convention Committee on Health and Public Welfare yesterday voted to recommend that the proposed new Constitution should empower the General Assembly to legislate for the health and public welfare of the people and for the physical safety of those employed in industries.

Only two members of the committee opposed the decision, Dr. Alonzo Tubbs of Owensville and John H. Lucas of Osceola. Tubbs presented to the convention proposals which Christian Scientists desired written into the organic law. Lucas is opposed to any change in the Constitution as it stands.

The committee originally intended to include only "health and public welfare" in its recommendation. It expanded the idea in answer to a plea from Joseph J. Hauser, St. Louis labor leader and delegate to the convention.

The Bill of Rights Committee at the same time informally decided that the Constitution should enable imprisonment of persons for failure to pay alimony. This decision was fought vigorously by Chairman M. E. Benton and L. M. Benson of Poplar Bluff.

Reports of both of these committees probably will be made to the convention within the week. In the meantime debate on the judiciary report proceeds.

$200,000 BUSCH TOMB NOW ALMOST COMPLETED

Work is nearly completed on the mausoleum or chapel in memory of Adolphus Busch, St. Louis brewer, in Bellefontaine Cemetery. The structure is small, but great care has been exercised in purity of detail. The cost will be about $200,000. Of this sum $12,000 is the cost of one great stone that spans the portal and on which four artisans spent four months in carving.

The design is pure Continental Gothic. The foundation is in one solid block of granite concrete, 10 feet thick, in which the catacombs are encased. The superstructure is of Missouri red granite, chosen for its color and durability; the finish of the stone gives the mausoleum a warm pink color tone and the rock is rated to last 8000 years. The exterior is ornamented with carved Gothic designs. The windows are of stained glass.

Columns flank the arched entrance. On the great stone above is the inscription panel. There are massive cast bronze gates at the door. The ceiling is of granite with ornaments symbolic of the forest. There will be a carved fount of granite for flowers. The structure was designed by the T. P. Barnett Co. A photograph of it as it appears today is published on the pictorial page of this issue of the Post-Dispatch.

PAGES 17—26

WHAT DID YOU SEE TODAY?

Volunteer Reporters Tell the Post-Dispatch of the Interesting, Unusual and Often Humorous Incidents They Encounter.

THINGS happen elsewhere than in city streets, and observant eyes are as numerous in other places as in St. Louis. Today's What-Did-You-See incidents come from outside St. Louis and its immediate suburbs. In previous issues, contributions from points as far distant as Tucson, Ariz., and the City of Mexico, have appeared. Europe will be heard from—give her time. Checks for $1 will be forwarded the writers of each of the following:

WELCOME, STRANGER.

I passed an orchard near Macon, Mo., in which a dog was chained to almost every tree. There were about 50 dogs of all breeds and descriptions. They barked furiously at the approach of strangers.

ALBERTA METZGER,
828 West Rollins,
Moberly, Mo.

NATURE'S BLEACHERS.

I saw the rightfielder of a baseball team throw the ball up in a tree after running hard for it, allowing the batter to get a home run with two men on bases. When he was razzed by the team, he told a certain shortstop to go to a certain place.

GEORGE JUST,
305 E. Plum Street,
Benton, Ill.

A SOUVENIR.

I saw a man on the street wearing a string of white beads around his neck. A friend asked him what he was wearing, and he remembered that his little daughter had placed the beads there when he was playing with her a short time before he left home.

MRS. NIGHSWANDER,
Box 31, Shattuc, Ill.

ROBBED ONLY ONCE.

I drove from Chicago and had to pay 40 cents for my little boy and me to enter St. Louis. I left my car in the street for several hours and nothing was stolen. Being from Chicago, that seemed funny to me.

H. BRANDAU,
439 South Irving avenue,
Chicago.

HEE, HAW.

While driving on a country road I saw a man, who had stopped to fix his automobile, wipe his greasy hands on the tail of a nearby mule.

T. T. FOLEY,
Box 34, Piggott, Ark.

A LITTLE PRINCE.

In the window of a small drug store I saw this sign: "Soda fit for a king; bring in the queen." A small boy standing near me laboriously spelled it out, then turned to his companion and said: "Come on in—that means you." And he and his mother went in.

A. H. NASON,
92 Cottage street, Everett, Mass.

LITERAL.

I saw a little boy playing in the wading pool without any clothes on. His horrified mother hurried to the spot with the lad's bathing suit.

"But you told me never to go in swimming with my clothes on," was the child's explanation of his nudity.

MRS. J. P. ULBRIGHT,
Chautauqua, Ill.

ON THE COTTON BELT.

A man was eating in a restaurant prior to catching a train. He had received the whole order except fried potatoes. Getting uneasy as train time approached, he took the potatoes when they were brought to him, and, finding them too hot for quick eating, dumped them in a glass of ice water, fished them out, and ate them.

L. H. WHITE,
498 East street, Jonesboro, Ark.

25 OR 50?

While I was in the postoffice, the iceman came in to call for his mail. Upon reaching the window he shouted "Ice!" at the top of his voice.

NAOMA WALZ,
Crystal City.

FIRST CENT THE HARDEST.

While in the State Bank of Collinsville I saw a boy, 15 years old, make a deposit of 1 cent.

ALBERTA HARTMANN,
203 W. Main street, Collinsville, Ill.

NICE 'GATOR.

An alligator and a school of goldfish are harmonious companions in a pond in our yard. The alligator does not molest the fish.

LAURELLA MILFORD,
De Soto, Mo.

FAIRNESS HIS MOTTO.

I saw a man and a boy packing apples in an orchard. The boy asked the man if he should put the large apples on top. The man replied that that wouldn't be fair, so the boy packed the small apples on top, and then when he had nailed the barrel up, the man told him to turn the other side up and label it.

OPAL HENRY,
St. Francois, Mo.

ALL THAT GLITTERS.

While driving west along Lincoln trail one evening I saw something glisten in the road and reflecting on the possibility of it being a watch, turned around and started back to investigate, but just before reaching the place where my supposed treasure lay, another car coming west whipped to the side of the road and stopped, a man jumped out and started running back, evidently having seen the same object. A race was on. However, we reached the goal the same time, but alas, our find was only a tablespoon partly covered with dust. My opponent smiled and said "Howdy." I grinned and returned the salutation, but we left the spoon for someone else.

C. O. SPITLER,
Shattuc, Ill.

COULD HAVE WALKED.

I saw a St. Louis postoffice inspector arrive at the depot here, after having been driven eight miles at top speed to catch the train to the city. With aching heads, jarred nerves and an exhausted "Lizzie," the inspector and his aged driver learned that the train was four hours late.

KATE MEANS,
Carlyle, Ill.

NOT HITTING.

An old farmer, told by a garage man that two cylinders of his car were missing, examined the engine for himself and declared, "Your eyes must be bad. The cylinders are all there."

V. F. FAHRMEIER,
Berger, Mo.

A PICK-UP.

While walking through a ten-cent store I saw a woman walking around as nice as you please with a tea strainer hanging from the edge of her hat.

GEORGE LINCOLN,
3525 St. Louis avenue.

USED FOR A RENT.

I saw an urchin wearing a badly-torn and not very neatly mended pair of trousers, on the seat of which, on an old piece of muslin, were printed the words, "For Rent."

L. A. ANTROBUS,
206 Monroe St., Jefferson City.

VERY URBAN.

I saw a car full of people, evidently strangers, in the Lead Belt, stop on one of our principal streets. One of the occupants asked a little boy, "Which is the road to Flat River?" The boy replied, "You're in Flat River now." Then the man said, "Well, I don't see how they can tell where one town stops and another begins, here."

ETHEL BOYD,
Flat River, Mo.

FISHUNCY.

I saw a man unloading lumber from a wagon in the street. He would throw the lumber over the fence and then enter the yard through a gate 10 feet away and pick up the lumber, then carry it to the pile.

CLARENCE MILES,
404 North Horn, West Frankfort, Ill.

Ball Players to Form New Union

By the Associated Press.

MILWAUKEE, Wis., Aug. 16.—A baseball players union, designed for the announcement purpose of lifting the idols of the diamond from what is termed a position as "pawns of the club owners" to an equal status with the club owners, so far as matters affecting the players are concerned, is nearing complete organization, according to an announcement today by Ray Cannon, attorney and former baseball player.

Mr. Cannon announced that he had been retained by players on virtually every major league club and on several minor clubs and that he had already opened negotiations with Samuel Gompers for backing by the American Federation of Labor. Mr. Gompers, according to Mr. Cannon, was favorably impressed and promised his support in any just cause.

"This union will not be organized to engender dissent between club owners and players," explained Mr. Cannon, "but if its purpose are carried out it will bring permanent peace and prevent discord."

Mr. Cannon represents the former White Sox players who were named in the 1919 world's series scandal in their suit filed against Charles A. Comiskey.

PITTSBURG, Aug. 16.—President John A. Heydler, of the National League, who was in Pittsburgh today, said he could see no necessity for a baseball player's union, as outlined by Ray Cannon, a former player and now an attorney in Milwaukee.

"With Judge Landis at the head of organized baseball, every player knows he can always get a square deal," said Mr. Heydler.

"As far as the major leagues are concerned, and I am only speaking for them, there has never been a time in all baseball history when salaries were higher or players were treated beter."

100 GOLFERS TO PLAY IN PUBLIC LINKS TOURNEY

By the Associated Press.

TOLEDO, O., Aug. 16.—Golfers who enter the National Public Links championship here Aug. 28 and who fail to qualify for the titular fight will be eligible for a special two-day tournament over the Inverness Course, where the national open was held two years ago, according to an announcement today by S. P. Jermain, president of the Toledo District Golf Association. There will be more than 100 entrants in the public links tournament.

Mitchell Defeats Jawson.

MILWAUKEE, Aug. 16.—Pinkey Mitchell, Milwaukee, lightweight, outboxed Joe Jawson, another local boy, in a 10-round bout here last night. Jimmy Nuss of Greenbay defeated Frank Grace, local welterweight, in eight rounds, and Earl McArthur, Des Moines, outboxed Sammy Marino in eight rounds.

Cardinals Play Brooklyn Today

Following an open date yesterday, when the club gained half a game on the Giants, who were defeated by the Pirates, the Cardinals oppose the Brooklyn Superbas this afternoon in the first of a series of three games. The Dodgers are the first of the Eastern invaders to call. The Phillies, Braves and Giants call in the order named.

Jeff Pfeffer, the big right hander, and a former member of the Brooklyn team, will without a doubt be Rickey's hurling nominee. Pfeffer has been successful in games against the Dodgers this year. Dazzy Vance, the young right hander from New Orleans, is due for Brooklyn.

The new batting order used by Rickey Monday will be used again today.

PUBLIC SAFETY BODY TO SUPERVISE ALL BOXING

By the Associated Press.

LANSING, Mich., Aug. 16.—Supervision of boxing in Michigan today was placed entirely in the hands of the State Department of Public Safety, the State Administration Board having abolished the Boxing Commission headed by Thomas Bigger. Under the new arrangement the State will continue to collect a percentage of the boxing show receipts to pay supervisory expenses and provide athletic equipment for public schools.

Schwarz Brothers Reach Municipal Net Semi-Finals

Alvin Defeats Clifford Beutel, While Elmer Disposes of J. L. Hawkins.

Alvin Schwarz reached the semifinal round of the municipal tennis tournament at Forest Park by defeating Clifford Beutel, former King's highway player, in a close match. The score was 8—6, 6—1.

Elmer Schwarz also gained a place in the semi-finals by winning from J. L. Hawkins in straight sets. Hawkins put up an excellent battle against his more experienced opponent and won seven games in the two sets. Schwarz won by a 6—3, 6—4 score.

Two important matches have been played in the women's event of the municipal tournament at Forest Park. In one encounter, Millicent Endicott, Forest Park champion, defeated Bess Knight, 6—3, 6—4, while Beulah Morris won from Hortense Doyle in straight sets, 6—4, 6—3.

Oakland Tennis Results.

Several second round matches have been played in the mixed doubles tournament for the championship of the Oakland Tennis Club. In a feature contest Helen McDonald and G. McGregor defeated Alice O'Hara and Willard McGregor. The match went the limit of three sets and the score was 6—3, 3—6, 6—3.

Isabella Deacon and Robert Pate advanced a round as a result of their victory over B. O'Gorman and H. Placke. A number of matches in the mixed doubles event will be played during the remainder of the week.

Examination to Start Saturday.

The Municipal Tennis Association will hold a meeting next Thursday night at 6 o'clock. Pairings for the elimination tournament to be played at Forest Park will be made. Players who reached the semifinal round in the various park events will qualify for the drawing.

In addition to the men's singles and doubles in the parks there were the same two events for women. Eight parks are expected to be represented in the elimination tournament. The final winners in the playoff at Forest Park will be the champions of the Municipal Tennis Association for this season.

The Tournament Committee hopes to start the elimination tournament Saturday afternoon. Weather permitting, the final rounds will take place on or before Labor day. This will give the Municipal body a week to prepare for the city championship which opens Sept. 9.

Junior C. of C. Finals Saturday.

The doubles event of the Junior Chamber of Commerce tennis tournament is nearing completion. Only three matches remain to be played before the champion team is decided.

Louis Grone and Charles Sparks are scheduled to oppose Jack Lynn and Clifford Beutel this afternoon in an important contest. The winning combination will then meet Kroeger and Walker in a semifinal round encounter.

The finals of the Junior C. of C. event will take place Saturday afternoon. Ray Mills and Davison Obear are now in the final round and will oppose the winners of the semifinal match in the upper bracket.

Municipal Doubles to Start.

Play in the doubles event of the Municipal tennis tournament on the Oakland courts will open this week. A number of leading teams have entered and some close matches are expected.

Alex Hewitt and Leslie Guest, the doubles champions of the Oakland Tennis Club, will participate in the tournament. Other teams entered are as follows: Ropert Pate and Charles Powers, Willard McGregor and G. McGregor, William Coulson and W. Pate, R. Livingston and L. Milligan, Frank Balfay and O. C. Berghaus, H. Placke and C. Placke.

Reservoir Park Results.

In the Municipal tennis tournament at Reservoir Park, two players, F. Rose and C. Malacek, have qualified for the elimination event at Forest Park. Malacek reached the semifinal round by defeating G. Conway in a hard fought contest. Three sets were required before the match was decided. The score: 6—2, 4—6, 6—1.

F. Rose won a second round match from J. Hill. He lost only two games in this encounter, winning by a 6—2, 6—0 score. There are two remaining matches in the singles. Robert Mortland will oppose G. Boehmer in one, while J. Cheney meets G. Lauth in the other. The winners of these contests will join Malacek and Rose in the playoff at Forest Park.

FRENCH TENNIS STARS DEFEATED IN ANNUAL NEWPORT TOURNAMENT

By the Associated Press.

NEWPORT, R. I., Aug. 16. — The elimination of the three French Davis Cup players was the feature of yesterday's play in the Casino tennis tournament here. It was the first time in history that the three leading players of a nation were eliminated on the same day.

Andre Gobert, the French veteran, fell before James Davies, a Leland Sanford collegian, after a hard fight, 0—6, 11—9, 6—1. Henri Cochet, who won France's only match against Australia, fell before the steady stroking of Nat W. Niles of Boston, 6—2, 6—1. Arnold Jones, the Yale freshman, defeated Jean Borotra, the third French player, 7—5, 2—6, 6—3.

Gobert and Cochet were defeated in the third round of the competition, while Borotra fell in a second-round match.

R. C. Wertheim, the only Australian in the tourney, was defeated by Willis E. Davis of San Francisco, 6—2, 0—6, 6—3.

Phil Neer, Leland Sanford, former collegiate champion, lost to H. G. Kelleher of New York, 6—4, 6—3.

Toney Kaufmann, recruit pitcher of the Cubs, held the Braves to four scattered hits in the first game, but one man reaching second base.

WRAY'S COLUMN

Now for the Stretch Run.

WITH less than one-third of the pennant races remaining to be run, the big league jockeys are all drawing their whips ready for the killing run through the stretch, with the flag and the world series melon as the prizes. It is at this stage of the contest that real class begins to develop. Fans will soon know whether St. Louis has two teams of quality and stamina.

Based purely on present performance, the Pittsburg team appears to be the strongest club in the National League, but it is five games behind and seemingly has found itself too late. Those Giants, with a five-game lead and only 44 contests to play, finishing their season with a home stay, have all the best of the Pirates and doubtless will hang on. It will take a dash such as the Braves put on in 1914 to put the Pirates in front and keep them there.

* * *

Of course there are the Cardinals, whom none can figure. They are close enough to the Giants to spill the beans. They are just as likely to run wild out in front as they are to drop sadly behind. They have a tremendous batting punch and an aching void elsewhere. Seemingly, the team is the worst defensive club that has represented a major league city in a long time—and this goes for the team as a whole, as well as for its pitchers.

If Rickey can get enough of his hurlers working acceptably, the team's great punch might put it over. But the club would be a weak sister in a world's series because of its poor hurling and erratic defense. Just now the Cardinals are a guess; and anybody's guess is just as good as Rickey's or your own.

* * *

Browns "Sitting Pretty."

THE Browns are in a very favorable position. The team is handicapped by inferior substitutes, in some positions, and very seriously by an almost complete lack of left-hand pitchers. Two of its right-hand reliances have been hit hard lately, and there is a suspicion about the hurling department that must make the team's owners tremulous.

But there the Browns' troubles end. From every other angle they occupy a good position. If they can come home within a game or two of first place, they will have even the improving Yankee team worried. That long September stay at home should just keep the Browns in the fight, even allowing for its seeming pitching weakness.

The Browns have a "home" winning percentage of about .700, which, if lived up to in their final stay, should win the flag for the Fohlmen.

With the nearest of the contending teams about seven games distant, the American League race safely may be considered a two-club contest for the championship; and at this time the chances certainly favor the St. Louis club, if it can get pitching equal to that accorded it so far.

* * *

That "Oh Boy" Staff.

THE great danger lies in the possibility that all five of those New York hurlers will begin hitting on all cylinders. If Mays, Hoyt, Jones, Bush and Shawkey all hurl to the previous year's records, there is no club in the race that can stop the Yanks.

The New York team gave a taste of its class away from home on its last journey. It went through the West as though the opposition were tied, except for a 1—2 series at Chicago in which the Yanks were set back. Another such journey would spell disaster to the Browns.

Incidentally that final series here between the Yanks and the Browns will attract almost as much attention as a world's series. The pennant may really hinge upon the results of these games.

* * *

Already Won?

AT this writing they might as well prepare that monument for the inscribing of George Sisler's name at the head of a long list of ballplayers to come. At the present writing there does not appear to be anybody close to him. Unless Bullet Joe Bush goes through with an amazing pitching performance, Sisler will have matters all his own way.

He is far in front at the present writing. His lead reminds one of the story they relate about the winning of the first America cup race, about which the King of England was supposed to have inquired.

"The America won, your majesty," he was told.

"And what boat is second?" he queried.

"Your majesty, there is no second."

Sisler will have to slip in his work considerably for a contender to loom up on the horizon.

Sandow and Hahn Draw.

By the Associated Press.

ATLANTA, Ga., Aug. 16.—Sammy Sandow of Cincinnati and Bernie Hahn of Wheeling, W. Va., fought a fast 10-round bantamweight bout to a draw here last night. Larry Avera was given the referee's decision over Eddie Hanlon after a 10-round match between the two local welterweights.

'Shucks' Pruett, Relief Star, May Be Lost to Fohl

Missouri U. Southpaw's Arm Has Failed to Come Around After Month's Rest.

WASHINGTON, Aug. 16.—There is a growing conviction in the camp of the Browns that Hubert "Shucks" Pruett, the finest pitching prospect discovered by the club in years, is lost entirely to the team for the balance of the season. In the last month Pruett has not been asked to start any games and he has worked only occasionally as a relief hurler. Now, it appears, his value even in the minor role of rescue man is dissipated.

Pruett yesterday relieved Wayne Wright in the seventh inning of the first game of the double-header which opened a five-game series here.

Those in a position to observe Pruett's pitching closely yesterday saw that his "screwball" or fadeaway did not break. He employed, rather, an ordinary curve and a fast ball. His stock in trade thus reduced, he fell a victim to Washington bats and in two innings yielded four hits, three walks and allowed three runs.

Hit Hand at Chicago.

The pitching marvel of two months ago fared no better at Chicago last Saturday, when he pitched to one batter and was greeted with a two-base hit.

A month ago, after a series of brilliant pitching performances Pruet was given a two weeks' rest because of a sore arm. Manager Fohl announced at that time that he wouldn't start the youngster in any more games this year. He has been held in reserve for relief work exclusively; but now it develops that his arm is still sore and it is very probable that he will not be available for any kind of pitching.

Bayne the Only Southpaw.

The withdrawal of the fadeaway star leaves Fohl with but one left-hander, Billy Bayne. A month ago there were three southpaws available, Danforth, Pruett and Bayne. The first-named is no longer with the club; the second is out with a sore arm and Bayne has not reached the heights expected of him.

Of the remaining hurlers, "Dixie" Davis and Ray Kolp look better on each succeeding appearance on the hurling hill. Vangilder and Shocker have been hit hard recently, but each is capable of good pitching, and Wayne Wright, if not worked too frequently, is a brilliant pitcher.

Yesterday, in the course of batting practice before the game, Shocker, fielding at third base, was caught with a line drive from Bronkie's bat. The ball hit him in the left thigh. He shook off the sting of it, but there was so much force behind the hit that he may feel the effects of his injury later.

St. Albans Caddies, Compelled to Pick Weeds, Go on Strike

By the Associated Press.

NEW YORK, Aug. 16.—A labor program at first hand has been presented to members of the St. Albans Golf Club, Long Island, by the club's 75 caddies, who have struck against the indignities of being compelled to pick weeds without "any compensation," in the language of their spokesmen.

Every angle of a strike situation was presented. A picket line was thrown out and the police were called after the strikers threatened "to take care" of any applicants for the vacant jobs.

The caddies stated they would return whenever the club officials discovered that a caddy's job was to "hand out drivers and midirons and not chase wild onions all over the course."

NEHF DEFEATED AFTER WINNING 13 STRAIGHT GAMES FROM PIRATES

After a record of 13 straight victories in two years over Pittsburg, Art Nehf, star Giant southpaw, found his fourteenth attempt unlucky and was driven from the box, while the Pirates captured the first game of the "little world series" with the National League leaders. Wilbur Cooper twirled the Buccaneers to their fifth straight victory over the Giants.

Chicago collected 25 of the 43 hits in a game with the Boston Red Sox, and won, 19 to 11.

Elmer Smith, filling Babe Ruth's place, walloped out a circuit blow in the tenth to down Ty Cobb's scrappy Tigers, 2 to 1. New York's victory, while St. Louis was dividing a double-header with Washington, put the team within a half game of the leaders.

White Sox Buy Pitcher.

OKMULGEE, Ok., Aug. 16.—Homer Blankenship, pitcher of the Okmulgee team of the Western Association, has been sold to the Chicago White Sox club, officials announced last night. The purchase price was quoted as $5000. He will report to Chicago at the close of the present Western Association season. Blankenship is a brother of Ted Blankenship, at present a member of the White Sox pitching staff. He is 19 years old.

National Open Champion Misses Long Putt on 18th Green to Even Match.

OAKMONT COUNTRY CLUB, PITTSBURG, Pa., Aug. 16.—Sarazen defeated Hutchison, 3 and 1.

OAKMONT COUNTRY CLUB, Pittsburg, Pa., Aug. 16.—Jock Hutchison of Chicago and Gene Sarazen of Pittsburg fought a bitter struggle under a blazing sun in the forenoon half of the fourth round of the National Professional Golf championship today, and when the 18 holes were completed the Chicago Scot was 1 up on the National open champion.

Gene made a desperate attempt to even the match on the eighteenth hole. His second shot stopped within 6 feet of the cup, but he missed an eagle 3 when his ball rimmed, and he was forced to halve the hole. Hutchison went out in 38 and came home in 35. His 73 was 1 under par. Gene's card showed 40 out and 34 in.

Although interest was centered in the Hutchison-Sarazen match, the most brilliant performance was by Emmet French of Youngstown, O., who finished 5 up on Emil Loeffler, Pittsburg. French shot the first nine in 34 and came home in 35. His 69 was the best score recorded in the tournament.

Cruikshank was 5 up on Rowe and Golden 1 up on Kerrigan at the end of the first round.

We Take It for Granted That Those East Side Net Stars, the Dollar Brothers, Will Be in the Money

Pitchers of Cardinals Have Been Found for an Average of 4.95 Runs a Game This Year

Southpaw Sherdel Is Leader With 3.96—Doak's Collapse Proves Hard Blow—Rickey Has Been Forced to Use Relief Hurlers in 64 of Team's 111 Contests.

By Herman Wecke.

After delving through the records for the 1922 season, with the Cardinal pitchers as the main objective, there is good reason for the question, "How did the club get as close to the lead as it is?" The statistics show that the seven flingers still on the payroll of the Rickeymen have permitted an average of 4.95 runs a game. That probably is the highest percentage of runs permitted by any staff of flingers with a team that is up in the hunt for the championship.

From this it can be seen that it has been something other than pitching that has carried the club to second place and to first for periods of 24 hours recently. The answer is found in the sensational punch owned by the team. Whereas the Cardinal pitchers have yielded almost five runs a game, the Rickey sluggers have pounded over an average of 5.3 a tilt against the opposition.

In spite of the fact that all but one of the seven hurlers have allowed more than four runs a contest, not one of them is under the .500 mark for the season. Bill Pertica, for instance, has been found for an average of 6.75 tallies a contest, but he has won seven games and lost a like number. Bill Sherdel, the little southpaw, has the best efficiency record with an average of 3.96 a game.

Hurlers Unable to Go Route.

The records also show that Manager Rickey has a tough job finding a pitcher who can finish what he starts. Of the 111 contests played by the aggregation this season, the pitcher who started has been able to go the full route only 47 times. This means that in 64 contests, more than one-half of the club's games, Rickey has been forced to use one or more relief flingers.

And here again Sherdel leads the pack. He has hurled 14 complete contests. Jeff Pfeffer has pitched 11, Jess Haines 10, Bill Doak 8, Bill Pertica 2 and Lou North and Clyde Barfoot each 1.

Probably the worst setback for Rickey and the Cardinals came in the collapse of Bill Doak. The veteran spitballer in 1921 was the leading pitcher in the Heydler circuit. But Bill won't be the pace-maker this season. In 146 1-3 innings Doak has been found for 92 runs, an average of 5.67 a game. He has permitted 175 safeties. Doak has won nine games and dropped a like number.

The veteran, who has pitched two one-hit shutouts this season, has been able to go the full route only eight times. He has been started on 26 occasions. This means that Rickey has been forced to send out the S O S call on 18 occasions, when the spitballer has been on the pitching peak. The right-hander has fanned 58 batters and walked 65.

North, With 8-1 Record, Has Allowed An Average of 5.40 Tallies a Game

Sherdel has been the most consistent winner for the Rickeymen. He has won 14 and lost eight, and has hurled some mighty good ball. He has worked 177 2-3 innings, and in that time he has allowed 78 runs, an average of 3.96 a game. He has been hit rather freely, as 209 hits show. But Bill has been hard to swat in the pinch. He has fanned 62 men and passed 44.

The little southpaw, who last season was Rickey's chief relief pitcher, has proved a life saver for Rickey. Without him there's no telling what position the team would occupy today. Sherdel does not own a wonderful fast ball, but he has a slow ball that has the best of them baffled. What's more, Sherdel has control, something unusual for a lefthander.

Won and lost records and efficiency records are something far apart, as shown by the mark hung up by Lou North, the champion relief flinger in captivity. On 27 occasions North has gone to the rescue of a faltering mate. What's more, N. L. "dope" shows he is the pace-maker, with eight victories and only one defeat. But in runs allowed, North's record does not stack up so impressive, as in 95 1-3 innings he has permitted 57 runs, an average of 5.40 a game. He has been hit safely 111 times, fanned 54 and walked 31 batters.

Pfeffer Has 12-9 Record

In winning 12 games and losing nine, Jeff Pfeffer, the former Brooklyn righthander, has allowed 79 runs in 161-3 innings, an average of 4.41 a game. He has been found for 181 hits, has fanned 50 and passed 39 clubbers. Rickey has been forced to send another flinger to Pfeffer's rescue 12 times, while on seven occasions he has answered the S O S call. Big Jeff has hurled one shutout this year, that against the Cubs early in the season.

Jess Haines, who was Rickey's only consistent winner on the recent trip around the Eastern section, has won nine games and lost seven. Haines has been a rank in-and-outer. He started out in great style with a three-hit game against the Pirates. Then he went bad and dropped three in a row. Since then it has been practically the same, with good and bad games mixed. The righthander has hurled 140 2-3 innings and has been found for 78 markers, an average of 4.95 a game. He has been pounded for 144 hits, owns 49 strikeouts and has passed 37 men.

While Doak's collapse was a setback, the failure of Bill Pertica to come through as expected also has been a hard blow. Last season, his first in the majors, Bill was ranked as one of the coming stars. This year he has been all to the bad, although he has a 7-7 record. In 99 innings, the enemy has found him for 74 runs and 125 hits. In addition he has walked 51 batters, while he is credited with only 25 strikeouts. Bill's record shows only one really good game, that against Cincinnati, July 2, when he allowed only one run and eight hits.

The seventh member of the staff is Clyde Barfoot, the young righthander from the Texas League. He has been used chiefly as a relief hurler, having been sent to a mate's rescue 29 times. He is credited with four victories and charged with four defeats. The runs off him average 4.50 a game, with 45 runs in 89 2-3 innings. He has allowed 87 hits, fanned 18 and walked 22.

That's the record of the pitchers with whom Rickey is trying to give St. Louis a pennant in the National League.

Cleveland Featherweight Takes the Count in the Ninth, Although Not Much Hurt.

By Leased Wire From the New York Bureau of the Post-Dispatch.

NEW YORK, Aug. 16.—Johnny Dundee turned in one of the best fights of his long career at Ebbets Field, last night, when he knocked out Danny Frush of Cleveland in the ninth round of a scheduled 15-round bout, in what the New York State Boxing Commission has decided was for the featherweight championship. The unusual spectacle of the bouncing battler, Johnny Dundee, knocking out an opponent was the big surprise of the regulars who have been watching the veteran these many years.

Indeed, there were those at the ringside who suspected that Frush quit while under the attack of the bounding Italian.

In the eighth round Dundee hurt the Ohio boxer with a stinging right uppercut to the stomach and Danny fell in a neutral corner, where he listened to a count of nine. When he got up, Dundee tore in and plastered Frush with rights and lefts to face and body in an effort to complete the job. Frush tincanned it and refused to fight back, while the old-timer, scenting a knockout, pitched after the Cleveland lad to put over the old crusher.

Frush Seems Frightened.

When the ninth round opened Dundee renewed his assault on the fast tottering and much-scarred Frush. A strong left to the stomach and a sweeping right to the head sent Frush down on his back. He did not appear to be hurt and listened in while Patsey Haley swung the count. There it was that the suspicious folks at the ringside figured it out that Frush was taking a glide. At any rate, Frush didn't get up and suffered the disgrace of being knocked out by the great old man of the ring, who hasn't put over a sleep producer since Hector was a toddler. The time consumed in the ninth round was just 20 seconds.

Jimmy Katz of Cleveland, 139¼ pounds, and Elino Flores, a dark-skinned kid from the Philippines, at 134¼ pounds, went six rounds. The judges gave Flores the decision at the end.

WICHITA FALLS CLUB TO BE TRIED ON CHARGE OF 'DOCTORING' BASEBALLS

By the Associated Press.

FORT WORTH, Tex., Aug. 16.—Paul A. Lagrave, business manager of the Fort Worth Texas League baseball club, who will sit in executive conference with Joe Mathes of Beaumont, W. H. Crocker of Houston and President Doak Roberts at Dallas Friday to "try" the Wichita Falls baseball team on a charge of "doctoring baseballs with creosote," does not aprove of Roberts' action in "passing the buck" to the directors, he said, yesterday.

It is a matter that is serious enough to bring forth a decision from the league executive, he said. In view of the fact that Fort Worth is Wichita Falls' nearest rival in the pennant race, Lagrave declared he is placed in a peculiar position in being asked to decide upon the case.

KILLEFER IS HERALDED AS NEW MIRACLE MAN

By the Associated Press.

CHICAGO, Aug. 16.—William Killefer, manager of the Chicago Nationals, may be known as the miracle man of 1922, if the Cubs win the pennant. The Cubs, picked by most experts to finish in seventh or eighth place, are only five games behind the league leading Giants.

The Cubs have just returned from a successful road trip, winning 12 and losing seven. Yesterday they took a doubleheader from the Braves and brought their winning streak to five straight.

The Cubs will play a three-game series with the Giants this week.

Dempsey-Brennan Go to Be Called Off by Governor

Letter Ordering Sheriff to Interfere Written, but Not Mailed Yet.

By the Associated Press.

INDIANAPOLIS, Ind., Aug. 16.—Gov. McCray of Indiana after announcing today that he had prepared a letter directing the sheriff of Laporte county to forbid the staging of the Dempsey-Brennan fight at Michigan City, decided to defer sending the letter. It is understood however, that local officials will act to prevent the match. The letter will go forward in case the officials in Laporte county fail to take action.

NOTHING TO DO EXCEPT OBEY THE GOVERNOR, MANAGER KEARNS' VIEW

By the Associated Press.

MICHIGAN CITY, Ind., Aug. 16.—"Gov. McCray would be perfetcly right in calling off a fight in Michigan City, but the Dempsey-Brennan match is simply a boxing exhibition, and not a violation of the Indiana laws," Jack Kearns, manager of Jack Dempsey, said, when informed by the Associated Press that the Governor had ordered the bout called off. "There is nothing we can do except obey the Governor," added Kearns.

The Chicago Cubs, in third place and sharing the limelight with Pittsburg as an added starter in the National League race, climbed to within five games of the top by trouncing the Braves twice, 5 to 0 and 8 to 3.

Sisler Has Lead of Five Points on Cobb

By the Associated Press.

CHICAGO, Aug. 16.—George Sisler, the St. Louis batting star, widened the gap between himself and Ty Cobb, pilot of the Detroit Tigers, yesterday, for the batting honors of the American League. Sisler is now five points ahead of his rival, his average being .414, compared to a mark of .409 for Cobb.

The St. Louis star had a good day at bat in the first games of the Browns in their last invasion of the East. The Browns met the Washington Senators in a twin bill and Sisler made five hits in nine times at bat.

The Tigers played only one game yesterday and Cobb cracked out two hits in four times at bat.

Their records follow:

Players.	G.	AB.	H.	Pct.
Sisler	105	430	178	.414
Cobb	99	386	158	.409

The new Goodyear Cross-Rib Tread Cord

A New Tread—a Lower Price
Reliable Goodyear Quality

Here is a new Goodyear Cord Tire—a big, sturdy, long-wearing tire—that sells at a price lower than you are asked to pay for many "long discount" tires of unknown value.

It has a different tread from the famous Goodyear All-Weather Tread Cord—a new tread with a deep, clean-cut, cog-like pattern—and it sells for substantially less.

It has in it the same high-grade long-staple cotton, the same Goodyear patented group-ply construction, the same liberally oversize dimensions.

When you buy the 4½-inch size, for example, you get a tire whose actual measurement is nearly 5 inches.

Don't confuse this Goodyear Cross-Rib Tread Cord with other popular-price cords which sell at the same price or for slightly more.

In many cases, these other cords are made of inferior materials, with short-staple cotton as a foundation.

PRICES IRREGULAR AFTER SHARP RISE ON STOCK MARKET

Selling Pressure in Late Session — French Exchange Rate Has Lower Swing—Steel Industry Situation and Effects of Strikes.

By Leased Wire From the New York Bureau of the Post-Dispatch.

NEW YORK, Aug. 16.—The Evening Post, in its copyrighted financial review today, says:

"The stock market again gave evidence today that professional traders are finding it difficult to interpret the exact bearing upon security values of the economic situation both in this country and abroad. The day's trading on the Stock Exchange began with a show of great activity at prices materially above the closing quotations of Tuesday. This phase lasted for only about an hour and was succeeded by the dullness typical of a market dominated by the professional element. The general level of prices around the highs of the morning varied by demonstrations in individual issues which resulted in some irregularity. During the last hour the selling pressure became somewhat more pronounced. In the bond market the war issues of our own Government were dull, but all issues of United Kingdom bonds were unusually active and strong. Corporation issues were little changed, although many of those not included in the gilt-edged class were fractionally higher. Call money on the Stock Exchange opened at 3¼ per cent, but the rate was lowered to a flat 3 per cent at 11:30, and remained at that figure until the close.

French Franc Falls.

"The exchange market was again characterized by wide variations in the movement of the different currencies. Sterling was conspicuously strong, being in good demand on this side. Advancing ⅞ of a cent to $4.47½, which is the highest price attained on its upward movement since the middle of June. There was, on the other hand, heavy selling of French francs in New York, and this declined 10½ points to 7.92 cents. Lire tended to sag with francs, dropping 3 points to 4.53 cents. German marks were quoted at one time as low as .09 of a cent, a new low price, but this quotation was virtually nominal, as there were few transactions, and the closing price of .10 was ½ a point below that of yesterday. Czecho-Slovak crowns advanced 10 points to 2.98 cents. This is a high record price for this currency, and its rise reflects the improved export business of the new republic.

"The cotton market was inclined to place a bullish interpretation of the Government's report on cotton consumption for July, as this pointed to an abnormally small carryover of cotton in the United States, and the various futures scored advances of from 25 to 40 points. Some realizing by the longs brought a reaction for a brief period, but the market again rallied. The losses were rcovered. October cotton at 20.85 cents was up 22 points. The wheat market was subjected to less selling pressure, and prices at a dollar and below were conclusive to more active buying. The September fluctuated within a narrow range, and closed unchanged from yesterday at $1.00⅜, but the December at $1.02 was up 1⅛ cents for the day.

Steel Industry Situation.

"In view of the railway and coal mining situation the report of a further decline in steel output in the past week is in accord with expectations. The Iron Age, in its weekly review, estimates the output of the steel corporation at about 60 per cent, compared with from 65 to 70 per cent for the previous week, and the average output of the independent companies at probably not above 50 per cent. The plans for the resumption of bituminous mining in the union fields are not expected to have any immediate effect upon the steel industry, as under the system of priorities, which will be continued, the fuel supply for several weeks will be turned into other than iron and steel channels. Blast furnaces continue to be hampered more than the steel mills, from lack of fuel and during the second week of August 13 more furnaces were compelled to suspend operations. Meanwhile prices continue to advance, and various other signs of a scarcity market have developed.

"While the Census Bureau's report of cotton consumption shows a decrease of some 50,000 bales in July as compared with June, such a falling off at this season of the year is not an unusual occurrence, as a similar decline has occurred in six of the last 10 years. The really significant fact shown in this report is the gain of slightly more than a million bales in domestic consumption for the so-called cotton year ending with July 31. The consumption of 5,912,000 bales is well in excess of that of any pre-war year."

HIGHER RANGE TO PRICE OF COTTON AT NEW YORK

NEW YORK, Aug. 16.—Continued crop complaints combined with the more favorable view of the coal situation and reports of an improving goods demand in Manchester led to further covering or scattered buying in the cotton market here early today. Liverpool cables were lower than due, but the opening here was 4 to 11 points higher, and active months sold 11 to 22 points above yesterday's closing, after the call with December at 20.78c, showing a recovery of 66 points from the low price of yesterday. There was scattered realizing and a little Southern selling on the advance, but New Orleans was a buyer, and spot people were credited with buying near months.

The early buying movement continued, with December contracts selling up to 20.98c, with active months generally showing net advances of about 30 to 39 points and a recovery of some 80 to 87 points from the low prices of yesterday. The weekly report of the Weather Bureau made a bullish showing, but seemed to have been pretty well discounted and prices eased off a few points after its publication under realizing. The census report showing domestic mill consumption of 458,548, against 410,142 for July last year, attracted no special comment.

There was enough realizing to send December off to 20.67c during the early afternoon or within 7 points of yesterday's close, but continued crop complaints gave the market a steady undertone and active months were 20 to 22 points net higher around 2 o'clock.

Spot cotton steady; middling, 20.95c.

Wall Street News and Comment
—SPECIAL DAILY—

By a Special Correspondent of the Post-Dispatch.

NEW YORK, Aug. 16.—This morning's strike news simply followed out the indications of the previous day, yet it had a decidedly favorable effect upon all the markets.

Railway shares had made the better part of their response to the favorable view of the labor situation in the 1 to 3 point advance of the previous day. They went higher again, but were not as prominent, by any means, as the industrials. The buying sought out more particular stocks of companies whose business has been threatened for weeks past with curtailment owing to the combination of delayed transportation and fuel scarcity. In this category were United States Steel common, the independent steels, the motor stocks and the mining shares. The railway equipment issues were actively bought in the belief that a termination of the strike would mean a great overcrowding of the railroads and new business to the makers of cars and locomotives. The upward turn continued in the oil stocks.

French Government securities were not affected and the break in francs was scarcely an influence anywhere outside of the exchange market.

The stock market followed the same schedule that it has been following right along for the last week or so. Trading kept up with a show of activity through the forenoon and through the early part of the afternoon, then in the last two hours fell off to very small dimensions. It was a very dull and listless market in the late afternoon.

Stocks of coal carrying railroads such as Lehigh Valley, Reading, Western Maryland and Wheeling & Lake Erie attracted some attention in the afternoon dealings. Elsewhere prices came down a bit from the early highs, but still leaving a substantial net gain. The call money renewal was fixed at 3½ per cent, the lowest in a fortnight.

The Bond Market.

Today's bond market was less active but on the whole distinctly strong. There were very few declines and quite a number of gains. In a word, the prevailing tendency was still upward. U. S. Government war loans were only slightly changed one way or the other. The European crisis was not reflected at all in the market for foreign government bonds. The French 7½c did the same as on Tuesday, selling between 98¾ and 99 and the 8s were dealt in between 100⅝ and 101. A noteworthy incident was the advance of nearly a point in the Belgium 7½s, taking them up to 105⅝. Denmark 8s, which had been quietly bought for the last week, touched 111, an advance of half a point.

Philadelphia Co. refunding 6s crossed par for the first time, keeping pace with the new high record in the stock of the company, both movements reflecting reports of steady improvement in gross business and reduction in operating costs. Goodyear issues were strong with 8s of 1941 at 115 again. Armour & Co. 4½s were quoted a half point higher at 91¾ and Midvale Steel 5s sold at 90 as against 89¼ helped by the coal strike development. American Smelting 5s were up half a point at 95⅝.

The railway list was helped by the news of the day seemingly foreshadowing an early termination of the shopmen's strike. C. & O. convertible 4½s reached a new high at 90¼ and so did the Missouri-Kansas-Texas 5s when issued at 85¾, the Long Island refunding 4s which jumped 2 points to 83, the Southern Railway 6½s, which touched 103 for the first time; the Atchison Short Line 4s, which rose from 86½ to 90, the Iron Mountain 5s at 99 and the Wheeling & Lake Erie 4½s close to 71. Seaboard Air Line adjustments gained over a point and Norfolk & Southern 5s a point to 70. Seaboard Air Line refunding 4s, St. Paul 4s of 1925 and the new M., K. & T 6s when issued each rose ¾ of a point, and there were half point advances in B. & O. refunding 5s, Penna 6½s and St. Louis & San Francisco prior lien 4s.

MINNEAPOLIS, Minn., Aug. 16.—Flax—No. 1, $2.49@2.51.

New York Sugar.

NEW YORK, Aug. 16.—The early raw sugar market was quiet, without sales, although bids for prompt shipment Cubas were solicited at 3 11-16, cost and freight, equal to 5.30, duty paid. Futures ruled dull and generally easy, being affected by the unsettled condition in the spot market. Prices at midday were about two to three points net lower.

Refined sugar was quiet and it was reported that one refiner was offering sugar here at 6.80, less 2 per cent, presumably representing sugar originally sold for export. Fine granulated was still held at 7.00@7.10 cents in the regular market.

Refined sugar futures nominal.

Later a sale of spot sugar was announced at 5.25c, duty paid, to a refiner. This is a decline of 5 points from the previous price.

GRAIN PRICES HIGHER ON LOCAL EXCHANGE

Grain prices closed higher on the Merchants' Exchange today.

The markets reflected absence of pressure. Rumors of export business, the developments in strike situation and action of stock market were influences. Reports of rain in Illinois caused less bullishness in late corn market.

In the cash grain market red winter wheat was 1 to 2c higher and hard 1c higher. Offerings were light. There was fair mill demand for soft. There was export demand for soft. Cash corn was ½c to 1c higher. Receipts were light and demand good. Cash oats were ½c to 1c up. Demand was good.

Prices generally were higher at the start. Statistics put out on world wheat stocks, the action of Liverpool in face of yesterday's market on this side and firmness of corn were early factors. Weather conditions were reported unfavorable for corn. Liverpool was ½c lower to unchanged in afternoon.

September wheat opened at 98⅞c, December wheat $1.00⅜, May wheat $1.05. September corn 58c, December corn 53c and May 56c.

The three northwestern markets combined today had 343 cars of wheat, compared with 846 last year, Minneapolis today receiving 188, Duluth 66, Winnipeg 89.

Local wheat receipts, which were 319,200 bushels, compared with 169,825 a week ago and 171,331 last year, included 107 cars local and 159 through. Corn receipts, which were 52,000 bushels, compared with 50,700 a week ago and 702,000 last year, included 3 cars local and 31 through. Oats receipts, which were 112,000 bushels, compared with 72,000 a week ago and 56,000 last year, included 19 cars local and 37 through. Hay receipts were 480 tons local and 85 through.

Primary receipts of wheat today were lighter than a week ago and lighter than a year ago, being 2,228,000 bushels. Corn receipts today were heavier than a week ago and lighter than a year ago, being 645,000 bushels. Oats receipts today were heavier than a week ago and lighter than a year ago, being 1,184,000 bushels.

Spot cotton was unchanged in St. Louis today. Quotations: Good ordinary, 18c; low middling 20c; middling, 21.50c; good middling, 22.50c; middling fair, 23.50c.

PRICES IRREGULAR IN SLOW WHEAT TRADE AT CHICAGO

CHICAGO, Aug. 16.—Wheat acted more stubborn today. There were fractional recessions at the start based on scattered selling induced by the foreign situation. There was much covering by shorts on the dip and prices responded readily to this demand, in view of the reduced offerings. There was no hedging pressure. A noticeable reduction in receipts is shown. On the bulge there was heavy selling, the bulk of it for foreign account, and this caused a reaction. Excellent commission-house buying was uncovered in December at $1.02, however, and this was generally attributed to seaboard account and supposed to represent export business. Seaboard reported 500,000 bushels of wheat worked for export overnight and 50,000 bushels were sold to exporters from here. Cash wheat buyers failed to follow the advance in futures and paid ½c less premium than yesterday. After midday the support was temporarily withdrawn and a little scattered selling caused a break. Trade on the whole was light.

Wheat closed ⅛c to ⅜c higher, Sept. $1.00¾ to $1.01; Dec., $1.02⅛ to $1.02¼; May, $1.07⅜ to $1.07½.

Corn scored good gains in the early trade on covering by September shorts and commission-house buying of the new crop months induced by the reports of dry and hot weather deterioration in the crop in many important sections. Later reports of rain over some of the dry area forced a reaction, prices losing almost all of the gain, December leading the decline. Local shippers sold 150,000 bushels of corn to exporters.

Corn was ⅜c to ⅝c higher, Sept. 59⅜c to 59½c; Dec., 54⅛c to 54¼c; May, 57¼c to 57⅜-½c.

Oats followed corn. Most of the trade was in the way of transferring hedges from September to the deferred futures. Shipping demand was good.

Oats were unchanged to ⅛c lower; Sept. 30⅞c; Dec., 33⅛c; May 37c.

Provisions were firm on buying by small packers. Some realizing was uncovered on the advance. Sales of 1,300,000 pounds of loose lard were reported, of which 1,000,000 pounds went to Germany.

Lard closed 2½c to 5c higher and ribs unchanged to 2½c lower.

NATIONAL STOCKYARDS, Ill., Aug. 16.—Today's estimated receipts: Cattle and calves, 5500; hogs, 14,000; sheep, 3500; horses and mules, 250.

CATTLE—Receipts moderate and market generally steady on native stock and 15c to 25c higher on Western steers. The top, $10.10 per cwt., paid for weighty steers and several cars of lesser weights follow at $10. Veal calves up 50c; top, $11.50.

Quotations: Native beef steers, high $10.75, low $6, bulk $7.50 to $9.50; butcher yearlings, high $10.75, low $4, bulk $5.75 to $8.00; butcher cows, bulk $4 to $5.75; canner and cutter cows, range $2.25 to $3.50; beef bulls, bulk $4.50 to $5; bologna bulls, bulk $3.50 to $4; Texas and Oklahoma grass steers, range $4 to $7.75.

HOGS—Receipts were quite liberal today, the supply being well above the average for the midweek session. With ample offerings in sight, buyers were bearish and market opened 15@20c under yesterday's close and soon settled to a 25@40c drop. Butcher weight hogs bore the full shock of the decline, with heavy hogs and pigs showing a little more resistance. Top was $9.75, paid for several loads, while the bulk of the good hogs cleared in a range of $9.25@9.70. Heavy packing hogs quoted at $8.75@9, with 120@140-pound pigs at $9.25@9.85 and pigs under 120 pounds at $8@9.25. Packer sows not over a dime lower, with a range of $6.50@7.25, and packer stags sold at $5.50 to $6 largely.

SHEEP—With a fairly good number of sheep and lambs on sale, the market was unchanged from the Tuesday basis, with the exception that possibly the buyers were sorting the lambs a little deeper. Information in regard to this issue and the business of the Company is given in a letter from Mr. Jesse Isador Straus, President of the Company, from which we summarize in part as follows:

Business and Management: The business was founded in 1858 by Rowland H. Macy, occupying a small store, about 20 feet wide by 80 feet deep on Sixth Avenue near Fourteenth Street, and from the outset prospered steadily. Having outgrown the present quarters in Thirty-fourth Street, to which the business was moved in 1901, there is now under construction adjoining the present store, an addition 19 stories high, which, when completed, will increase the present floor space from about 1,000,000 square feet to 1,500,000 square feet. Jesse Isidor Straus, President; Percy S. Straus, Vice-President; and Herbert N. Straus, Secretary-Treasurer, who have directed the business since 1914, will continue in control.

Assets: The Consolidated Balance Sheet as at January 28, 1922, after giving effect to the proposed recapitalization of the Company, as certified by Messrs. Touche, Niven & Co., Public Accountants, shows Net Tangible Assets of $18,931,722.28. Net Current Assets as certified will amount to $12,528,023.13, and, alone are equivalent to 125% of the entire Preferred Stock issue.

Sales and Profits: As certified by Messrs. Touche, Niven & Co., Public Accountants, for the three years ended January 28, 1922, the Annual Net Sales were, and computed on the basis of 1922 Federal tax rates, the Annual Net Profits would have been as follows:

Year Ended	Net Sales	Net profits computed on the basis of 1922 Federal tax rates.
January 31, 1920	$35,828,515.37	$3,120,038.31
January 29, 1921	44,527,221.65	2,418,604.51
January 28, 1922	46,671,762.88	2,299,816.16

The average annual net profits for the three years ended January 28th, 1922, computed on the basis of 1922 Federal tax rates, would have been $2,612,819.66, about 3.73 times the annual dividend payments required on the total issue of $10,000,000 Preferred Stock.

Sale for the six months ended July 29, 1922, as certified, were $22,223,227.03, compared with $21,470,468.47 for the corresponding period in 1921. Approximate Net Profits before deduction for Federal Income Taxes for these six months in 1922, are estimated by the Company at $1,449,000, compared with net profits before taxes of $1,283,270.52 for the corresponding period in 1921.

All legal matters in connection with this issue will be subject to the approval of Messrs. Wise & Seligsberg, representing the Venders, and Messrs. Sullivan & Cromwell, representing the Bankers, and this offering is in all respects subject to such approval.

Wear and Tear on Cement Machinery Costly

Machinery used in the manufacture of portland cement wears out faster than in most industries.

Mechanical equipment has to be replaced on an average, once every ten years.

Firebrick lining in that part of the rotary kiln where the raw materials are burned at nearly 3000 degrees Fahrenheit, has to be renewed about twice a year.

To prevent long and expensive shut-downs, spare parts for practically every piece of machinery must be kept in stock. In addition, most mills maintain complete machine and blacksmith shops.

For every million dollars invested in the cement plant proper, from $75,000 to $100,000 worth of spare parts must be on hand.

One company's inventory of spare parts runs as high as $1,000,000. Interest must be earned on this big investment.

Capital requirements of the cement industry are large.

ANSWERS TO QUERIES

The Post-Dispatch reserves the right to reject any query. Personal and telephone calls, or answers by mail, cannot be given attention, except letters on medical questions of undoubted sincerity, when accompanied by stamped addressed envelope.

YOURS TRULY.—We do not give financial advice. Consult the real estate department of the banks.

E. B.—Watch the advertisements for home work and advertise for the kind of work desired.

E. J. M.—Directions for making grape juice can be read under the name Wildly, published in the Aug. 12 issue.

B. B. F.—The Cardinals did not lead the National League when they left St. Louis on July 23.

PATRICIA.—Emma Calve, operatic singer's home address is Chateau de Cabrieres, Aquessac, Aveyron, France.

W. W. M.—You can obtain a marking solution at the machinists' supply houses to burn initials in the blade of the hand saw.

IGNORANT.—When setting a table arrange your silver: All forks to the left hand side of the plate; knife and spoons in order used to the right-hand side.

NATIONAL.—Newspapers having a Sunday edition in the cities you mention are: Cincinnati, O., Commercial Tribune and the Inquirer. Cleveland, O., News Leader; Indianapolis, Ind., Star.

SUBSCRIBER.—The following is a carpet soap with which you can wash your carpets: 4 ounces of Fullers earth, 1 ounce of spirits of turpentine, 8 ounces of pearlash. Rub smooth and make into a stiff paste with a sufficiency of soft soap.

M. L.—The best advise we can offer would be to take the dress of crepe de chine to a reliable cleaning establishment. Probably you could remove the varnish stain by saturating the spot with benzine, but in doing this you might leave a ring in the material which would spoil it.

WINKLE.—We do not know of any preparation with which to cake the pipe. This will be accomplished after smoking the pipe awhile, due to the nicotine formation. 2. Read the answer to Steady published Aug. 8 on ways to test a diamond.

TOM.—William Howard Taft was appointed to the office of the Chief Justice of the Supreme Court of the United States by President Harding, July 1, 1921. He was sworn into office on July 11, 1921, the ceremony being performed in the office of Attorney-General Daugherty by Justice Hoehling of the District Supreme Court. As Chief Justice, Mr. Taft receives a salary of $15,000. He is the ninth Chief Justice since 1789.

S. H.—Borax which is inexpensive is one of the most efficacious means of ridding kitchen, pantry or refrigerator of all the varieties of insects that may infest them. This remedy is not only cheap, but also clean and harmless. Thoroughly scald the drains and wash the icebox, then mix borax and cayenne pepper and spray the corners, cracks and all about it carefully with the mixture. Spread also about the sink and other places where the insects have been seen.

LEGAL INFORMATION.

(By a Member of the St. Louis Bar Association.)

ILLINOIS.—Probably in this case you were required to give bond because of the children, while your son's wife had no children.

DAILY.—If the man has not received compensation for the injury, probably he can. He should consult an Illinois lawyer.

H. W.—Marriage license records are public records. We know of no way to keep it from being published.

THANK YOU.—If the will entirely omitted any provision for the wife and children, leaving all the estate to you, it could probably be set aside.

MOTHER.—Suit for annulment should be brought in Missouri, in this case. The cost of an annulment suit would depend upon your lawyer's fee, which you can agree on with him in advance.

R. H. F.—You can sue for divorce here after one year's residence in this State, even though you are not an American citizen. You should consult a lawyer. If the divorce is not contested it should cost between $75 and $150.

ONE-YEAR READER.—We have no information as to whether the Government would pay a reward on a case of this character. Write to your Congressman. Probably Congress would have to pass a special appropriation to pay such a reward.

M. L. M.—Marriage licenses issued to St. Louisans in any form may be published in the St. Louis papers, but licenses granted in towns more than 25 miles away are not usually published in the papers here. You can get a marriage license at any county seat.

POST READER.—If you build upon the lot owned by your wife, in the event of her death without leaving a will, her two children by her first husband would inherit half of the property, including the house and improvements. You might have her deed the lot to a strawman, and then have him deed it to your wife and yourself as tenants by the entirety. If this were done, on your wife's death you would be sole owner of the property, or, if you died first, she would be sole owner of it.

DOLLY R.—We advise clipping the ends of the hair, thorough massage of the scalp daily, thorough brushing and ventilation of the hair with sufficient washing to keep the hair and scalp clean. You will soon see an improvement in the hair in [illegible] and growth.

A READER.—To cure the hoarseness which follows the cold, gargle with the following: Equal parts salt, sugar and cooking soda. Of this, well mixed, take 1 teaspoonful to a pint of water. Spray the throat well with pineoleum oil, inhaling deeply while using the spray. If this does not relieve the trouble, consult a nose and throat specialist.

Afterward make the diet largely or entirely vegetables and fruit. Take a teaspoon of the following before and after eating: Essence pepsin and liquid taka-diastase, equal parts.

This company is not under the jurisdiction of the United States Railroad Labor Board as per their decision 211, June 25, 1921. OBSCURE ARCHITECT, 24, WINS THE FAMOUS PARIS PRIZE

NEW YORK, Aug. 16.—Probably the happiest and sleepiest young man in New York today is Roger Bailey of Jamestown, N. Y., who yesterday afternoon won the famous architects' Paris prize of the Society of Beaux Arts. The prize entitles the winner to $300, admission to the advanced class at the Ecole des Beaux Arts in Paris, and to live in Paris and travel in Europe for two and a half years as the guest of the French Government.

With no influence and totally unknown to any of the famous judges, the young man came to New York and entered the contest. Hands down he won through the first and second preliminaries and entered the finals with four other young men. For two months they have been closeted in the building of the society, each restricted to his own room, where they have worked upon the drawings and plans of "a city hall."

Without a wink of sleep Bailey plugged away at the finishing touches of his drawing from early Sunday morning until Monday night. Bailey is the first college man to win the coveted prize. He is 24 years old and is the fifteenth winner of the prize. His drawing is of a combination city hall and municipal building, to be erected on a lot 400x400, facing a public square suitably treated. The public square had also to be 400 by 400.

MAN SEVERELY INJURED WHEN AUTO IS DITCHED

Chicago Man Was Guest on Ride of St. Louisan, Who Says Lights Blinded Him.

An automobile driven by W. C. Harding, credit manager of the International Mack Motor Truck Co., ran into a ditch on the North and South road, south of Clayton road, last midnight, causing severe injuries to H. A. Davenport, 30 years old, of 1808 South Michigan boulevard, Chicago, and minor injuries to Mrs. Josephine Morris, 21, a widow, and Miss Ethel Drosda, 28, both of 3800 Olive street, who were riding with Harding and Davenport. Two of Davenport's teeth were broken off and he suffered injuries to the back.

Davenport came here on a business mission and was Harding's guest on the ride. Harding said he was blinded by the glare of another automobile's headlights and accidentally drove into the ditch.

Four men, who were said to have been detected stripping the car of its tires and accessories, were arrested and taken to the Clayton jail.

Man Thrown From Motorcycle Side Car Dies.

Michael Nick, 28 years old, of 2220 Olive street, died at Barnes Hospital at 8:20 a. m. today from injuries suffered at 9 o'clock last night, when he was thrown to the sidewalk from the side car of a motorcycle driven by Steve Theodora of 1820 Park avenue, in front of 4215 Lindell boulevard. Physicians said that Nick had suffered a slight concussion of the brain when he was taken to the hospital. The cause of his death was not definitely determined. The motorcycle hit an automobile that was parked in front of the house at the Lindell boulevard address.

Woman Injured When Thrown From Motorcycle.

Mrs. Mary Boyd, 42, of 1421 Kentucky avenue, fuffered fractures of the right arm and left hip and severe cuts and bruises at 7 o'clock last night when thrown from a motor cycle that struck a southbound Grand car at La Salle street. William Decker, 4226 Norfolk avenue, operator of the motor cycle, who escaped injury, said his machine had been crowded into the street car by an automobile. He and Merritt D. Taylor, 6722 Schofield avenue, St. Louis County, who drove the automobile, were arrested. Taylor denied he crowded the motor cycle, aserting that he was behind it and that Decker had attempted to pass the street car at high speed.

An automobile driven by Dr. James White, 3205 Chouteau avenue, and a one-horse wagon driven by William Demick, 3147A Rutger street, collided at 3 p. m. near Grand boulevard and Chouteau avenue, knocking Demick from the wagon and causing the horse to run away. Demick suffered fractures of both ankles. The horse stopped at Cardinal avenue after running into a parked automobile. Dr. White was arrested.

Miss Margaret O'Connell, 23, of 4008 Flad avenue, was knocked down and severely cut and bruised by a truck of the American Packing Co., which was being backed in front of 4001 Shenandoah avenue at 3 p. m. Marshall King, 3830 North Market, driver of the truck, was arrested.

A city ambulance driven by William Bourg, 318 Plum street, and the automobile of Dr. William P. Button, 4323 Manchester avenue, crashed together at 4 p. m. at Laclede and Boyle avenues, the ambulance also striking a standing street car. Dr. Button suffered a cut on the left hand and two negresses in the ambulance were bruised. Adam Maier, 4344 Vista avenue, who was riding with Dr. Button, was also bruised. Bourg and Dr. Button were arrested.

HARRELD RENEWS OIL MONOPOLY CHARGES

Oklahoma Senator, in Tariff Talk Names Standard, Doheny and Royal Dutch Companies.

By the Associated Press.

WASHINGTON, Aug. 16.—Tariff duties on crude petroleum and fuel oil were advocated today in the Senate by Senator Harreld, Republican, Oklahoma, as the only means of protecting the independent oil producers of the United States against what he described as monopoly by the Standard, E. L. Doheny and Royal Dutch Shell oil companies.

Renewing his charge of last August that the Standard, Doheny and Royal Shell companies were seeking to monopolize oil production in this country, Senator Harreld said that since that time Royal Shell had taken over Union Oil Co. of Delaware thus getting control of $75,000,000 worth of properties, that Standard and Doheny companies had acquired valuable holdings in California and Wyoming, and the Standard of Indiana had acquired 99 per cent of the stock of the Midwest Refinery Co.

Made Many Purchases.

The Oklahoma Senator also asserted that during the last year, when oil prices were the lowest, the monopolists succeeded in buying the holdings of a great many independent operators at practically forced sales and at a small percentage of their value.

Charging that the three companies he named had a monopoly of production of oil in Mexico, Harreld told the Senate it was their policy to charge all that the tariff would bear and that consequently the price would not be affected by a tariff. He argued that on the other hand the tariff would bring to the Government a huge amount of revenue and at the same time protect the thousands of small independent producers in the United States.

"Shrewd Operation."

Harreld said the fact that the representatives of the companies had not appeared before the finance committee to oppose the proposed rates on petroleum and fuel oil "shows how completely and shrewdly these people operate."

"They had consumers of fuel oil appear before the committee," he continued, "in the form of railroad companies, represented by one Mr. Thom, and various other users of fuel oil from various parts of the country, and oppose the imposition of this tariff."

Women Hiking to Los Angeles.

Miss Gertrude Brumley and Mrs. Louis Hamblin, both of 2504A South Twelfth street, set out at 10 a. m. today from the city hall to hike to Los Angeles, armed for the road with a letter of introduction from Mayor Kiel, photographs of themselves to sell for funds, swaggersticks, an enormous chain supported by a diminutive dog, and a big bottle of liniment for the dog's little feet. The young women are taking the hike as the most leisurely and inexpensive way of seeing the country. Mrs. Hamblin was a French war bride of a St. Louis garage man.

MRS. REEDY BOUND OVER ON DRY LAW CHARGE

Prohibition Agents Tell U. S. Commissioner They Got Drinks at Tea Room.

Mrs. Margaret Reedy, widow of William Marion Reedy, editor of Reedy's Mirror, was bound over to the Federal grand jury after a hearing today before United States Commissioner Atkins on a charge of violation of the Volstead act. She gave $1000 bond.

Prohibition enforcement agents testified that on June 4, in company with two women, they visited Mrs. Reedy's tea room on the Manchester road near the Berry road and upon their request were served with highballs. During their stay, they said, Mrs. Reedy came in and asked:

"Having a good time, boys?"

They replied that they were.

"Getting everything you want?" Mrs. Reedy then asked, they testified.

They replied again that they were, but that the player-piano in the room was out of order. They declared that Mrs. Reedy adjusted it and set it to playing.

The enforcement agents also testified that the negro waiter delivered a pint of whisky for $5 and that they drank it while Mrs. Reedy was in the room.

They made subsequent visits and were served with liquor on June 8 and June 14, they testified. Returning on July 1 with a search warrant, they testified that they found 12 pint bottles filled with whisky, 22 pints of champagne, four quarts of moonshine whisky, one one-gallon and one five-gallon jug of wine, and in the basement 27 pints of home-brew beer and five gallons of moonshine whisky.

Mrs. Reedy, who was present at the hearing, offered no defense. She was dressed in deep mourning.

Mrs. Reedy was married last month to Martin P. Heany. At the time of the visit of the prohibition enforcement agents, she told them that her name was Mrs. Margaret Reedy and that she preferred to ignore her marriage to Heany.

CHAPTER II.

Sir Sydney Grinscoombe Suffers An Insult.

"HAND me a cigarette, won't you, Pom?"

The young man addressed—a pale, small, curly young man with light and prominent eyes—rose obediently from a rug before a dancing fire and chose a cigarette from a silver box on a very solid mahogany table. It was an old mahogany table and the box was old silver. The light of the fire seemed to have sunk deep into the surface of the polished wood and the polished metal.

"Excuse me, Katrina," murmured the girl who had made the request. She was drawing delicately at the little white cylinder, to which Pom applied a match. "I didn't mean to interrupt your story. Go on. I'm horribly shocked and Pom is blushing most becomingly."

Katrina, who sat in a large chair on the other side of the fire, was small and dark and sparkling. She was dressed above the waist in a single fold of purple tulle above which her young shoulders and arms were startlingly marooned. The young man on the floor beside her was toasting marshmallows with one hand. With the other he caressed Katrina's silken ankle where it was hidden by a length of floating tulle. There were half a dozen other young people about the hearth. They were sprawled against cushions and propped against chairs. There was a good deal of floating tulle about and several very pretty and well-cared-for faces. The voices were at once eager and ennuyes, the faces were all cool and composed, to hide the natural quick gayety and animation which nevertheless electrified the air. Only the young hostess, enthroned a trifle aloof from the group in a very soft deep chair, was truly overshadowed by the cloud of life. Her lips were sullen and her eyes heavy. But, even under the cloud, she lay there along the length of the lounging-chair like a shining crescent moon. She was very fair and very smooth, her clinging dress was of silver cloth. Her long narrow feet and ankles were dressed in silver. There was a half-moon of brilliants in her hair. She had a face of so fine and clear and chiseled a perfection that it drew probing look after look to satisfy an inevitable incredulity. The lips were pink with long proud curves, the nose was a trifle pinched, the eyes were narrow and serene, of a clear, greenish gray, the brows just penciled in golden brown; the hair, all sleek and trained and groomed, fitted close about the small head like a dark golden helmet.

Katrina went on with her story. The climax was hailed by convulsive laughter. One of the youths rolled on the floor. One of the girls leaned over to inspect her marshmallow. This was to hide the shammed crimson of her face. The young Diana in the long chair did not laugh at all. Neither did she blush. She lifted her eyelids and inspected the raconteuse.

"You're getting on, Katrina," she said. "Quite soon you'll graduate into Mrs. Fayre's class."

"It's fun to make the boys blush," said Katrina. "Look at Pom."

"I'm not blushing," said that youth, who indeed was as colorless as though he had been permanently faded in a strong sun. "But I tell you what—you know—Mrs. Fayre, now—! Don't go as far as that, Katrina. She's a bit too strong."

"Of all the unblushing matrons!" said another marshmallow-toaster of an age rather more advanced than that of his companions.

Diana gave a little malicious ripple of laughter. "I've seen Mrs. Fayre blush," she said.

There rose a chorus of disbelief.

"Yes, really: It was out West last summer, when we were on that hunting trip—Tommy and Mrs. Fayre and the Doones and I. We used to sit up all hours by the camp fire. It was splendid—but Mrs. Fayre used to spoil the beauty of the night by telling her awful stories. The guides would sit and listen with their eyes on the ground. One night, though, one of them did speak. He'd been lying with his chin in his hands. He sat up and looked straight at Mrs. Fayre. She began to giggle—you know her way—and say, 'Isn't that funny? Isn't that funny?'—and Kew just spoke up gravely and slowly, the way those Westerners speak, with a sort of drag. 'You must excuse me, lady, for not laughin' any, but I heard that story years ago in a cow-camp when I was a boy.' Lelo Grinscoombe had given a remarkable imitation of the drawl with its keen edge of irony that left a cut across the silence. Katrina moved uneasily.

"And she blushed?"

"Yes. She blushed all over her face and neck and about five minutes later she slunk off to her tent and went to bed."

"Served her damn right," said the young man. "That's what they [illegible]—that sort."

"Was his name really Kew?" asked Katrina in a rather meek voice.

"That's what they called him." Lelo had relapsed into languor again. She blinked lazily at the smoke of her expiring cigarette.

Then Pom dropped a marshmallow into the fire and there was a flurry of rescue and reproach. In the midst of it a young and rosy manservant stepped softly into the room, came to Lelo's chair and handed her a slip of paper.

"A—er—gentleman to see you, miss. You would be expecting him, he said. He had no card, miss, and I couldn't seem to catch his name, so he wrote it down for you, miss."

Heloise Grinscoombe bent her golden helmet and her crescent of brilliants over the paper.

"Q. T. Kinwydden," she read to herself and looked up. The boredom and the sullenness had left her face, which was quite radiant with surprise, amusement, and a sort of fantastic dismay.

"Where is he, James?"

"In the south room, miss."

"Very well. I'll see him. Tell him I'll be there."

She stood up to a slim tall height.

"I'll be back in a minute," she said, smiling down at the expectant faces. "Then I'll have something amusing to tell you. As Mrs. Fayre would say—'Isn't it funny? Isn't it funny?'"

She moved slowly out from the circle of fire glow through the large dimness of the room and shut the door. Curiosity was left to toast its marshmallows.

Facing Q. T. Kinwydden, where he stood waiting in the south room, there hung on the wall above the fireplace a portrait of Heloise Grinscoombe's great-great and many greats grandfather. The portrait was well copied from the original in the London National Gallery. The gentleman wore an enormous curled and powdered wig, a lace cravat, a wine-colored coat, and long ruffles over hands that rested on the golden knob of a stick. Wedge-shaped and pale between the masses of his wig, his face looked down—a handsome and unpleasant countenance. He had narrow green-gray eyes, and sneering lips. There were lines of dissipation and ill-humor about his mouth. The brush that had painted him must have been dipped into an understanding hatred. The sitter seemed to know this and to be rather ironically amused. Kinwydden's observation, being quickly done with the low-ceilinged room and its delicate old gilded and brocaded furniture, centered on this portrait. Presently he strode close and stared straight up into the contemptuous eyes.

"You d—d curly,"—he used a favorite Western epithet, "I'll be derned if you ain't a man!" A fantastic hatred possessed him. Deliberately he lifted his fingers and snapped them close before the long and delicate nose. "I ain't afeared of you," he said.

There was a light sound in the hall and Kinwydden faced about and straightened. He crushed his soft hat behind him in his hands. He was pale under the eternal brown of his Western sun. Except for that, no one would have guessed at the terrifying labor of his pulses. In the slight grace of his surroundings he looked especially tall and grim, stately, not unimpressive. The long gold-colored curtains parted and Heloise came quickly toward him, holding out her hand.

"Why, Kew," she said in her light, cool voice, "this is the most delightful and thrilling surprise."

His hand closed like warm iron over hers. He looked at her with no change in his mask. But, for a moment, it was impossible for him to speak. He was struck breathless by her beauty. He had never seen her like this. She had looked in camp, in her riding breeches and flannel shirt, her hair a double lump of gold on her neck, a much younger and less considerable person. She had had a franker and more simple air. Her beauty had been more native, more homely, more of the woods. There had not been this long grace of step and carriage. Now, his imagination leaped to the memory of a bright new moon shining above his campfire just silvering the tops of the firs.

She drew away her hand and he got back his voice and his smile, both of them badly shaken.

"It hadn't ought to surprise you any—me bein' here," he said. "I meant what I told you."

Heloise sat down and he, too, obeying her gesture, drew up one of the gilded chairs. He kept his eyes bravely upon her, but there was an air about him now of a wary wild thing half-conscious of a trap.

"Do you suppose I remember everything you told me—out there in the hills! Oh, Kew"—dropping her determined and mocking lightness—"wasn't it wonderful! How I wish we were there now—up in the mountains by that stream—the camp-fire—and the stars—and the horses cropping!"

"I wish we was too," he said. His throat was contracted by the bitter intensity of his wish. Out there he had been master, he had been dominant, the leader, the one who knew. It had seemed natural enough there, all that he felt. And to her it had evidently seemed not too unnatural. They were, after all, as she had told him, man and woman. Kinwydden braced himself. He must not give her one glimpse of his profound misgivings. They could not materially affect the iron of his resolve, but they might disturb his forces woefully.

"Well, ma'am," he said, and he smiled coolly enough, "I haven't forgotten anything you said out there. And that's the reason I have come trailin' you to Sluypenkill."

"It was sweet of you," she smiled. "You're on your way?"——

"Nowheres. I'm here. I've made camp."

She lifted her eyebrows so that the crescent of brilliants moved and glittered. "Made camp? Here?"

"Yes, ma'am. At the River Hotel. I'm agoin' to get that edication you told me was the only thing that stood atween us—you and me—a man and a woman."

Heloise moved slightly in her chair. She seemed, from the look of her, to be selecting her answer as carefully as though it had been an edged tool. Such tools, however, have two edges.

"Kew," she said, "there is one thing I have not forgotten. That is that you saved my life."

He flushed deeply. "I don't think I quite like you rememberin' that—just now," he said.

The quickness and shrewdness of his intuition startled her. She had taken it for granted that all the skill would be on her side in this game to which she had—in the idleness of a forest holiday—lightly challenged him, but to which he had bent his will with a grimness that had begun now seriously to frighten her.

"I couldn't possibly forget it, Kew—now or any other time. Besides, I've promised you my friendship."

"Yes, ma'am. You did promise me your friendship. But that was quite a ways back. You have to skip some time to get back to that. Still, I'm not askin' no more from you—as yet, ma'am."

She smiled, though her face was scarlet. "I'm glad. I should love to be your friend."

"But you have got to keep rememberin', Miss Grinscoombe, that I am not pledged to that trail. Somewhere I turn off."

"It's good to hear you talk, Kew. It takes me back to last October. So you're going to stay at the River Hotel. Isn't it an impossible place? It looks so. And who's going to give you your education?" She added maliciously, "Beside me."

This brought from him a narrowed look and a flush. "Yes, ma'am. That's sure the truth. You'll be givin' me the biggest part of my edication." He smiled grimly. "I can take a whole lot of punishment from you—if it's agoin' to help any."

"I am not making any promises but one of friendship," she warned him.

"I know that, Miss Grinscoombe. But, all the same, I'll be thankful for any help. It's all slide rock and down timber to me—this edication business."

"But why should I want to help you?" she asked. It was as though she flicked him with a cruel little whip.

He fixed upon her a hard and brilliant gaze. "Because you kind of—do," he drawled at his gentlest.

She blushed again faintly. It was true, she did—want to help him—as an experiment? As a dangerous game? Or for some deeper and more human reason?

"Very well," she admitted. "I do. I want to see what you can make out of yourself. It's rather splendid of you. You have everything against you, of course."

He had turned his eyes to the portrait. "Say," he asked her suddenly, "who is that feller—with the hair?"

"Sir Sydney Grinscoombe—my great-great-great-great-grandfather."

"Don't he look it, though? Don't he fancy himself? Well, ma'am"—his eyes came back to her without explanation of their excursion—"if you'll give me some trainin', I'll sure be grateful."

She considered him: her young smile was rather mocking. "I wonder," she said, "if you'd stand for it."

He did not flinch, though the dread in his eyes was perfectly apparent to her.

"Yes, ma'am," he promised her and smiled a fine grim little smile.

"Very well. The first suggestion I would make is that you go to a good tailor and get some real clothes and have the right kind of a haircut."

He was scarlet, but kept his eyes up bravely. "Yes, ma'am, I'll do that. And thank you kindly."

"You see, when I was in the West, I dressed for the West. Now, you're in the East and—"

"Yes—ma'am. I savvy. I had a notion these was first-class. The man in the Chicago store told me so. It was a classy-laaking store, too."

"They're awful. I'll give you the name of a tailor," said Heloise gravely. "If you want to spend the money?"

"Yes, ma'am. I'm aimin' to pay for my edication."

"Here endeth the first lesson," she smiled. The quotation missed him completely, as he had never seen the inside of a church. But he too smiled, and valorously.

"Well, Miss Grinscoombe, didn't I take it lyin' down?"

"You did. You're a good sport. Now, Kew, listen. I've a party of friends in there waiting for me. Won't you let me call you up and arrange for a nice quiet friendly talk some time when I'm free? I want you"—her eyes gleamed mirthfully—"to meet my aunt."

He said nothing. He had risen and was looking at her fixedly.

"Oh," she said, with quickness, "of course, I'd love you to meet my friends. But this is—a—er—a sort of club. It wouldn't be any fun for you."

"I savvy. Well, good-night to you, Miss Grinscoombe."

A moment later he was alone out in the damp chilliness of the May night. He found his way down the long straight poplar-shadowed driveway to the stone gateposts and turned resolutely down the road townwards. The lights gleamed from across the river in a double row. A train rumbled below the steep bank. Dogs were barking here and there. A motor glared upon him and hummed into darkness again. He walked fast, his head down, his hands tightened into fists, his teeth clenched.

"It's agoin' to hurt," he thought. "It's agoin' to hurt bad. But"—he flung up his chin—"by God! I'll win. A woman and a man. A woman and a man. She said so herself. You d——curly—!" He was speaking to the gentleman with the curled wig whose face seemed to be painted in phosphorescence against his eyelids. There was a cruel resemblance to Heloise which Kinwydden refused to recognize.

Presently he relaxed, stopped to roll and light a cigarette. With the familiar comforter between his lips, he swung more lightly on his way. Now he was smiling a little.

"You're a plumb fool, Q. T.," was his conclusion. And he began to call himself quaint and quite horrifying names.

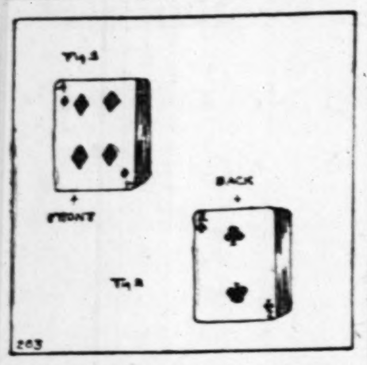
After-Dinner Tricks



No. 203—To Tell Unseen Cards.

The pack is held with the bottom toward the audience. The performer places it behind his back a moment, then again holds it so that the spectators can see the bottom card. He names this card. Again the pack is placed behind the back, and when brought out a different card is on the face. The performer names this one, also, and repeats the trick several times.

A few of the top cards of the pack were secretly placed back to back with the rest of the cards. While holding the pack toward the spectators, the performer notes the first of these cards and remembers it. When the pack is placed behind the back he shifts this known card to the face (Fig. 1). Thus when he again exhibits the pack he can name the card the audience is looking at and at the same time note the next car that is facing him (Fig. 2), so as to repeat the trick.

A Happy Contrast

By Winifred Black

THERE, now—it isn't all jazz and affinities and soul mates and love pirates—not quite!

Here is a letter that says so:

Dear Winifred Black:

I want to tell you about a man I know. He is 68 years old and he was married when he was 20. All his life his wife and three children were his one thought. His wife died about three years ago and though any one of his children would be glad to have him live with them, he won't go because they live too far away from her grave, and every week he goes and puts flowers on her grave. And he is happy and cheerful and content knowing that he will die in the house where they spent so many years of joy and sorrow together.

I knew the little woman, too, and many a time she told me that he was her first sweetheart and that she had never been sorry for one minute that she had married him.

Don't you think that the world would be just a little better if the papers and books told more about good people, love stories like this, and not so much about Cleopatras and Saphos and some of our modern vamps?

And have you ever noticed that it is the thing that is held before us that we want to copy? If there were more people proud of being good and having just one love and marriage the rest would be just a little ashamed of so much free love and so many divorces.

A MODERN WOMAN.

For Each Other.

Isn't it a relief to hear about a man like that?

Doesn't it make you feel that life is worth living to know that such fidelity and such deep love and such tender memory can exist in this careless, easy-going, shallow-hearted world of ours?

What a dear old man he must be, this one who remembers.

And how happy he is, too, living in his dream and his memories.

He never had any other sweetheart, and neither did she—lucky mortals!

There must have been something very dear about both of them to be so chosen out of all the world for each other, when they were young.

What a contented, grateful heart she must have had—the little old lady—when she and the husband of her youth sat together in the evening of life and talked over the days when they were young.

What Dignity He Has!

How stupid and silly, and vulgar and cheap, it all must have seemed to her, this talk of a dozen loves and three or four marriages and nobody knows how many "affairs" of various sorts!

What a delight it must have been to her to realize that when her husband spoke of women he meant not this blonde or that brunette, not this vamp or that flapper, but just the plain, sweet, gentle little girl he loved when he was 20 and she was not quite 18.

What dignity he has—the quiet old man who will not even try to forget.

No silly tears, no foolish melancholia, just a simple, cheerful way of looking forward to the hour when his old sweetheart will stand in the doorway and hold out her hands to him and he will rise and follow her.

Yes, my dear, I think we would be better if we read and thought and talked more about good people and true hearts and faithful lives, and I thank you for your letter telling us this beautiful story.

THE RHYMING OPTIMIST

The Builder and the Breaker

TWO kinds of folks we daily meet upon this sphere sojourning, in every house on every street whatever way we're turning. Two kinds of folks who can't agree on any theme you mention, two kinds whose methods do not gee, whose aims are in contention. There's one kind of work with patient art at each day's labor striving, still plodding on with steadfast heart and finally—arriving. These are the builders, theirs the task of adding joy to living; the greatest boon for which they ask is just the gift of giving. They're ever building, stone by stone, and daily they're improving, and it's the builders who alone have kept this old world moving. Each year they're building better roads, they're raising better peaches, the drays they make pull bigger loads, the men make better speeches. The aeroplane's improving fast, and soon we'll all be flying; the radio is here at last, some builder kept on trying. The other kind would ruin things the builder loved in making; he scoffed about the airship's wings and Burbank's nature faking. He sneered a caustic little sneer when pure food laws were pending; he coldly grinned from ear to ear at talk of wireless sending. Oh, do you break or do you build? Which class do you belong in? Does each day's dawning find you thrilled at work that there's a song in? The builder's part is often slow, but swift the work of breaking; the breaker smashes at a blow what took long months in making. Two classes labor side by side amid earth's stress and clamor; the builder with his honest pride, the breaker with his hammer.

YOU'LL GET RID OF BLACKHEADS SURE

There is one simple, safe and sure way that never fails to get rid of blackheads, that is to dissolve them.

To do this get two ounces of calonite powder from any drug store—sprinkle a little on a hot, wet sponge—rub over the blackheads briskly—wash the parts and you will be surprised how the blackheads have disappeared. Big blackheads, little blackheads, no matter where they are, simply dissolve and disappear, leaving the parts without any mark whatever. Blackheads are simply a mixture of dust and dirt and secretions from the body that form in the pores of the skin. Pinching and squeezing only cause irritation, make large pores and do not get the blackheads out after they become hard. The calonite powder and the water simply dissolve the blackheads so they wash right out, leaving the pores free and clean and in their natural condition. Anyone troubled with these unsightly blemishes should certainly try this simple method.

The Home Kitchen

The Authority on Home Cooking

Here Are Some Unusual Ways to Cook Clams.

RANKING next in importance to the oyster, the clam is the mollusk of edible interest found on the eastern and western coasts. The hard-shelled, round clam or quahaug, is plentiful along the coast from Cape Cod to Texas. The long clam or soft clam in the thin shell, called the maninose, is generously distributed from the coast of the Carolinas to the Arctic Ocean. A smaller variety of this clam is the justly celebrated "steamer." Razor, little neck and butter clams are plentiful on the Pacific Coast, while Puget Sound is famous for its big hard-shells, which measure 10 to 12 inches across the shell, and are known locally as geoducks. Two of these clams make a chowder for 10 persons.

In preparing clam broth for the table or for an invalid, procure fresh, hard-shelled clams, scrub them clean, rinse carefully, then put them into a kettle with clean, cold water to cover them. When the clams boil up set them back to cook slowly for from one-half to three-quarters of an hour, strain the juice through a bit of cheesecloth stretched across the strainer, and serve the broth hot or cold, adding a little pepper. Sometimes a tablespoonful of chopped celery leaves is added with the juice of an onion.

The clams may be removed from the shells, minced not too finely, then put into a little cream sauce and served on toast as a breakfast or luncheon dish. Cooking the broth this length of time gives it a finer flavor than cooking it quickly, the old-fashioned way.

Another way to use up the clams left over from the broth is to rinse the shells free of grit and rinse the clams if they are gritty before mincing. Butter the shells well, inside. Add a quarter of a cupful of crumbs, pepper, the juice of an onion, a teaspoonful of chopped celery leaves, a saltspoonful of curry powder, a saltspoonful of sugar, a teaspoonful of Worcestershire sauce, the beaten yolk of an egg, and a tablespoonful of cream. Fill the shells lightly with the mixture, put a little piece of butter on top of each, set in a shallow pan and put in the oven. Bake the clams until they are a d brown. It is best to put a littl ter in the bottom of the pan, bu enough to get into the shells.

BURGESS BEDTIME STORIES

The Little Foxes See Bowser

By Thornton W. Burgess.

Who heeds his elders and obeys
Will surely lengthen out his days.

—Mrs. Reddy Fox.

OVER in the Old Pasture Mrs. Reddy Fox and the four young Foxes sat listening to the voice of Bowser the Hound as he chased Reddy Fox. Sometimes it was so faint that they could hardly hear it. Again it would be so loud that Mrs. Reddy would grow anxious lest Reddy was heading for the Old Pasture.

At first the young Foxes had been merely curious, but after their mother had told them about Bowser the Hound the sound of his voice filled them with a strange fear. This was exactly what their mother wanted. She wanted them to be afraid. She wanted them to be so afraid that they always would take care to keep away from those places where Bowser the Hound would be likely to be.

Presently Mrs. Reddy got to her feet. "Come," said she. "Follow me closely and don't one of you turn aside. Keep at my heels." Then she started off along an old cow path through the bushes of the Old Pasture.

The four young Foxes obediently followed. The first one kept very close to her heels. The second one was right at the heels of the first. The third was so close to the second that his nose was tickled by the hair on the end of his brother's tail. The last one of all was so close to the third that he almost stepped on his black heels. They wondered where they were going, but they asked no questions.

Under the bushes and around bramble-tangles Mrs. Reddy led the way. At the back of the Old Pasture was a hill and the top of this hill was bare. It was toward this that Mrs. Reddy was heading. By and by they reached the top. Mrs. Reddy made the four young Foxes lie down while she stole forward to see that all was well. Presently she barked softly. This was a signal to the young Foxes to come. At once they ran out to where she was lying down on a big flat rock. There, without being told, they lay down beside her. It was funny to see how each one tried to do just as she was doing.

Now, from this big rock on the top of the hill in the Old Pasture there was a splendid view. The young Foxes never had been there before. They never had been where they could look so far. So at first they gave no thought to anything but looking. They could see all over the Green Meadows. They could see Farmer Brown's. Mrs. Reddy pointed this out to them and told them that there was where Bowser the Hound lived and that never must they go near there.

But it wasn't just for the view that their mother had brought those young Foxes up there. Just at the foot of the hill on one side was the beginning of the Green Forest. Reddy was running in the Green Forest. Mrs. Reddy knew just where he was running and just where he would run. She was sure that before long he would come along a certain old road at the very foot of the hill in the Old Pasture. Then he would once more turn back into the Green Forest.

Reddy did just exactly that. They had been lying on that big rock only a short time when the sound of Bowser's voice began to grow louder. It grew louder and louder until to the four young Foxes it was the most terrible sound they ever had heard. They wanted to run, but their mother didn't move and so they didn't move. They just lay there and shivered.

Presently the four young Foxes saw that it was their father, Reddy Fox.

Then far down in the old road appeared a little moving red speck. It drew nearer and nearer. Presently the four young Foxes saw that it was their father, Reddy Fox. He was running as if very tired. Two or three times he stopped to listen, then started on again. Down right past the foot of the hill without even a glance up ran Reddy and disappeared among the bushes. Hardly was he out of sight when Bowser the Hound appeared far down the road.

At first Bowser was only a speck. But soon he was near enough for the young Foxes to see him clearly. He was running with his nose to the ground, and if he was tired he didn't show it. His great voice rang in their ears, and it was plain that he was enjoying that chase. When he passed just below them the young Foxes saw what a big fellow he was. Very fierce and terrible he looked to them.

Fashion News Notes

NEW YORK—Among the old-time fashions which are being revived this season is that of wielding a fan. Not the big ostrich fan that can be used on formal and special occasions only, but the smaller and less fragile sort so useful on a warm afternoon. Some of the newer fans are of silk gauze, painted with quaint Dresden motifs. The fan with pearl or ivory sticks is again in vogue.

PARIS.—There is still another variation to the cape. It was worn by a popular actress in a recent popular play. Her gown was a sheath-like creation of bright blue silk, cut in a low but narrow V front and back, and drooping to a short train at the left. At the left shoulder blade was fastened a black satin cape which was brought around loosely under the right arm, allowed to fall below the waist and caught up on the left hip with two enormous orange velvet roses.

PARIS.—Many of the skirts show a return to the straight hem line, which, it must be admitted, is rather a relief after the draggled silhouette that has been in vogue so long. One Poiret gown, however, makes a neat compromise between the even and uneven hems. The dress of citron crepe marocain has a round, gathered skirt which ends in 10 sharply pointed scallops. Since each of these scallops is the same length as the rest, a delightful unevenness is attained.

LONDON.—Not too much embroidery—this is the fancy of the moment. A gown looks a little strange with only half a dozen bits of embroidered motifs upon it, after the many months of elaborately decorated girdles, bodices and panels. The only ornamentation upon one dinner dress of fawn chiffon was an embroidered dahlia in shades of red and rose in the exact middle of the front panel, just above the hem. Another dahlia was posed high on the plain bodice, near the left shoulder.

NEW YORK.—As the recent fashion show here has demonstrated, most of the fall models, both in cloaks and in gowns, will fasten on one side. Moreover, they will be draped or trimmed on one side. And, further still, if the skirt is draped, as it often is, the longer end of the draping comes at the side. Winter cloaks have enormous collars, so high that the last button touches the nose, which is a quaint contrast with the care-free sleeves, so loose that any gust of wind may find the wearer's elbow.

The Bhutanese women, in India, were probably the first to "bob" their hair.

HEROINES OF HISTORY

Significant Facts in the Lives of Famous Women

By MARK STUYVESANT

How Mary Grotius Saved Her Husband From Death in Prison

MARY GROTIUS was the daughter of Baron Reigesberg of Zealand. On July, 1608, she was married to Hugh Grotius, a famous writer, and it is the story of her loyalty to him and how she gained his release from prison which places her among the heroines of the olden times.

In 1619 Grotius was sentenced to prison for life because he dared to tell the truth as he saw it in his writings on politics. When he was sent to the fortress of Louvestein, his wife begged that she might be permitted to go with him. The request was granted on condition that if she once entered the prison she should never come out again.

Her love for her husband being stronger than her love for freedom, Mary Grotius readily consented to go into confinement for life. In prison, Grotius devoted himself entirely to his literary success, with his helpful wife ever beside him. While Grotius worked and studied, Mme. Grotius was seeking to find a way to effect the liberation of her husband.

She had gained the consent of the prison officials to borrow books for him. The books were carried back and forth in the chest in which his clothes were carried to and from his laundress. The first year the guards were very exact in examining the trunk. But never finding anything save linen and books they finally became careless, and did not bother to open the trunk as it was carried out of the prison.

If Mme. Grotius could only prevail upon her husband to make his escape in the trunk! Could it be done?

The trunk was only three and one-half feet in length, and he was not a small man. Besides, the trip from Louvestein to Gercom was a long one.

Finally, Mme. Grotius bored holes in the trunk and concealed her husband in it for about as long as she thought it would take to make the trip. Yes, he could stand it. So one day he disappeared while the commandant of the prison was away. The faithful wife pretended that her husband was very ill for several days and begged the jail keepers not to come near their compartment for fear of disturbing him.

Soon they discovered that Grotius had made his escape. How had he managed to get away? What did Madame know? He was missing—that was all, and she had feared to tell them.

Grotius went to Paris where he had many friends to hide him. Finally Mme. Grotius was released from prison after the search for her husband seemed futile, and she joined him in France. They were never recaptured.

Have you tried this fragrant cream Deodorant?

THE very name Immac suggests the nicety of its use. Just a tiny bit of this snow white, rose scented cream will neutralize all body odor, free one from embarrassment or possible offence to others.

Immac is neither sticky nor greasy and takes but a moment to apply—vanishing as quickly. It is perfectly harmless, soothing to the skin in fact, and has a tendency to smooth and whiten the underarm. No extra talcum or dusting powder required. Immac does not stain or injure clothing.

Immac comes in a convenient tube and costs but a quarter, a small price to pay for so necessary a toilet requisite. You will find Immac at Scruggs, Grand Leader, Famous-Barr, Nugents, Judge and Dolph, Wolff Wilson, Johnson Bros., or at your neighborhood drug store. Hannibal Pharmacal Co., 615 Locust St., St. Louis.

EDDIE FOSTER.

THE Brownies, determined to capture the flag.
Have added a guy to their roster
To plug up the hole at the difficult bag,
None other than old Eddie Foster.
Although he may not be a Frisch or a Groh,
He's clever and steady as infielders go.

The Brownies went into the enemy's camp
And got him on waivers from Boston;
And few are possessed of three men of the stamp
Of Ellerbe, Foster and Austin.
Though one is a cripple and one is passe
Of infielding talent they're quite an array.

In lieu of a national bank or a mine,
The Brownies secured him by waiver;
And thousands of customers freely opine
That Eddie will be a life saver.
The purchase involving no bundle of swag,
They cannot accuse us of buying the flag.

TOUGH LUCK.

THE Cubs blew into our town
And gave the fans a pain;
The Cards thought they would throw 'em down.
And on the Giants gain.
Alas! Our cup is filled with woe.
Those Cubs dealt us a cruel blow;
They took three frolics in a row.
Then ducked right out again.

TOO TRUE.

Seeing that the Cards were inclined to falter in their efforts to uphold the honor and glory of the West, the Cubs decided to do a little pennant chasing on their own account.

"Bonus Bill Seems Sure of Passage."

And we'll say for old Bonus Bill that he has been having a pretty tough passage.

"Man Fined $10 for Fishing With Seine."

"Man Sues Employers for $2,000,000."

Right or wrong, he's no piker.

Missouri now ranks third in the manufacture of shoes. Indicating that the old slogan should be revised to read "First in booze and third in shoes."

Incidentally the bootlegging industry doesn't seem to have stimulated the manufacture of boots.

The Buyers' Fair has entered on its second week in New York. Johnny McGraw and the two Colonels are not interested, as the baseball market closed on Aug 1.

See where Congressman Rhodes' campaign for renomination cost him $77. Hardly enough to corrupt an unborn child.

"Senator Reed Aids in Defeating Removal of Oil Cake From Free List."

Atta boy, Senator. Oil cake, while no doubt very pleasing to the palate, is not a luxury.

Incidentally we are glad to note that the Senator is showing his old-time form in the opposition line.

Any time you want anything from Jim make him believe that you're against it.

ALL ACCORDING TO SPECIFICATIONS.

"NOW, then, children," said the Sunday school teacher in her best Sunday school teacher's manner, "the lesson for today is about the Prophet Elisha. Can any little boy or little girl here tell us anything about Elisha?"

"Me," answered a 10-year-old urchin, holding up his hand. "I can tell about him."

"Very well, then, Eddie," answered the teacher. "Now, then, all the rest of you be nice and quiet while Eddie here, tells us about the Prophet Elisha."

"Well," said Eddie, "Elisha was an old bald-headed preacher. One day he was goin' along the big road and he came past where some children were playin' in the sand, and they laughed at him and poked fun at him and called him names and hollered, 'Oh, look at that old bald-headed man!' That made Elisha hoppin' mad and he stopped and turned and shook his fist at 'em and he said: 'Don't you kids make fun of me any more! If you do I'll call some bears out of them woods yonder and they'll shore eat you up.'

"And they did and he did and the bears did."
